Disruption Planned By Indians

Vancouver Island Native Indians will continue as much as possible to disrupt Captain Cook bicentennial festivities, the Times has learned.

Chief John Albany said today the band has decided not to participate because of the Capt. Cook theme.

He said the Songhees support the Indians' opposition to the Capt. Cook bicentennial celebrations.

Some West Coast Indian groups feel it is inappropriate to celebrate a white man's discovery of land which had been inhabited for centuries by the Indian people.

Albany said that generally speaking, his band supports the Victoria Day celebrations and will participate next year.

George Watts, a spokesman for West Coast Island Indians, said the disruptions may take a different form from last Friday when Travel Industry Minister Grace McCarthy was forced to leave a stage in Port Alberni when she was drowned out by 100 chanting and drum-beating Indians.

He said at other times the Indians may just hold an alternative meeting in the same city and show their own films.

Watts, chairman of the West Coast District Council of Native Indians, said the Indians see no reason to celebrate the arrival of Capt. Cook to the west coast.

That event 200 years ago was the beginning of the deterioration of the Indian way of living, Watts said, and symbolizes to the Indians the loss of some of their basic rights such as the right to aboriginal lands.

"If you wanted Indian participation, you should have given us something to celebrate . . . rather than these oppressive policies," he said.

Watts countered McCarthy's comment last Friday that it is only a small group of dissatisfied Indians which is disrupting the Capt. Cook celebrations by saying his group has the support of the majority of B.C. Indians.

He said he is backed by 100 Indian bands and the United Native Indians, which repressents about 60,000 non-status Indians.

"If she thinks it is just a few Indians who are disatisfied with her government she is in for a surprise," Watts said.

Murderers Could Walk Free

OTTAWA (CP) — The murderers of former Italian premier Aldo Moro could conceivably walk the streets of Canada as free men under new extradition legislation proposed by the government, Liberal MP Ken Robinson said today.

The Toronto lawyer interrupted a Commons justice committee meeting to announce that Moro's body had been found, adding murderers "could come to Canada and stay here" under the proposed legislation.

In line with agreements and treaties with other countries, Canada wants to reserve the right not to extradite fugitives if they face the death penalty.

The new legislation says the Canadian justice minister may refuse to extradite in such circumstances.

Another section of the new law says that if the justice minister does refuse to extradite, he must allow the fugitive to "return to society."

Woolliams also said that Charles Manson, a California leader of a cult found guilty of several murders, also might be a free man in Canada under the new laws.

The bill has already passed in the Senate and Simma Holt (L—Vancouver-Kingsway) said she is "darned disgusted the senators could pass this law."

She said senators had the time to study such bills and the ability to spot bad law.

DEATH ENDS 55-DAY DRAMA

Red Brigades Slay Kidnapped Moro, Dump Body in Rome

Crowds jam Rome street where body of Moro was found in a parked car

ROME (AP) — The blood-smeared body of former Italian premier Aldo Moro, shot in the back of the head, his hands and feet chained, was found in a parked car in the heart of Rome today, 55 days after he was kidnapped by the terrorist Red Brigades.

Police said they found five spent cartridges in the car, a stolen red Renault bearing Rome licence plates.

The body was loaded into an ambulance and taken away. Police cordoned off the area. Crowds of weeping Romans congregated on the tiny street.

"Bastards, bastards," one woman cried. "He suffered so much."

The 61-year-old Moro also had several wounds in the back, police sources said.

The body was found at 1:30 p.m. on Via Michelangelo Caetani, a narrow cobblestoned street of 15th- and 16th-century palaces running alongside Communist party headquarters and just a stone's throw from Christian Democratic headquarters. It was just two blocks from the busiest intersection in Rome.

Officers went to the area and discovered the body after police headquarters received an anonymous telephone call saying a bomb had been placed in a car parked on Via Funari, a street adjacent to the 200-metre-long Via Caetani.

They found nothing on Via Funari but then checked Via Caetani.

The car apparently had been parked on the street for several hours, police said.

The body, hunched over on the floor of the car's back seat, was clad in the same dark grey suit Moro was wearing when he was kidnapped March 16 by a dozen terrorists who ambushed his two-car motorcade on a Rome street, killing his five police bodyguards.

A blue overcoat and red blanket also were wrapped around the body. It was discovered by a police bomb expert who broke into the car. Firemen who saw it said the face was extremely pale and Moro's five-foot, 11-inch frame had lost considerable weight.

Employment Picture Brightens In B.C.

THE BYRDS
FRANKLIN ALWAYS SAID HE WAS ONE IN A MILLION... AND SURE ENOUGH HE'S UNEMPLOYED.

OTTAWA (CP) — Unemployment improved in April for the first time in six months with the actual number of jobless standing at 999,000, Statistics Canada reported today.

But the jobless rate when adjusted for seasonal changes, which indicates trends in the work force, remained unchanged from March's post-1930s high of 8.6 per cent.

British Columbia showed the biggest improvement, with its unemployment rate falling last month to 7.7 per cent from 8.5 per cent.

The figures show that April's jobless total was an improvement from the peak of 1,045,000 estimated in March. In April, 1977, there were 914,000 unemployed.

The actual jobless rate was 9.3 per cent, compared with 9.7 per cent in March and 8.8 per cent in April last year.

The number of persons with jobs stood at 9,752,000, the highest total since November. A year earlier, there were 9,425,000 persons working.

The seasonally-adjusted jobless rate rose in four provinces, declined in five and remained unchanged at 7.4 per cent in the largely industrial province of Ontario.

Jobless rates for women of all ages fell but the rates for men increased.

The rate for women 15 to 24 dropped to 13.4 per cent from 14.1 per cent in March while that for women 25 and over fell to 7.8 per cent from 8.1 per cent.

For men 15 to 24 the jobless rate worsened to 16.1 per cent from 15.9 per cent. Men 25 and over saw their unemployment rate climb to 5.4 per cent from 5.1 per cent.

Ontario had the most unemployed with 330,000 last month, edging out Quebec with 329,000.

The unemployment rate rose in New Brunswick to 14 per cent from 13.3 per cent in March, increased to 11.1 per cent from 10.5 per cent in Prince Edward Island, jumped to 6.8 per cent in Manitoba from 6.5 per cent and was up to 4.8 per cent from 4.5 per cent in Alberta, the province with the lowest jobless rate.

Quebec's jobless rate declined to 11.2 per cent from 11.5 per cent while Newfoundland, still with the worst jobless rate, improved to 16.3 per cent from 16.5 per cent.

Nova Scotia's jobless rate fell to 11 per cent from 11.2 per cent, while Saskatchewan's improved to 5.6 per cent from 5.7 per cent.

Among major cities, St. John's, Nfld., had the worst jobless rate at 14.6 per cent while Edmonton fared best at five per cent.

The survey was the first taken after Finance Minister Jean Chretien announced cuts in the provincial retail sales taxes in his April 10 budget. The tax cuts are meant to stimulate consumer demand and to help job creation.

While the unemployment rate has remained high for months, the U.S. rate dropped in April to its lowest level in 3½ years at six per cent.

Terrorists Attack Hotel

SALISBURY (AP) — Two black guerrillas burst into the dining room of a luxurious mountain hotel in eastern Rhodesia and opened fire with machine-guns, killing two white Rhodesian women and wounding four other guests, officials said.

One guest at the Montclair Hotel was slain as she was eating supper. The second victim, a hotel employee, was killed near the door, first reports said.

While the two gunmen were inside the dining room, other guerrillas fired rockets and mortars at another part of the building in the Inyanga Mountains, destroying a room, a witness said.

First reports said the military closed the hotel, but later the owner, Ann Lount, reported by telephone: "We're carrying on." She said damage to the 56-room hotel was not extensive, and a conference of the Rhodesian Law Society will be held there Wednesday on schedule.

The hotel is 130 kilometres east of Salisbury and 32 kilometres from Mozambique, the base for most guerrilla offensives in the war against the white government of Prime Minister Ian Smith.

THIS RECIPE REAL BLAST

The publisher announced there was an error in a recipe for Silky Caramel Slices in its recent book, Woman's Day Crockery Cuisine by Sylvia Vaughn Thompson, which "could cause a serious explosion."

Random House said it had recalled all copies of the book from wholesalers and retail bookstores, but added that about 10,000 copies were already believed in the hands of buyers. It urged that the recipe, on pages 230 and 231 of the Random House edition, "be obliterated with crayon or black ink marker."

A statement from the publisher said: "If the recipe is followed, the condensed milk can could explode and shatter the lid and liner of the crockery cooker."

What happened? Spokesman William Loverd said that "somewhere along the line" an ingredient, water, got dropped from the recipe. A Random House employee was trying the recipe, noticed that it wasn't working and reported the problem.

Loverd said the company had not heard of any exploding crockery cookers or injuries. He said the recipe would be dropped from any future reprints.

Feds Stealing Tourists From B.C. for Quebec?

The federal government appears to be tracking down tourists who visit B.C. in an effort to persuade them to visit Quebec this year instead, Bob Skelly (NDP—Alberni) told the legislature Monday.

Skelly asked Travel Minister Grace McCarthy if she made mailing lists on non-residents who have visited B.C. available to the Canadian Government Office of Tourism.

The minister said there is some sharing of lists among governments, but she wasn't aware of federal tourism agency getting B.C. lists.

She said she will look into the situation.

Skelly said he learned a U.S. citizen who has visited B.C. every year for the past 10 years was suddenly being solicited by mail from the federal tourist agency to visit Quebec this year.

Word came to Skelly from the proprietor of a fishing lodge near Burns Lake where the Virginian annually spends about $1,000.

The visitor asked the fishing camp owner where the federal government got his name and address.

When he comes into B.C., he reports at the border and buys a non-resident fishing licence — his only two official contacts, the fisherman said.

He said it appears obvious the mailing lists came from some B.C. government list.

Fish Anyway Gov't Tells Canadians

Times News Services

A federal fisheries spokesman said Monday in Vancouver that British Columbia fishermen should head for fishing grounds off Washington and Alaska until a question of access is settled in United States courts.

Ian Todd, manager of the department's offshore commercial fisheries division, said he expects the U.S. government to appeal a decision made by a district court judge last week.

Judge Donald Vorhees issued a temporary injunction forbidding Canadian boats from fishing within the U.S. 200-mile limit, but he stayed his order for seven days to allow time for appeal. The injunction was requested by the Washington Trollers Association and the Quileute Indian tribe.

Todd made his comments after a meeting with government, union and fishing company representatives.

In Victoria, Premier Bill Bennett said he has asked Prime Minister Trudeau to take immediate action to protect the rights of B.C. fishermen.

Bennett said one possible course of action is retaliatory action "to preclude such fisheries off the Canadian West Coast."

The dispute would be alleviated, he said, by a successful appeal later this week or early congressional approval of an Interim Reciprocal Fisheries Agreement for 1978.

Gov't Moving to Curb Rx Use

Health Minister Bob McClelland said Monday his ministry is taking steps to cut down on the over-issuance of prescription drugs.

He told a luncheon meeting of the Canadian Pharmaceutical Association at The Empress that $6 million worth of drugs had not been properly utilized in 1977.

He said that shortly after he took office a social worker had gone to him with a brown paper bag filled with half-used drugs. They had been found in an apartment after the occupant had died of an overdose.

McClelland said $14 million had been paid out in prescription fees by the government in 1977, a sum slightly higher than that of the drugs dispensed.

"We want the best value for the dollar spent, not the cheapest," he said.

He said a study made in the external care unit of one hospital had shown that two-thirds of the patients who were 65 or older were on drugs, some of them using as many as 10 prescription medications. Most suffered from multi-system diseases aggravated by the drugs.

"When they were taken off drugs there was a dramatic improvement in the health of the patients," he said.

McClelland said long-term patients take five to six times as much medication as ambulatory ones. He said 25 per cent of the drugs issued to senior citizens were being used by seven per cent of them.

He said a drug and poison information program is being organized by his ministry in co-operation with the B.C. College of Pharmacy at the University of British Columbia.

A recent report of the Canadian Medical Protective Association had cited two cases where doctors had been successfully sued for not prescribing the correct drugs, he said.

B.C. pharmacists also have a responsibility to ensure the drugs are the desired ones, he said, and that the patients understand the correct procedure for their use.

McClelland said a per diem rate is being prepared to repay pharmacists for this service.

The minister said his $1 billion budget for health care this year represents 25 per cent of the government's total budget.

NO DEAL FOR CAMP- MP

PORT ALBERNI (CP) — Liberal MP Hugh Anderson said Monday that Parks Canada has informed campground developer Bert Braiden that it is not prepared to make a deal to purchase his property.

Braiden, who owns the only major commercial campground outside of Pacific Rim National Park on the west coast of Vancouver Island, has stated he won't open his facility this season because of increasing operating costs.

Anderson (Coast-Chilcotin) said Parks Canada told Braiden that if he did not open his campground, an agreement between the park and Braiden regarding construction of campsites would be terminated.

Braiden denied Monday that negotiations had ended, and Pacific Rim superintendent Frank Camp said he "was not aware that we had withdrawn on a negotiating position with Braiden."

Braiden has offered to sell the 217-acre site with camping facilities for 500 units to Parks Canada for more than $3 million.

There are currently only 91 developed drive-in campsites within the park boundaries.

Anderson said the park is setting up some semi-service campsites for the large crowds of tourists expected for the holiday weekend later this month.

Red Brigades Slay Moro

The discovery ended tragically an ordeal that has traumatized Italy and transfixed the attention of the world.

His Marxist revolutionary Red Brigades kidnappers claimed Moro was a symbol of "imperialistic" oppression of the working class. Last Friday, the terrorists issued the last of a series of messages, saying they were "carrying out" a death "verdict" against Moro because the Christian Democratic party had refused to negotiate their demand for the release of 13 jailed terrorists in exchange for Moro's life.

Moro himself wrote a stream of letters to political leaders urging them to bargain with his captors. In a desperate handwritten letter April 24, Moro said: "We are at zero hour. . . . Massacre time is approaching."

After the body was found, Premier Andreotti called an emergency cabinet session and President Giovanni Leone scheduled an address to the nation. Italy's major unions called an eight-hour work stoppage.

The Vatican radio called it a "barbarous murder . . . which takes on in this tragic hour a nearly sacrifical value." Upon hearing the news, Pope Paul, a personal friend of the slain politician, went to pray in his private chapel.

Former president Giuseppe Saragat said: "Moro's body is the body of the First Republic, which is now dead." He referred to the republic established in 1946, when the Italian monarchy was voted out in a plebiscite.

Police cars with sirens whining sped through the city, deserted as usual during the early-afternoon lunch hours. Police said they had received other tips before the discovery of the car and were throwing out dragnets across the city.

The Italian Communist party's directorate went into session immediately, and party official Giancarlo Pajetta said as he entered the meeting: "This is a crime of sadist ferocity."

Since the kidnapping, the area had been one of the most heavily guarded neighborhoods of Rome. The Communist party recently installed floodlights and closed-circuit television cameras scanning its front doorstep 24 hours a day.

Christian Democrat headquarters on nearby Piazza del Gesu had been surrounded by sub-machine gun-toting soldiers preventing scores of curious Romans from approaching the 15th-century palace during the 7½-week drama.

Despite this tight security, the terrorists were able to infiltrate the very heart of the political establishment and dump Moro's body in its midst.

Their choice of a site was symbolic. The headquarters of Italy's two largest parties are only 200 metres apart, and the Red Brigades have bitterly denounced the Communists for their unprecedented parliamentary alliance, engineered by Moro, with the minority Christian Democrat government.

In the last few months, Communist leaders have walked the short distance for meetings to discuss policy with the Christian Democrats.

The Communists had been among the staunchest foes of dealing with the terrorists for Moro's life.

Moro, who had been expected to become the country's next president, was kidnapped on the very day parliament approved the Communist-Christian Democrat agreement.

Trudeau Adjourns Commons

Times News Services

Prime Minister Trudeau adjourned Commons business today as an expression of what he described as "anguish and sorrow" over the murder of former Italian Premier Aldo Moro.

"In the name of all the people of Canada I want to express to you, to your government and to the people of Italy our anguish and sorrow over this senseless act of terrorism."

Trudeau, who knew Moro personally, said he saw in the late Italian premier "a fine humanism and the qualities of a great statesman."

In Washington, President Carter said in a statement, expressing his sympathy to Moro's family and the nation:

"His murder is a contemptible and cowardly act. His death advances no cause but that of mindless anarchy.

"He stood for civilization and the rule of law, principles which will always outlive the terrorism that seeks to destroy them."

Quebec Imports Teachers?

LONDON (CP) — Claude Morin, Quebec minister for intergovernmental affairs, said today there is a possibility that his province may import teachers of English.

In a speech to the Royal Commonwealth Society and again at a news conference, Morin said he had visited the British Council "to find out the possibilities of exchange in a number of fields."

He cited teachers as an example, he said, to point up "the fact that we don't want to abolish the knowledge nor the use of the English language in Quebec."

UN Abandoning Guerrilla-Held City

TEL AVIV (UPI) — Israel's withdrawal from the rest of south Lebanon promises to be delayed by the announced evacuation of French UN peacekeeping troops from the Palestinian-controlled port of Tyre.

French Foreign Minister Louis de Guiringaud confirmed reports of the pullback — he called it a "redeployment" — in Paris Monday, one week after four French soldiers died and four others were wounded in an attack by Arab guerrillas.

While no date had been set for another Israeli pullback, reports quoting authoritative military sources said the timing of a move was dependent on decisions by the 1,274-man French contingent, the biggest UN force in the area.

Chief of Staff Lt. Gen. Raphael Eytan was expected to meet later this week with commander of the UN peacekeeping forces, Lt. Gen. Ensio Siilasvuo, to discuss the matter.

On Monday, the Jerusalem Post quoted a military source as saying that any retreat by UN forces "would be a blow to the UN's credibility as a viable deterrent to the terrorists. For the terrorists, this weakness of the French at the first sign of terrorist pressure would constitute on open invitation for increased activity."

The source also said the peacekeeping troops "are apparently experiencing the start of a protracted war of nerves with the terrorists."

Israel has said it has no intention of keeping its forces in Lebanon, but has also insisted it will continue to hold onto Lebanese territory until it is satisfied the 4,000 UN troops — soon to be beefed up to 6,000 — can keep the guerrillas from the frontier.

In a radio interview Monday, de Guiringaud said, "I hope that, in the framework of this redeployment, the French units will be placed in situations less difficult than those in which they were in Tyre."

French foreign ministry officials said the French soldiers received orders from the United Nations to abandon Tyre.

Israeli forces, which struck deep into Lebanon in a major anti-guerrilla operation, have made two pullbacks and are currently at a line six miles from the border along the length of the 64-mile frontier.

Beer Parlor Death Knell?

VERNON (CP) — A study commissioned by British Columbia hotel operators says beer parlors should be replaced by smaller, pub-like premises serving all kinds of alcoholic drinks.

The study also recommends that government controls be lifted from hotel prices for beer and liquor to enable hotel owners to pay for beer parlor renovations.

"The beer parlors of old have outlived their usefulness and will have to be replaced by other kinds of operation more in tune with the times," says the study, released here Monday during a meeting of the B.C. Hotels' Association.

The study, prepared by a firm of research and economic consultants, also urges that:

—Large beer parlors be converted into two or more facilities to serve different markets and "maximize sales volumes."

—The individual hotel owner, not the provincial Liquor Control and Licensing Branch (LCLB), set entertainment policies "after testing his market."

—Aggressive merchandising policies such as different glasses and decors be introduced.

PWA CONTRACT RATIFIED

VANCOUVER (CP) - The 550-member Canadian Airline Employees' Association has ratified a tentative contract agreement with Pacific Western Airlines, an association spokesman said Monday.

Gary Werk, the association's business agent, said a final figure would not be available until results from association members in the Northwest Territories were counted.

The 16-month agreement, retroactive to Sept. 1, 1977, gives reservation agents, ramp service cargo workers and others represented by the association, an average six-per-cent wage increase, with workers in top positions receiving up to an 8 1-2 per cent increase, he said.

"We decided to put the wage package up front because our group has fallen behind the rest of the industry," Werk said.

CLC Battles Computer Checkouts

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Labor Congress said Monday it has formed an alliance with consumer and church groups to ensure that supermarkets continue to mark prices on their products.

The organization will "put pressure on governments to protect consumers from some of the dangers of the unrestricted implementation of the automatic checkout system in supermarkets," the congress said in a news release.

"A major aspect of this new system is the universal product code, which consists of a series of black and white bars and numerals."

The code, which now appears on many products in supermarkets, is designed to be read by electronic sacnners at supermarkets.

"Shoppers will lose much of their control over the price they pay for the products they buy if they aren't able to read the prices on the merchandise," said Jim MacDonald, a CLC official responsible for consumer affairs.

The alliance is made up of CLC representatives, the Consumers Association of Canada, the Task Force on Churches and Corporate Responsibility and the Ottawa Senior Citizens Council.

MacDonald said the group's main concern is to ensure that prices will continue to be displayed on supermarket merchandise.

The electronic scanners at supermarket checkout counters are connected with central computers and MacDonald said "it is even quite conceivable that the price of a product may be changed through the store's computer between the time consumers pick if off the shelf and the time they arrive at the cash register."

The CLC said the group also is concerned about the loss of jobs that would result from the elimination of price stamping.

Tug, Barge To Rescue

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — One person was killed and five others were unaccounted for today after a National Airlines jet crashed in Escambia Bay, spilling passengers out of emergency doors into fog and a sea slicked with jet fuel.

The plane, which was carrying 53 passengers and a crew of seven, settled in mud 10 feet below the bay's surface.

Divers sent into the partially submerged plane said everybody was out. But fog and haze hampered rescue efforts. A head count was further confused because passengers were scattered among six hospitals and several rescue stations.

Many were injured in the crash Monday night, but dozens escaped safely when a tugboat captain pulled his barge to the plane, tied it up and helped men, women and children clamber aboard.

"If that barge hadn't been there, there's no telling how many would have drowned," said Marine Patrol Sgt. William Clenny. The identity of the captain of the tugboat, called the Little Joe, was not immediately available.

The plane, Flight 193 out of Mobile, Ala., crashed on the western tip of Florida's Panhandle, 32 kilometres from the Alabama border and 80 kilometres from Mobile, as it made a final landing approach at the Pensacola airport, disappearing from the radar screens five kilometres from the runway.

The downed airliner, its tail lights still shining hours after the crash, was mired in mud with at least one-third of the fuselage above the water. Rescue boats and helicopters rushed to the scene in calm seas.

"That plane skipped across the water like a rock on a pond and then settled into the bay," a witness said. "There were two loud reports 'blam, blam' as it skipped."

Many passengers emerged from the water soaked with jet fuel which leaked from the plane when it went down with 2,700 gallons of kerosene left in its tanks. Spectators were ordered out of the area for fear a flame might touch off the fuel.

James Stockwell, first officer on the downed plane, was being examined by doctors when he said he felt the aircraft made its approach to the field too low.

"We were apparently below altitude," said Stockwell, who was reported in good condition. "I can't believe we were that low, but apparently we were."

The Socreds Pick A Leader

It seems a shame to be discouraging so early in the career of the new federal Social Credit party leader Lorne Reznowski. The new leader, elected Sunday in a convention held over the objections of at least half the party, surely deserves a short honeymoon period before the barbs start flying from the press, the public and the other politicians.

But Reznowski's first comments about his role as Socred leader were so outlandish that they cannot be ignored. Apparently he sees his job and the job of his party as being a mission to rid Canada of abortionists, homosexuals and unscrupulous bankers and to "restore the family as the foundation of society."

What Reznowski did not say — and perhaps it was a good thing — was just how he planned to set about doing this. The question must be asked, however, since a variety of people, politicians and otherwise, tried to rid the country of homosexuals and abortionists for a few decades with a noticeable lack of success.

Looking first at the question of homosexuals, does Reznowski plan to re-introduce laws making homosexuality a crime, even between consenting adults in private? It is doubtful that such a move would have widespread popular support; tolerance has grown within Canada to the point that this would seem extremely regressive, even among those who would hesitate to ban discrimination against gays. Moreover, the laws never did rid Canada of homosexuality; all they did was ensure that homosexuals were very much "closet queens," living double lives in constant fear of discovery.

Many of the same arguments can be applied to the idea of ridding the country of abortionists. It would, of course, be easy to pass a law prohibiting all abortions except in the most extreme circumstances; such a law would doubtless have the support of at least a vocal minority of Canadians.

But would the law rid Canada of abortionists? No, it would rid us of legal abortionists, which is quite a different thing. It would take us back to the days of the butchers, of abortions performed in darkened backrooms, in unhygenic surroundings, by persons not necessarily qualified to do so. It would probably result in the deaths of some women who would not otherwise have died.

The anti-abortionists give some powerful reasons for wishing some changes in the abortion laws so they cannot be abused as an after-the-fact method of birth control. There may be something in what they say. But the approach being taken by Reznowski is oversimplified and would, it seems, result in a worsening of the situation, not an improvement.

As for his ideas on unscrupulous bankers, Reznowski appears to harken back to the thinking of the original Social Credit party founders — Major Douglas, William Aberhart and so on. He talks about the immorality of banks or similar institutions charging any interest at all on loans, but does not mention the other side of the coin — that banks also pay interest on money deposited with them. The details of his economic reform remain too hazy to be understood.

The Social Credit party has not elected a federal MP outside the province of Quebec since 1965. With Reznowski as party leader, it seems doubtful they will elect anyone outside of Quebec in the next election either. Although many Canadians are doubtless concerned about what they see as the lowering of moral standards in the country, they are unlikely to support the radical, simplistic solutions proposed by the federal Socreds.

Indeed, the Socreds could even stand in danger of losing their Quebec seats since the Quebec wing of the party was strongly opposed to the leadership convention and supported Reznowski only reluctantly.

The chances seem good that the Socreds will soon become a federal anachronism to be considered no more seriously than the Marxist-Leninists or, for that matter, the Groucho Marxists. Social Credit will continue to thrive only in B.C. where it isn't really Social Credit at all — just a coalition between the Liberals and Conservatives under a name that happens to match that of Mr. Reznowski's party.

Looking at Youth

Three events in our city this month should make us realize that many young people today not only are well-behaved and law-abiding but also are bright and talented, the likely leaders of tomorrow.

The first to begin was the annual Victoria Music Festival which has, over the past two weeks, featured hundreds of youngsters and teenagers (along with a number of adults) who devote their leisure time to music, dance and speech arts and who have, in most cases, achieved a high standard in their work.

The second was the B.C. Humanities and Science Symposium which took place at the University of Victoria this weekend. This was attended by about 100 high school students from across B.C. who had earned the right to come by submitting essays or projects which were judged by UVic faculty members. The winning essays were undoubtedly enough to dispel the notion that students today can't read or write English.

The third event began Monday and will continue throughout this week. It is the national student debating championships with participants being students who have done well in regional and provincial debating events. This year the contestants will look at questions of youth unemployment, using a number of debating formats and both of Canada's official languages.

Remember the hundreds of young people involved in these worthwhile projects the next time you read about a handful of young vandals in parks or a gang of three or four youths in trouble with the law.

MARJORIE NICHOLS

Our Capital Runs Downhill

WASHINGTON — The fellow at the U.S. department of commerce was too polite to blurt it right out, but in his diplomatic way he made it quite clear that he believes Canadians must be mighty strange people.

Unfortunately, it is difficult to quibble with his assessment in the wake of the strange debate now under way in Parliament on the matter of export controls on capital.

According to a wire service report from Ottawa, both the Tories and the NDP have urged the Trudeau government to consider imposing some kind of controls to restrict the exodus of capital from Canada to the U.S.

The opposition beseechments apparently were prompted by disclosure of U.S. commerce statistics, showing that Canada last year suffered a $440 million net outflow of capital to the U.S. in 1977. Few would question Finance Minister Jen Chretien's conclusion that Canada has a problem.

Is It Serious?

What must be seriously questioned, however, is whether the problem is as grave as the critics would have it.

First, it should be noted that the U.S. commerce department statistics deal in the main with large corporate investments. And second, the statistics themselves may be totally erroneous as an accurate record of the ebb and flow of capital across the border.

The reason is quite simple: there is no facility on either side of the border for keeping an accurate record of individual investment decisions.

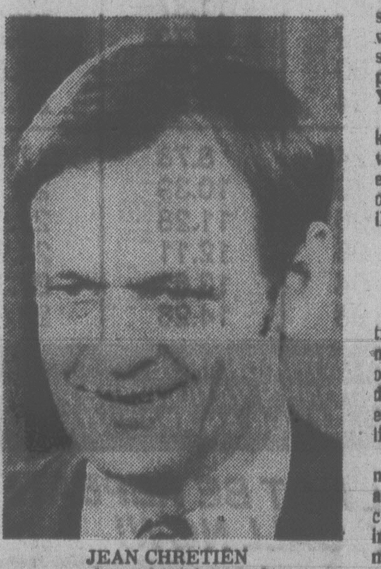
Chretien obviously knows what he is talking about when he speculates that a lot of Canadians moved their bank accounts across the border when the Canadian dollar started its nosedive. The critical point is, however, that no one knows whether the recent exodus of capital is unusually high or simply the subject of unusual focus.

Under U.S. law, every one entering this country must make a declaration if he is carrying $5,000 or more. But there is no law requiring disclosure by individuals of bank transfers across the border No one really knows how much money Canadian citizens now have sitting in U.S. savings accounts, or how much property in this country might be owned by individual Canadians.

Indeed, only last week the U.S. agriculture department announced that it is undertaking, for the first time in history, a survey to determine exactly how much farmland is owned by foreigners.

Chretien obviously has reason to believe that quite a few Canadians have been "hedging their bets" as he put it, in the wake of the declining Canadian dollar. But even the finance minister must concede here that he is dealing only in guesses.

Which brings us back to the chap at the commerce department who has been inundated in recent days with calls from Canadian reporters, begging up-to-date figures on Canadian investment. What is really puzzling this fellow is why Canadians would be rushing across the border to invest 87-cent dollars.



JEAN CHRETIEN
. . . has rejected controls

It is, you will have to concede, a rather good question, if you assume, as the commerce employee does, that Canada is not exactly your average banana republic on the verge of a military coup.

The main American concern right now is with the huge volumes of foreign investment by countries whose currencies have risen dramatically against the U.S. dollar. The Germans and the Japanese, in particular, have been on a spending spree. The Arabs, hedging against the declining value of their oil dollars, have also been investing in the U.S. at a record rate.

"I can understand Canadian investors switching (to U.S. dollars) when the Canadian dollar first started to drop," said one U.S. official, "but I can't understand anyone buying at 86 or 87 cents."

The official prognosis among most money managers is that the Canadian dollar will "stabilize" within the next year to between 92 and 95 cents U.S. Accordingly, several of the larger stock brokerage firms are now advising many of their U.S. clients to consider investing in Canadian securities.

Chretien has properly rejected any suggestion of capital controls. "If we want capital to come into Canada," he said, "we have to be a society that permits the free movement of capital." You can not argue with the logic of that.

The real problem is, as Chretien knows, that logic often does not have very much to do with the psychology of economics. Nor, it must be added, do official government statistics necessarily reflect reality.

That Many Yankees?

In accepting the U.S. commerce and treasury department's statistics on Canadian investment, a bit of caution is in order. Earlier this year, the treasury department published an analysis of the effect of tax reform on U.S. citizens living abroad.

The report disclosed that there are more U.S. citizens living in Canada than any other nation on earth. That is not, of course, exactly surprising. What was incredible, however, was the department's conclusion that there are a total of about 20,000 U.S. citizens now residing north of the border. Any school child knows that there are more Yankees than that within shouting distance of the Husky tower in Calgary.

A spokesman for the U.S. treasury confessed that the department suspected its statistics were wildly inaccurate, but she added: "They're the best we could get."

No doubt the statistics on Canadian investment in the U.S. are also the best that could be had, but that does not make them accurate. Nor does it justify the near irresponsibility of those Tory and NDP critics who are chomping on the election bit.

" . . . I don't think that's the answer, sir. . . "

RICHARD GWYN

Will He Go Or Won't He?

OTTAWA — At his regular press conference this week, Prime Minister Trudeau seemed subdued, distracted, uncertain. Insecure, almost. His answers rambled, as if he were trying to shorten the time available for questions. He stumbled over his words, saying "permit" when he meant "prevent," and "multi-national" when he meant "multi-lateral."

Even when Trudeau first came into the room, it was clear something was wrong. There, on the lapel of the deep blue suit of the west's best-dressed statesman was a bright yellow rose. The colors clashed, as violently as did the Gallup Poll with the Liberals' expectations of election victory.

By Friday morning at the absolute latest, Trudeau either will have or will not have jogged the one mile from 24 Sussex to Rideau Hall to call on the Governor-General. He then either will tell Parliament it no longer exists, or he will tell Canadians there will be nothing for them to do this summer except watch the grass grow.

Threat of Ryan

Will He or Won't He? And if He Won't, when Will He? — next fall, when to complicate matters up to 15 byelections are due; the spring of 1979; or the fall of 1979 which, if you check your desk copy of the British North America Act, is the last date, even though beyond a conventional five-year term, on which Trudeau has the legal right to call an election.

One reason why it will do Trudeau no good to wiggle around much longer was made plain this week. After three hours of private, let-bygones-be-bygones talks, Trudeau and Quebec Liberal Leader Claude Ryan came out on the lawn of 24 Sussex to smile at the TV cameras. It was bad enough that Ryan had dined the evening before with Conservative Leader Joe Clark. For Trudeau, it was far worse that he and Ryan appeared before the cameras almost as equals.

The longer the election is delayed, the larger will Ryan grow in the consciousness of English-Canada as an alternate saviour of Confederation. As a consequence, English-Canadians may conclude that what they really want in Ottawa is a saviour of the economy. (Ryan's price for saving Confederation will be far higher than the rest of the country yet realizes, but that's another problem for another time.)

So go now, before voters begin to think too much about Ryan, and begin at the same time to think again about former Finance Minister John Turner.

No, no, no, said a majority of Liberal MPs at their mid-week caucus. When one Ontario MP urged plunging now, Science Minister Judd Buchanan, the minister responsible for the Ontario campaign, put him down: "That's a great idea. We'd only lose one-third of our Ontario seats."

In Ontario, the closer the Liberals get to the CN Tower, the worse, for them, gets the view. Party polls show four ministers in or just outside Metro Toronto doing at least as badly as the Maple Leafs — Tony Abbott, Norman Cafik, Alistair Gillespie, John Robarts, also minister-to-be John Evans.

True, the Liberal news elsewhere is by no means all bad. British Columbia, the Liberals hope, will sink into the Pacific before the election is called. In Saskatchewan, though, the Liberals talk fondly, and by no means foolishly, about doubling their strength to six. The Atlantic provinces are far from being a depressed Liberal region. Then there's Quebec.

"How many?" I asked a senior Quebec, Liberal organizer the other day. "Seventy", he replied, without a trace of complacency or arrogance. (That is 70 out of 75.)

Liberal aparatchicks, though, fear that the Toronto sickness, borne outwards by the media, will infect the rest of the country. Even Aparatchick-in-Chief Keith Davey has lost his compulsive zest for an election any time, preferably yesterday.

So don't go now. Hope instead, that after a long, dry summer, the rain will fall, in the fall, on Clark's parade.

Lifeline to Survival

Clark, indeed, now is Trudeau's lifeline to survival. For months, Canadians have ignored Clark while building up their rage against Trudeau. From now on, as the perceived front-runner, Clark will be scrutinized by press and public more closely than at any time since his early leadership honeymoon. Clark knows this. He may or may not be big enough to fill Trudeau's Gucchi shoes as prime minister, but he is certainly Trudeau's equal as a politician.

At his caucus this week, Clark warned Conservative MPs to expect now to be poked at by the press and, a new phenomenon, to be pummelled at by the New Democrats. The Gallup Poll makes plain that voters are polarizing, pro and anti-Trudeau. Lost in the middle, with a bare 14 per cent of the votes, is the NDP. Thus, said Clark in caucus, NDP Leader Ed Broadbent will lift his fire from the Liberals and bring it down upon the Conservatives, to whom his supporters are defecting.

Will He, to repeat, or Won't He? Is discretion the better part of valor, or is valor its own reward. This weekend, alone at 24 Sussex, Trudeau will decide. Earlier, I'd guess July 10. Now, I'm less convinced. Blue after all is the Conservative color. And a yellow rose is the symbol of a love affair that's over.

Not Stoned Enough

Education Minister Pat McGeer is sorely mistaken if he truly believes "every parent in the province" is behind him in his completely undemocratic plan to fire teachers who use marijuana. As a teacher and a parent, one of my major concerns is that there are not enough stoned teachers in the B.C. education system. Instead my children and I have to put up with the uptight moralistic preachings of Mr. McGeer and his cronies.

Marijuana is not a dangerous drug, it is an aid to enlightenment and anyone who seeks his own enlightenment is a far healthier teacher than one who wouldn't recognize a philosophical idea if it hit him in the face. I do not want my children entrusted to the misguided care of Mr. McGeer and the Victoria school board who refuse to see or speak the truth on the issue of the psychedelic substances.

If it is drugs the man is concerned about then I suggest he fire all the tea and coffee drinkers.

Their adherence to the stupid and cruel laws against the use of marijuana is making asses out of the education officials. All laws concerning the use of marijuana should be abolished and this persecution of the users of a totally benign substance ended. — Denise Dunn, 1144 Fort Street.

Joblessness

We live in a crazy, topsy-turvy society. There are hundreds of thousands of people of every age, possessing a wide variety of skills, and from nearly every trade and profession, out of work; yet governments and big business are shirking their social responsibilities and cutting back on staff. In many instances one employee is expected to do far more than can fairly be expected of one person. Large department stores, for example, are notorious for understaffing. Overworked employees are more prone to illness due to stresses and strains than those who are not obliged to work under these conditions.

The policy of cutting back on employment of people on the part of government and business in order to balance the budget or increase profits results in creating a great deal of human misery. It is an insane policy that works to the detriment of society as a whole.

Drug-taking and crimes of violence are on the increase in most western countries. It is probable that these conditions would not prevail on such a wide scale if the people of these countries did not feel alienated from their society. Prolonged unemployment is a devastating and destructive experience for most people; life becomes a nightmare of insecurity and fear.

In order to have a healthy society, it is absolutely essential that people have the opportunity to earn a decent living, and contribute according to their abilities — or that society will eventually disintegrate. — M. Lundgren, Victoria.

Disarmament

Two weeks ago, Mr. Ernie Regehr (from the Institute of Peace and Conflict Studies, University of Waterloo), visited Victoria to focus further attention on the upcoming UN special session on disarmament. At that time, the Victoria Ad Hoc Coalition for Disarmament prepared a press release on Mr. Regehr's visit for use by the Colonist and the Times. As this press release was overlooked by the newspapers, I wish to bring Mr. Regehr's visit to the attention of the public. (We thank the newspapers for their notice of Mr. Regehr's impending visit; but we did not see any account after the visit took place, which is what our press release referred to.)

Highlights of Mr. Regehr's visit included the taping of an hour-long program with Channel 10, (called A Time to Disarm) which was aired April 27. He also visited a number of MLAs, to encourage the idea of the B.C. legislature introducing a resolution supporting Canadian initiative towards universal disarmament, and the conversion of military economies to civilian economies.

Mr. Regehr is the author of Making a Killing, a study of the Canadian arms industry. He pointed out, that while Canadians think of Canada as a peace loving nation, that is not altogether true. For example, if the United States produces the neutron bomb, an Ontario firm is slated to manufacture the Lance missile to launch that bomb. Mr. Regehr urges Canadians to actively petition their political representatives, insisting that Canada do her part to halt this insanity called the arms race. — Rose Ann Jackson, Victoria Ad Hoc Coalition for Disarmament, 826 Beckwith Avenue.

Hitler's Vision Coming True in Germany?

By MICHAEL GETLER

WEST BERLIN — Is it possible, 33 years after the end of the Second World War, that Hitler's vision of a Germany without Jews may slowly be coming true?

"The danger exists," said Rafel Schier, chairman of the Jewish community in the West German capital of Bonn. "The older generation is dying out. Some young people are moving away and others are intermarrying. There are some smaller communities with 50 or 60 Jews that might disappear."

On the whole, however, Schier and most other Jewish leaders believe that a Jewless Germany will not come about. "Some will always stay here," as Ralph Schweiger of the West Berlin Jewish Centre put it.

The statistics aren't altogether reassuring.

In the early 1930s, Germany's robust and thriving Jewish population numbered more than half a million persons before the rise of the Nazis drove all but a handful either away or into death camps.

Today, in the western half of this divided country, there are about 27,000 Jews among a population of 61 million, according to Schweiger. In 1970, he says, the number was 29,000.

In East Germany, a country of 17 million people, the Jews have almost disappeared — their numbers now are down to fewer than 8,000 and most of them are quite old, according to Dr. Peter Kirchner, a community leader in East Berlin.

If Jews are going to survive in a country in which just 50 years ago they played such an important cultural, scientific and business role, it will clearly be in West Germany and West Berlin.

And it is in the West that one can see the crosscurrents that in fact add up to a battle for survival.

"We had a tendency toward a shrinking population," said Schweiger of West Berlin. "There were 6,000 Jews here in 1970 and there would only be about 4,500 today. But in the past three years there has been an important development. Some 1,300 Russian Jews, mostly young people, have come to West Berlin to live."

Emigration

Indeed, the most positive force for growth among the Jewish population today appears to be coming from other countries — emigration from Eastern Europe to West Germany and some from Latin America.

Werner Nachmann, chairman of the Central Council of Jews in West Germany based in Dusseldorf, claimed that in the past year or so the Jewish population actually rose by about 10 per cent because of this influx.

There is another unusual factor, too, that Schier called "a small phenomenon here in Germany. The procedure for converting from Christianity to Judaism is not as difficult here as in other countries. The rabbis are conscious that conversions help stabilize the community. Perhaps 10 to 15 per cent of our community in Bonn are converts."

Still, the natural and lingering emotional factors pushing toward an ever-smaller number of German Jews — once the elite of world Jewry — are substantial.

Hans Schafgans, 50, is a well-known portrait photographer in West Germany. He is a German-born Jew who is comfortable living in his native country today and says, as does his fellow community leader in Bonn, Schier, that he has never experienced any anti-semitic behavior toward him personally since the end of the war.

Still, "the past hangs on," he said. "Only a small number are interested in staying here. There is an influence on the children from the parents and from relatives in the United States or Israel. The parents won't leave, but some of the young people do. Israel has great importance to them. They feel themselves drawn to it. But if they don't go when they are young, by the time they are between 25 and 45, they are fully integrated and consider themselves Germans and Jews.

"The marriage chances for young Jews are also not so good here," he pointed out, "and that is an important argument for some to go to the United States or Israel."

Numerous interviews with German Jews seem to indicate that many youngsters do leave. But there are no reliable statistics and Nachman claims that the actual figure is only about five per cent, in part because the economic opportunities are better in West Germany.

One of those young people who does not want to go to Israel and who thinks he will stay in West Germany is Schafgans' articulate son, Boris, 17, who considers himself a Jew but "not in a religious way."

Schizophrenia

"What I feel is a combination of things," he explains. "There is no national feeling toward Germany nor an identification exclusively with German cultural and social ideals. There are some Jews who try to live a typical Jewish life of kosher foods and going to synagogue. But it is very difficult to live an Orthodox life here because there are so few Jewish influences.

"Here, there's a certain schizophrenia. Every young Jew has that problem. There are no Jewish schools. So you go to German schools and become German in some parts of your personality.

"But I think there is no one Jew who is a complete German."

The lack of information young Germans have about the Nazi era and Jews, an assessment well documented by numerous German educators, causes what Boris calls "a problematic relationship" with German youngsters.

"It is a situation which I think can be solved. This is a democracy. There is no Hitler and it is a society where you can say what you think and minorities aren't discriminated against. It's all in (West Germany's constitution).

"But I think that German society may still be thinking another way. When we are in a group and a discussion of family comes to the point where I say I'm a Jew, they may make a normal face but I can't imagine that a German of my generation looks at me like other people because they don't see it in their background or that of their parents.

"A great number of the younger generation seem to love the Jews because they think they are supposed to. ... So it is tough to have a normal relationship," Boris Schafgans said.

"These are only things that people can see who are not full Germans in all categories. So as Jew I live here as something of an outsider, even though my friends are German. But I'm not unlucky in the sense of what I can see."

Sensitive

"If they get a short answer from the bureaucracy they think it is anti-semitic. We recently got a letter from someone who wanted a florist shopowner to take a plant out of the window that was labelled Jew's beard because they thought it was a slur. Actually, that's the correct name for the cactus plant," she said.

There have been a variety of anti-semitic incidents in West Germany, carried out mostly by bands of neo-Nazis whose total numbers are tiny.

The widespread opinion among Jewish leaders in Germany today, as Nachmann put it, is that "we take everything seriously but we do not at all feel threatened. We feel we have the full understanding and support of the federal and local government and the police."

Some others disagree about the police, not in the sense that they feel police support the Nazis but that they frequently are unable to recognize dangerous activities — such as handing out Nazi handbills — when no violence is involved.

In general, the Jewish concerns centre on the fact that whatever little anti-Jewish activity is carried on is done more boldly these days, though not with greater frequency, and is done by young people.

Jews living in Germany today are comfortable here, said Hans Schafgans. "It would not be true to make Germay today look like an anti-semitic country," added Schweiger.

Nachmann said some recent incidents have received too much publicity and claimed that some are exaggerated abroad for propaganda purposes. Others say some Jewish leaders don't want publicity because it might only make things worse.

In Bonn, a Jewish temple sits on what may be the most politically strategic site of any synagogue in the world — directly opposite the main entrance of the West German foreign ministry.

It was not by accident that the city fathers donated that site to the Jewish community 10 years ago.

In a sense it symbolizes "the new Germany," a democratic state for three decades now, yet one still mindful of the sins of the Nazi past and, in typically German style, anxious for everyone to know and see tht it has changed.

Down in Dallas it Takes a Lot to be Cheerleader

By JOHN M. CREWDSON

DALLAS — It was not yet 9 o'clock on a Saturday morning, and the bright spring sunshine had already begun to warm the metroplex, as the twin cities of Dallas and Fort Worth like to call themselves. But inside Texas Stadium, the $25-million, air-conditioned home of the mighty Dallas Cowboys, 150 young women sat shivering on metal folding chairs, their hair and makeup as perfect as could be expected at that hour.

More than just the chilly temperature was behind their goose bumps. The atmosphere inside this swank Stadium Club was as tense as that at an open casting call for a Broadway production. The young women were about to leave their seats in groups of four and walk gingerly on their high, high heels to a temporary dance floor. There five people with pencils and note pads in front of them would make what many of the girls believed was the most important decision of their young lives.

They may well be right, for the notes that the judges put on their pads will eventually determine which young women will return to their jobs as secretaries and dental assistants and telephone operators in big cities like Houston and Austin and smaller towns like Waco, and which, by some exalted miracle, will join three-dozen of the most envied, celebrated and sought-after women in the country: the Dallas Cowboys cheerleaders.

"This is definitely not a beauty contest," Ron Chapman, one of the five judges, said, "although nice looks are part of it. We're going to ask you to project."

Chapman, a local radio personality, had looked over nearly 500 cheerleader candidates the weekend before and this past weekend he and the other judges watched another 500 or so perform.

Because their sidelines routines are highly choreographed, the Cowboys cheerleaders (they are not cowgirls) must be able to dance well. And, since an important part of the job is off-season appearances on television and at public ceremonies, a large measure of bubbly Texas charm is a must.

But despite Chapman's reassurance about "nice looks," a Cowboys cheerleader, above all else, is beautiful. Behind every nervous smile in the room worked the hope, however faint, that the tryouts were just the beginning of a climb to the rarified heights occupied by that personification of the Texas Woman, Farrah Fawcett-Majors.

Perhaps a quarter of those present had adopted the Farrah look, or tried to, and one or two appeared to have actually improved upon it. But many had come to seek the dream and there was a wide variety: college students and clerks, some barely over 18 and others pushing 30, some married, some divorced, some mothers and housewives, some who were surely too fat and others too thin, a few who were positively stunning and another few who were downright plain.

They were like football players before the big game. Some sat and stared blankly, folding and refolding their hands, waiting for their turns to come. Others, out of sight of the judges, were doing calisthenics or practising their hustle, staying loose, or hovering in front of the mirrors that lined the walls of the women's bathrooms, checking their hair and lipstick again and again.

In their cut-off, satiny jogging shorts (a favorite this year) and tank tops and tube tops and halters and glittery heels, they joked nervously with one another, perfect strangers united by their common fantasies. They talked of starvation diets that had lasted for weeks and of the Mexican lunches they would have when the tryouts were over, and of the impossibility of dancing at 9 o'clock in the morning after not having slept the night before.

One who couldn't sleep was Cathy Mitsven, a 26-year-old Houston secretary who had flown in Friday night after work. She knew that if she were chosen she would have to move to Dallas, a team requirement. But that did not deter her. "I'd love it," she said, sipping a coke and waiting for her number to come up. "I'd love the inconvenience. Just to know you could do it over 932 contestants would be enough."

Some, like Lauren Newmann, had travelled even farther to dance to 90 seconds of blaring disco music. Miss Newmann, an 18-year-old clothing store manager from Albuquerque, N.M., said she had set her heart on becoming a Cowboys cheerleader ever since she watched Dallas demolish the Denver Broncos in last January's Super Bowl.

Her number, 387, was called early, and at 9:45 she was on, a flashier dancer than most, kicking and turning and smiling, projecting with a determination as the judges watched with dispassion. Then, with an "O.K., thanks a lot" from Chapman, it was over.

When the morning session was over, Chapman said, "O.K. we'll let you know where you fit into the picture by the end of the week." Mailboxes from here to Albuquerque will be closely watched for the letter that will contain either "Thanks for having come today" or an invitation to return for the semifinals later this month. Those who make it to the finals will have to go up against the current Cowboy cheerleaders for the 36 coveted spots.

As the last of the morning candidates filed out, Chapman placed his records back in their paper sleeves and said he knew what he was looking for but wasn't sure what it was called — "It may be charisma, it may be verve, it may be sparkle." But whatever it was, he knew from experience that if it was there, it would come out only on the dance floor.

Kimberlee Wilson thought that cheering the Cowboys was better than being Miss America. "You bet it is. For one thing, I don't have the figure to be Miss America, and, besides, I can't sing." She paused for a moment to catch her breath. "But I can dance."

Suzanne Mitchell, the cheerleader's "house mother" and another of the judges, made the job that so many wanted sound like very little fun: stringent conditioning and diet control, rehearsals four or even five nights a week, five hours a night. Miss two rehearsals and you're off the squad forever.

The cheerleaders get paid next to nothing — $15 a game. They do not travel with the team, except to the playoffs and the Super Bowl. Because of the strong Christian ethic that infuses the Cowboys program (Tom Landry, the coach, and Roger Staubach, the quarterback, are devoutly religious), the cheerleaders cannot appear where alcohol is served, cannot attend parties of any sort, cannot even wear jewelry with their brief costumes.

They do make some money from modeling, promotional and television appearances, though not enough to live on. But even the appearances are carefully screened to protect their cheerleader's squeaky-clean image. And whenever they leave Dallas, Miss Mitchell travels with them.

Farmhand Guilty In Bull Killing

A precedent-setting decision was made in Victoria county court Monday when a man was held criminally responsible for the action of a dog which killed a Highland bull in his absence.

Judge Leslie Cashman convicted Donald Harry Schultz, 39, a Central Saanich farm laborer, of having sexual intercourse with an under-age girl and of wilfully killing her bull. Schultz will be sentenced June 1.

Crown counsel Donald Laughton and defence counsel Terry Dalton had been unable to find any cases in the Commonwealth or the United States where it had been held that a person could be criminally responsible for an animal's conduct, although there are a number of cases in civil law to this effect.

The argument hinged on the word "wilfully" and Cashman said, after setting out the facts of the case as he found them, that the Criminal Code definition of that word extended to the Schultz case.

The Crown alleged that Schultz tethered the bull, usually kept in a shed, in a yard full of derelict cars and released a vicious dog named Susie, usually shut in an old car, then left the farm with friends, returning later to find the bull dead, one day after the girl told Schultz she wasn't going back to work on the farm.

Cashman, in delivering his verdict after considering the case over the weekend, said he had ho hesitation, where the evidence of Schultz conflicted with that of other witnesses, in accepting their evidence and rejected that of Schultz.

He also said he had no difficulty in finding that Schultz had sexual intercourse with a girl aged between 14 and 16 in Central Saanich between July 1 and Aug. 31, 1977. The girl was then aged 14 and now is 15.

Cashman said the only issue to be decided on the other charge was whether Schultz killed the bull and if he did so wilfully.

He said the bull must have been chased to the point where it was found dead, between two old cars, at the full extent of its tether, and unable to defend itself in such a position.

There was no doubt that Schultz tied up the bull to an old pickup truck and left it tethered and he let out the dog named Susie and knew it was vicious. Cashman was satisfied the dog had attacked the bull previously in an open field.

He said when Schultz phoned the girl March 5, 1978, she said Schultz told her he had "sicked" the dog on the bull and it was dead. Schultz denied saying this.

But Cashman said he used similar words when interviewed by police a few hours later. Schultz was asked how it was that the dog attacked the bull and he replied "who would sick a dog on a bull?"

But can it be said that Schultz wilfully killed the bull, asked Cashman.

If Schultz had told the dog to attack the bull, giving an actual command, "then I do not think it should be denied that he killed the bull" just as if he was using a gun or a knife.

But what happened in this case was that the bull was tied up and the dog was free and the bull was chased between the cars but there was no evidence Schultz knew the dog could kill the bull.

Cashman ruled that the definition of "wilfully" in the Criminal Code in a property section was applicable to the charge of wilfully killing a bull.

This definition says that "everyone who causes the occurrence of an event by doing an act or by omitting to do an act that it is his duty to do, knowing that the act or omission will probably cause the occurrence of the event and being reckless whether the event occurs or not, shall be deemed, for the purposes of this part, wilfully to have caused the occurrence of the event."

Laughton produced a 1974 Saskatchewan district court case which Cashman said was applicable to this case.

In the Saskatchewan case, involving a man accused of wilfully damaging a car by destroying it by fire, the judge said the accused person there was recklessly indifferent and not caring what the result of his conduct would be. The accused person took no precautions and made no attempt to remove any risk and such an omission was ruled to be wilfully causing the damage even if he had no definite intention of causing it.

Cashman said the definition of wilfully means that even if Schultz thought only that the dog would wound the bull, he was still responsible.

He concluded that the dog was vicious in nature and known to chase the bull and that was why the bull was kept in a shed and the dog in a car. The use of the word "sick" by Schultz and with the definition of the word wilfully "I conclude that the dog was viewed by the accused as an instrument and he knew or ought to have known" what would happen in the circumstances.

Phillips Case Finished

The final chapter in a pyramid sales scheme involving cut-price goods from phony estate sales has been written in an out-of-court civil settlement on what remained.

All that is left is for the sheriff of Vancouver Island to auction off or call for bidson goods seized by Saanich police a year ago and stored since then in a warehouse.

At least 17 creditors from Victoria, Duncan and Vancouver had sought to divide a quantity of household effects taken by police from 921 Leslie Drive, the home of Harry and Sheila Anderson and their daughter, Lauren Gail Phillips.

Phillips, 31, was sentenced last January in county court to two years less one day in jail after being convicted of 17 counts of fraud involving $50,340. The prosecution said the scheme involved non-existent sales in which cars, furniture, boats and aircraft were said to be available for one-tenth of their normal price. Some people were able to keep the goods they bought but many did not.

The creditors have default judgments against Phillips for more than $60,000.

The Andersons claimed possession to the articles seized by police saying a variety of articles were purchased from their daughter.

Sgt. Anthony Clark, one of the Saanich policemen who investigated the fraud, said in a document filed at the courthouse that police took goods from the house which Phillips indicated belonged to her and which she purchased with other people's money.

Lawyer Bruce McConnan, who represented the Andersons in the civil case and earlier Phillips in the criminal case, said Monday disposition of the remaining assets has been settled in an out-of-court agreement with the creditors.

He said the Andersons will get back all the articles they purchased before the estate scheme started, plus a few others such as furniture, but the bulk of the goods will be divided among the creditors.

McConnan said he expects the goods to be divided among the creditors will be auctioned off. The proceeds will then be shared pro-rata by the creditors on the basis of the amount contained in each default judgment as a percentage of the total default judgments.

Part of the total to be divided is $6,000 withdrawn by Phillips from her account at STRY Credit Union and later turned over to Saanich police. Supreme Court earlier ordered this sum paid out of court to the sheriff. McConnan said the credit union will share in the split-up of assets as a creditor.

Pistol Packer Jailed

A 32-year-old Duncan man, who told county court Monday he has made a complete mess of his life with drugs and alcohol, was sentenced to 15 months in jail for possessing a pistol for the purpose of committing robbery.

However, sentence was passed with a recommendation for early work release.

Robert Earl Reynolds was arrested by police Jan. 31 after he pulled what court was told was a starter's pistol in Colwood Pharmacy at Colwood Corners. But pharmacist Henry Heggelund, an amateur boxer, jumped Reynolds, threw him into a display of toilet paper, got the gun away from him and sat on him until police arrived.

Reynolds had been out of jail for five days on his last offence, theft, when this offence occurred. He has a criminal record involving possession of heroin, taking a car without the owner's consent, breach of bail, false pretences, escaping lawful custody and driving with a blood-alcohol content over .08.

Reynolds, who pleaded guilty, told Judge Leslie Cashman he will try to stop excessive use of drugs and alcohol.

Cashman said it is always a shame for a person to reach an age well over maturity and be in this sort of difficulty. While he was reluctant to send him to penitentiary (meaning a sentence of an least two years) he had to consider the seriousness of the offence. He took into account three months spent in custody on this offence.

ANTI-DRINK CAMPAIGN TO BE AIMED AT YOUNG

The provincial government's anti-drinking campaign will be aimed at young people, Consumer and Corporate Affairs Minister Rafe Mair said Monday.

He said in an interview the $2 million advertising program will focus on the young because older people are not likely to change their drinking habits in response to something they see on television.

The minister also said that if the government can find other ways of funding the program, it will not increase the price of hard liquor by five cents a bottle, as previously suggested.

On a related matter, Mair said he is reconsidering the government's ban of liquor advertising on radio and television.

The minister said Canadian liquor interests are pressuring him to permit radio and television advertising of their products because United States liquor producers can advertise in Canada by using U.S. border stations.

"It's not fair to allow American electronic advertising of products which are sold in Canada and yet not allow their Canadian competitors to advertise the same thing," Mair said. "Either you ban it all over or you allow it all over."

He said the issue is under active consideration but would not say when a decision will be reached.

Vietnam Children's Aid Dead?

A legislative committee set up to disburse $2.25 million to aid Vietnamese children has died without completing its task, Karen Sanford (NDP—Comox) said Monday.

She told the legislature the committee was attempting to decide on the distribution of the money when its term expired with the last legislative session.

Mrs. McCarthy has said that the Social Credit government is not committed to spend the $2.25 million on Vietnamese children because the commitment was made by the previous New Democratic Party administration.

Games Bid Backed

Oak Bay council decided Monday night to join a Greater Victoria municipal effort to host the 1979 B.C. Summer Games.

Last year, Oak Bay was unsuccessful in a solo bid for the games.

Ald. Doug Watts said the best chance of getting the games here was if the four Greater Victoria municipalities banded together and Ald. John Goult was concerned that if Oak Bay didn't join the other three it would be "dog in the manger."

But Mayor Brian Smith said it would be better if one municipality submitted a bid rather than "all four mushed and mashed together" and Ald. Shirley Dowell said Oak Bay should update last year's submission and try again.

Ald. Isabel Craig and Neil Swainson voted with Watts and Goult to carry the motion that Oak Bay join other municipalities in a bid.

B.C. Heroin Plan $14 Million 'Farce'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Health Minister Bob McClelland is squandering millions of dollars on a compulsory heroin treatment program similar to ones which have failed in the United States, a former chairman of the Alcohol and Drug Commission said Monday.

Peter Stein of Victoria, former chairman of the commission which operates drug rehabilitation programs for the government, said compulsory programs in California, Kentucky and New York have failed miserably.

During the NDP administration, the commission considered an identical compulsory plan for B.C. addicts but rejected it, Stein said.

"The government is fooling the public making them believe this $14 million plan will work," he said. "Well, it's a farce.

"It hasn't worked elsewhere so what makes McClelland think it will work here? Under B.C. law, alcoholics can be shoved into compulsory treatment programs. Yet judges seldom enforce it. Why? It turned out to be a waste of money, that's why. It didn't work for them and it won't work for heroin users.

"Involuntary programs have an even lower success rate than voluntary programs because people are forced react, instead of respond, to the treatment," Stein said.

Former commission member Ian Waddell said B.C.'s 80,000 alcoholics and their families need aid.

"Alcohol abuse is by far our biggest drug problem," he said. "Why is the government spending millions on the province's estimated 7,000 heroin users when only a fraction are known addicts?

Patients of the compulsory heroin program, which is expected to begin early next year, will not be released until they have withdrawn from all drugs, including methadone.

Hoskin, whose 1978-79 budget for the commission is more than $7 million, triple what it was three years ago, said the aim is to arrest "a world-wide narcotic use conspiracy . . . and cut the staggering financial costs in B.C. which amount to $113 million a year."

"Heroin trade is B.C.'s fifth largest industry," he said.

PARTICIPATE IN CANADA'S EMPLOYMENT TAX CREDIT PROGRAM.

HOW TO DO MORE BUSINESS AND PAY LESS TAX.

The Government of Canada has introduced the Employment Tax Credit Program to stimulate employment in the private sector by providing a tax rebate for business. Here's how it works.

1. If an employer expands his normal work force by hiring an unemployed person through a Canada Manpower Centre/Canada Employment Centre, and the job has been created as a direct result of the Employment Tax Credit Program, the business is eligible to claim the tax rebate.

2. Almost any business that's been in operation for more than one year is eligible.

3. The rebate is calculated at $1.50, $1.75 or $2.00 per hour. This rate is determined by the geographic area of Canada in which the new employee will be working.

4. The rebate is deductible from federal income taxes payable but must be added to the business's taxable income. Unused amounts may be carried forward for up to five years.

5. A claim may be made for up to 40 hours work a week for each new employee for a period of up to nine months.

6. Each new job must be full-time. Normally no less than 35 hours a week. And that's it, essentially.

The program has been designed to work with a minimum of red tape. All employers should by now have received a booklet that gives all the details of the program. If it has not been received, employers should contact a local Canada Manpower Centre/Canada Employment Centre.

The Employment Tax Credit Program. It's ready to go to work for Canada. And for you.

School Policy Hit

The opposition renewed its attack on the government's school taxation policies as debate on Premier Bennett's estimates entered its second week in the legislature Monday.

Dennis Cocke (NDP—New Westminster) said the government's public school spending is the lowest of any province in Canada on a per capita basis, as a percentage of income, and as a percentage of gross provincial product.

Cocke also accused the government of increasing local taxes by 78 per cent since it took power. He said this figure was arrived at by adding an average 50 per cent mill rate increase to an average 20 per cent increase in assessments.

He said Bennett has orchestrated a scheme to make school trustees the target of taxpayer criticism, rather than the provincial government.

Bennett said taxpayers must support the school system. It is an illusion that the province gets its money from sources other than provincial taxpayers and should therefore take a larger role in paying for schools.

He said the education ministry's budget is more than $1 billion this year, the highest it has ever been. The budget for the entire government was less than $1 billion 10 years ago.

Charles Barber (NDP—Victoria) said property taxes are obsolete and archaic, and should be replaced by more progressive income taxes.

Vander Z. 'Plotting Takeover'

Premier Bennett was warned Monday he is in danger of losing his job to Human Resources Minister Bill Vander Zalm.

Rosemary Brown (NDP—Vancouver-Burrard) quoted from an interview with Vander Zalm carried in a Dutch newspaper in which she said he outlined his plans to become premier.

She said during debate of the premier's estimates that Vander Zalm was the worst human resources minister the world had ever seen but that he is popular with the party faithful and just biding his time before taking over from Bennett.

"I want to warn the premier about the jeopardy he sits in or stands in as a result of the minister's ambition to one day become premier of this province," Mrs. Brown said.

"How can he administer his department when he hears the little footsteps behind him tripping, tripping, trotting, trotting, breathing over his shoulder — wanting to take over his job?"

Bennett 'Degrading Office'

Premier Bennett was accused Monday of degrading his office by using it to solicit memberships in the Social Credit party.

Charles Barber (NDP—Victoria) said in the legislature that Bennett has used official stationery and his official position to add weight to a party membership drive.

He said the incident was more a matter of standards than a scandal and tabled a letter in the house to back his charges.

The letter, signed by Bennett, written on his stationery and listing as a return address the legislature, says: "I would like to ask you to be part of my own special membership drive.'"

Attached to the letter, Barber said, were five membership application forms, all bearing Bennett's signature.

Bennett said he distributes such letters from his office and he doesn't consider the practice to be wrong. He often receives letters from B.C. citizens asking to join the Social Credit party, and he sends out such letters in return.

Bennett said outside the house that he pays the postage for such letters.

Barber said there was nothing wrong with soliciting memberships, but called on Bennett to "do it as leader, not premier, and make the Social Credit Party pay for it while you're at it."

Eight Unions Strike BCR

NORTH VANCOUVER (CP) — Picket lines were erected at British Columbia Railway locations throughout the province after members of eight unions voted to go on strike late Monday.

Glen Bowles of the United Transportation Union, speaking on behalf of the striking workers, said the vote was held because B.C. Rail supervisors are crossing picket lines set up by members of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union in Prince George.

Those workers, he said, are on a legal strike against the Husky Oil Co.

The Labor Relations Board was meeting late Monday in an attempt to resolve both disputes.

The B.C council of the Confederation of Trade Unions placed a hot edict earlier Monday on all Husky Oil products after a clash Saturday between striking oil workers and B.C. Rail supervisors.

Two pickets said they were brushed by a B.C. Rail engine moving on a spur line leading to the Husky refinery.

The council, which represents 30,000 workers across Canada, said engineers on the B.C. Railway, members of the Canadian Transportation Employees Union, will not handle any products orginating at the refinery.

The oil workers have been on strike since April 19 in a dispute over negotiations for a new collective agreement.

Ex-Socred Candidate In Forged Letter Row

VANCOUVER (CP) — A former federal Social Credit candidate was charged Monday with faking a personal letter that makes it appear that a senior civil servant had been providing a Soviet embassy official with information.

Walter Hans Mueller, 35, of Vancouver, was summonsed to appear in provincial court May 25 on charges of forgery, uttering forged documents and publishing a false statement.

Mueller is also accused of forging and distributing a fake federal government memo that was denounced as a hoax when it surfaced last fall.

Mueller is charged with forging a letter dated Nov. 3, 1977 from Gordon Erik Hobley, Pacific region director of the federal Employment and Immigration Department, to the Soviet embassy in Ottawa.

Prosecutor Richard Israels said Monday the letter, addressed to Dimitri I. Ivanov, implied that Ivanov and Hobley had met before and were on first-name terms.

"It implied that Hobley had passed information to him and would continue to do so," Israels said.

A photocopy of the letter was sent to Hobley's office in Vancouver where it was opened and passed to Hobley who reported it.

Photocopies of the fake memo were sent last October to provincial NDP labor critic Karen Sanford and Len Guy, secretary-treasurer of the British Columbia Federation of Labor.

The memo appeared to have been written by Colonel Robin Bourne of the solicitor general's department to B.C. Labor Minister Allan Williams. The letter implied Williams had asked for a security check into Labor Relations Board chairman Paul Weiler, John Fryer, head of the B.C. Government Employees Union, and Guy.

Mueller is also charged, in relation to the Bourne memo, under the false news provisions of the criminal code with wilfully publishing a false statement that was "likely to cause mischief to a Public Interest."

The charges are the result of a six-month investigation by the RCMP. In January, RCMP seized a typewriter and documents from Mueller's apartment.

Go Ahead Fish

"There is some indication from Ottawa this morning that such approval might be expected within a week," Bennett told the legislature Monday.

The interim agreement was negotiated by the two governments when it became obvious that a treaty between the two countries to settle maritime boundaries and fisheries-related issues could not be negotiated in time for the 1978 salmon fishing season, he said.

Canadian fishing boats have been allowed to fish in U.S. waters since the early 1970s by reciprocal agreements between the executive branches of both governments but this has not been ratified by Congress.

In the telegram to the prime minister, Bennett says the interim injunction places Canadian fishing interests "in a decidedly inequitable and disadvantageous position to U.S. interests."

"This must be rectified forthwith by clear and concise action by the government. The interests of the fishermen on the West Coast and all British Columbians requires no less."

Bennett told the legislature that during treaty negotiations his government has been urging the federal government "to make sure that West Coast fishing interests were not being traded off for East Coast fishing interests."

Opposition leader Dave Barrett expressed appreciation to the premier "on behalf of the opposition and hopefully the fishermen of the province."

Meanwhile, Federal fisheries Minister Romeo LeBlanc, asked in Ottawa about possible retaliatory measures, said "you start talking that way when negotiations have failed. They haven't failed yet."

Esquimalt-Saanich Tory MP Donald Munro told reporters he feels Canadians have been deceived, not necessarily deliberately, into believing the agreement was solidly in place.

TRUDEAU MUM

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau has made up his mind but will wait, probably until Thursday, before saying whether there will be a summer election.

Countering suggestions that Trudeau remains indecisive about an election, aides said Monday the prime minister decided late last week how he will proceed.

But he had let no one in on his thinking, and the prime minister's office had become "very quiet" as it waits for Trudeau's word.

Neutron Bomb Urged

OTTAWA (CP) — Defence department documents show that top military strategists are trying to convince Defence Minister Barney Danson that the controversial neutron bomb would be a valuable addition to NATO's western European arsenal.

Danson has stated that Canada has not made up its mind yet.

The defence documents have been submitted to the cabinet and to members of the Commons defence committee.

The neutron bomb is known publicly, if not accurately, as the bomb that kills people but does not destroy property, a reflection of its capability to limit its explosive power to a much smaller area than the conventional nuclear weapon.

Bonner On Hot Seat As Hydro Probe Opens

Chairman Bob Bonner and other top B.C. Hydro officials will be in the hot seat Wednesday when they appear before the legislative committee investigating Crown corporations.

The main thrust of these exploratory meetings will be to determine how well senior Hydro personnel monitor contracts on construction projects once tenders have been let, committee chairman Elwood Veitch (SC—Burnaby Willingdon) said in an interview today.

Veitch said past performances such as the Mica Dam project which experienced overruns of about $100 million will be looked into, but the committee's main concern is for the future.

"What's been spent has been spent and can't be recovered," he said.

"The question of contract management is of greater importance," he said, noting the main contracts for the $1.4-billion Revelstoke project have not yet been let.

Bonner, chief legal counsel Bill Mitchell, general manager Norm Olsen, senior Hydro technicians and other management personnel will attend the hearings, Veitch said.

He said once a major construction contract has been let — usually a cost-plus contract aimed at staying within an estimated target — it is up to Hydro engineers and management to ensure the contractor's expenses are reasonable, especially if it appears the contract is going over target.

Questions the committee will put to Hydro will be augmented by a series of 50 questions two Vancouver newspapermen earlier asked Bonner but which ended up being referred to the committee.

TOWN TALK

The office of Cmdr. Neil Norton, co-ordinator of nautical events for the Captain Cook bicentennial, is pretty upset these days after arranging to have 15 young Greater Victorians and a Vancouver man fly to Britain, at their own expense, to sail back a three-masted barquentine, only to have arrangements cancelled at the last moment.

The barquentine, Our Svanen, belongs to former Victorian Doug Havers who visited Victoria in March and enlisted Norton's help in finding crew for him. The original idea was to race Our Svanen in the Tall Ships race but when commercial backing failed to materialize Havers decided to use the young Victorians to sail her to Victoria from Poole in Dorset, where she is being refitted.

On Thursday, Norton's office received a telegram saying the whole deal is off.

The telegram came too late for two of the would-be sailors. Derek Norton, 24, of 617 Battery, and Colleen Ryan, 22, of 226 Beechwood, were already on their way to Britain.

Lt.-Cmdr. Art Rowse, Norton's assistant, reports many of the young people, ranging in age from 15 to 24, had given up jobs and apartments, sold their belongings and made other sacrifices in order to make the trip, which was scheduled to end here in August.

Rowse said they had been unable to contact Havers by phone and the telegram gave no indication why Havers had cancelled at the last minute.

Kudos to Rick White, who is one unemployed person not afraid to dig in and work until a job comes open.

Rick has been spending the past two weeks helping landscape the new group home for handicapped persons at 238 Obed.

An apprentice gardener, he says there's no work in his field right now, but when he heard about a boy's club project to landscape the Obed House grounds, he offered a hand.

During the opening ceremonies of the house on Friday Senator Ray Perrault spied Rick raking the yard and went over to talk with him.

"There's one guy who really deserves an award," the senator said later.

What the butler saw is not likely to be revealed by that lawyer's soul of discretion, Oak Bay Mayor Brian Smith, after he has done his brief Jeeves-like stint in domestic service.

Smith's distinguished presence as butler was included in a "gourmet dinner package," one of several unusual items auctioned Saturday at the Glenylon School Fair to raise funds for various school projects.

The package consists of a slap-up meal for 10 cooked by John Eastaugh, a teacher at Glenylon, with another teacher, Susan Irving, acting as maid for the evening and Smith, a Glenylon parent, supervising the proceedings with an impeccable eye for detail.

Carry on, Jeeves . . . er, your worship.

That master of trivia, Bruce Lowther of Cable 10, got a bit ahead of himself in the morning sheet the other day when he pointed out a rare time-date sequence.

He noted the sequence, where you can use the numerals 1-2-3-4-5-6-7-8, happened on Saturday, May 6, at precisely 12:34, or 12:34, 5-6-78.

While an American — who always puts the month first in writing the abbreviated date — would agree with this reckoning, most people in Canada would place the month in the middle column.

In that case the historic moment won't come about until 12:34 a.m. on June 5, 1978.

We aren't sure what's going to happen, but if you miss both 12:34 a.m. or 12:34 p.m.,you'll have to wait another 100 years, at least if you go by the 12-hour clock.

But if you prefer the 24-hour clock, Lowther says the next moment of digital history will occur at 23:45 on June 7, 1989. That's according to the U.S. method. In Canada, it will come at 23:45 on July 6, 1989.

Not only does the station beam its programming to listeners across the Detroit River, its staff consists of Americans except for Dylan and one other Canadian.

He claims to be giving Victoria and Vancouver-based recording musicians unaccustomed play in the Detroit marketplace.

The Western Express bonus draw will be held Wednesday, May 17, at 5:30 p.m. at the McPherson Playhouse. Doors open at 5 p.m.

The show will be hosted by award-winning sportscaster Don Wittman and will salute the Captain Cook bicentennial. Celebrities from three other western provinces will attend.

Admission tickets are free and can be picked up at the McPherson box office

In addition to the regular five grand prizes of $100,000 each and thousands of subsidiary prizes from $25 to $1,000, the bonus special will feature 100 extra winning numbers each worth $5,000.

HANDICAP CENTRE GRADS

By PAT DUFOUR
Times Staff

The first seven graduates of the custodial training course at the Garth Homer Achievement Centre at 813 Darwin will join the Victoria work force this month.

Executive director George Bate says this is one of several achievements of the fledgling centre for the handicapped, which began operating June 1, 1977.

The centre's society has formed a company, Swan Lake Industries, which has obtained contracts for janitorial work and the graduates will receive a minimum wage of $4 per hour.

"We've developed an umbrella industrial complex to help our vocational course graduates," Bate explains. "They'll all be coming off Handicapped Persons Income Assistance (provincial grants). I think that's a pretty good record in less than a year . . . being able to take seven people off the government rolls."

There was no mollycoddling for those taking the course. The hours were 4 p.m. to midnight Sundays through Thursdays, to simulate actual working conditions. They had to provide their own transportation.

The feeling of being self-sufficient, able to get off welfare, is a great achievement for the handicapped, Bate says.

"The biggest thing we have to do is to get the public to realize they're individuals, people," he says.

Contracts are also being arranged for graduates of another course at the centre which teaches people how to repair wheelchairs and shopping carts.

Still more courses are planned.

"We're looking very seriously at a gardening service and a home renovation program," Bate says.

When the centre first opened it was being used by 70 members of Arbutus Crafts. Now, a variety of organizations and individuals find what they're needing through the centre's services.

Bate estimates 650 people use the centre each month, representing 13,500 client hours per month.

The needs of the individual are stressed. Each person using the centre signs a contract between himself or herself and the centre. Rather than trying to get them to enter established programs, the emphasis is on what the individual wants.

Pat Andrews welds together a broken shopping cart

One man, as an example, signed up to learn how to play bridge.

"That's the guts of the centre," Bate says. "It's what he or she wants and if we fail, and all of us do at some time, we take that failure and build on it."

Community support is also rallying for the centre. Last fall, as an example, the Victoria Cosmos Club donated $10,000 for kitchen equipment and other necessities.

The centre's grounds will soon be developed and landscaped with raised flower beds that can be tended by the handicapped.

Xerox of Canada will donate money to buy materials for a large "ferris wheel" which the handicapped can use to swing from one point to the next as they garden. Victoria employees of the company will build it. Members of the Saanich Kiwanis Club have volunteered to help landscape the grounds on Saturday afternoons. This will save an estimated $30,000 in landscaping costs.

"We've doubled what we expected to do, we've moved a lot faster — much quicker than I thought we could . . . but we still have a long way to go," says Bates.

Loto Sales 'Unreal' Across City

"We're sold out, completely sold out," said a spokesman for Howell and Currie Inc., the Vancouver Island distributor for the tickets.

"We sold all of our 39,000 tickets for the June 9 draw. We ordered 2,000 more and sold them in a single day. They're gone."

The chartered banks, who also sell the tickets, tell the same story.

"We're sold out in all our branches," a spokesman for Scotiabank said. "Our Vancouver office is trying to get more but I don't know whether we will get them. It's unreal. Normally the bank staff buys up some of the extra ones at the end but there is none for us this time."

There are two reasons for the big sale: the instant prizes plus the Mother's Day bonus.

There is an early bird draw Friday (two day's before Mother's Day) which encouraged people to buy early to get two chances to win. The final draw is June 9.

In additon, lottery ticket salesmen say buyers are intrigued by the instant prizes — $500, $100, $50, $20 or a bonus ticket in some of the Loto Canada packages.

"It is the game, more than the money," one salesman said. "If they win $20 they immediately buy two more tickets to see what they will win in the next packages."

All sellers are waiting for a decision from Loto Canada about whether they will release more tickets for the June 9 draw. Normally the Monreal lottery office invites people to write in, but the invitation has not been issued this time.

Meanwhile, buyers are also lining up to get in on the bonus prizes for the May 17 Express lottery.

When the last bonus draw was made three months ago, the tickets were sold out two days before the drawing date.

This time the Express is taking no chances and is making as many as 2 million tickets available in British Columbia. Normally the sale is just above 1 million.

BATVAN DRAWS A BLANK

Oak Bay police, using the BATvan, failed to nab a single drinking driver Saturday night.

A spokesman said today 150 vehicles were checked. There were no charges or suspensions.

The van had been assigned to the department for the weekend but wasn't used Friday night because of a manpower shortage.

Precedent Feared On Court

A goverment proposal to return long-awaited court services to Sidney could create a dangerous precedent with far-reaching consequences, Mayor Dick Leigh said today.

Leigh was commenting on the proposal made by associate deputy attorney-general Dennis Sheppard in a letter to council Monday night.

Sheppard said court services could be returned to Sidney if the council is prepared to share the salary of a court administrator. He suggested a ratio of 60-40 with the province paying the greater share. The administrator's time would be roughly divided with three days a week devoted to court matters and two to the municipality.

However, Leigh is concerned the arrangement may hold the municipality responsible for some of the court costs and that, he said, is a departure.

"Courts have always been a provincial or federal responsibility. If we do accept the costs in any way there'll be a spin-off involving who knows how many other municipalities," he said.

The matter has been referred to municipal clerk Geoffrey Logan for study and a cost-benefit breakdown.

Logan said in an interview that while he doesn't think Sheppard's suggestion would create the kind of precedent Leigh fears — because the municipality would be receiving something in return for its contribution — he still has some reservations about its effectiveness.

"I think it would be a difficult arrangement to work under. Who would be in charge? How would the different jobs be divided? Which job would have priority?"

Trio Charged In Taxi Holdup

Two women and a man have been charged with robbing a 35-year-old cab driver in Colwood early Monday.

Delores Isobel Granfield, 23, 1843 Island Highway, Kathryn Eileen Piercy, 23, and Frank Woodrow Richards, 31, both of 2211 Shelbourne, were remanded to Friday after appearing in provincial court today.

The women were released in their own recognizance in the sum of $2,500. Richards was held in custody.

The three were arrested within four hours after C&C Taxi driver Shingari Sunner reported being robbed.

Sunner told police he was driving three persons from downtown Victoria to the Colwood Inn at about 2:30 a.m. when they told him to pull off on Ocean Boulevard.

While a man and one of the women grabbed him from behind, the other woman in the front seat yanked out the radio receiver and hit him in the mouth with it.

"They tried to really kill me," said Sunner, who came to Canada from the Punjab in 1970 and has driven cab for C&C since 1976.

Sunner said they hauled him out of the cab, rolled him down an embankment and rifled his jacket pocket which contained about $65. He managed to take the keys to the cab and some other money he was carrying and hide them in the grass.

Vocational School Plan Under Study

Establishment of a career-training high school will be studied by a new Greater Victoria school board committee on educational options.

The school would be a full-fledged technical-vocational high school aimed at fulfilling the needs of hundreds of students dissatisfied with existing programs in high schools.

Members of the new committee have not yet been selected, board chairman Susan Brice said at a school board meeting Monday night.

The main function of the committee will be to select new and challenging courses.

The proposal for the career school was presented to the board by parent Donna Jones.

Mrs. Jones, who has children in Margaret Jenkins Elementary and Central Junior Secondary, called for a "five-year secondary school that is vocationally and technically oriented."

She told the meeting there is well-documented proof that the education system does not reflect the needs of a large number of students.

She was referring to a report recently released by the Greater Victoria Teachers Association, which states that one-quarter of all high school students feel the present education system doesn't provide enough options.

The report, compiled from a GVTA survey initiated in 1976, says 24 per cent of the 1,300 parents who responded to the questionnaire indicated they are dissatisfied with the selection of programs at the junior secondary level.

Program Eyed For Pregnant

An alternative school program for pregnant students will be studied by Greater Victoria school board.

The proposal was submitted in a brief to the board Monday night by Lorie Robinson, a former high school counsellor now with the ministry of human resources.

It calls for an education program and the services of a part-time teacher to be set up for pregnant girls who have dropped out of the school system.

Robinson said there are 181 pregnant girls 18 years old and under in the district and only 10 of them are in school.

Her request was supported in a letter to the board from Dr. James Ricks of the health ministry's integrated services branch.

22 Vice-Principals, Principals to Transfer

Transfer of 15 principals and seven vice-principals was approved Monday night by Greater Victoria school board.

Although parents of children attending some of the schools have indicated they aren't happy with the mass moves, only one principal appealed his transfer, a board spokesman said.

The board reviewed the appeal and decided to let the principal (his name was not released) stay at his old school, community relations officer Bill Stavdal said today.

A delegation from McKenzie Elementary school made a brief presentation at the meeting protesting the transfer of principal Gary Tuttle to Oaklands Elementary.

In addition to Tuttle, the other principals who will transfer in September are:

The principal of Campus View Elementary, Robert McKee, will move to Glanford Elementary; Lawrence Pimlott moves from Glanford to Vic West Elementary; Gerald Bell from Vic West to View Royal Elementary and Jack Crowther from View Royal to Campus View.

Tolmie school closes at the end of this term and principal Wilfred Durrant will go to Burnside Elementary, while Burnside principal Ernie Pollard transfers to Sir James Douglas Elementary.

The board also approved the appointment of Dr. Wallace Eggert, who is the assistant director of studies at the University of B.C., as princiipal of Central Junior Secondary.

today's markets

Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto stock market continued to edge fractionally higher today in active mid-afternoon trading.

Volume of trading by 2 p.m. totalled 2.37 million shares, down from 2.53 million at the same time Monday.

Advances and declines were tied at 188 each with 246 issues unchanged.

Cara Operations Ltd. dropped 1⅜ to $14⅝ a share on the sale of 4,170 shares following its opening resumption. The company reported that talks with Air Canada about a possible sharepurchase were inconclusive. Cara operates the airline's flight kitchens.

Block Bros.

Block Bros. Industries reported net earnings of $3,966,000 or 81 cents a share for the fiscal year ended Jan. 31, 1978, down from $5,042,000 or 92 cents a share for the same period a year ago.

Total brokerage sales for the year were $846,000,000, up slightly from $843,000,000 in sales for the previous year. Sales in B.C., however, which account for 64 per cent of total sales, were eight per cent lower at $545 million, compared with $593 million a year ago.

A company official said that while the real estate market in B.C. has been weak, the company performance in divisions other than land has been acceptable.

Canada Tungsten

The president of Canada Tungsten Mining Corp. Ltd. of Toronto said that the price of tungsten, which fell during the last four months, should increase during the remainder of 1978.

C. A. Born also told the annual meeting that construction work at the company's operations in the Northwest Territories is on schedule. When completed, it will increase the mine and mill capacity to about 1,000 tons of ore a day from 500 tons, he said.

Born said that sales in 1978 are comparable with 1977 volumes and demand growth is expected to remain the same at about 4.5 per cent for the year.

J. W. Goth, president of the tungsten marketing unit of Amax Inc. of New York, told the meeting that lower tungsten prices in the early part of 1978 are due to the possibility of increased sales from the United States government stockpile and the fact that Chinese marketing plans for the year are not known.

The U.S. government has announced it plans to reduce its current holdings of 66 million pounds to 42.7 million.

However, the government action has not disrupted the market and no sales have been made below the London Metal Exchange market price, Goth said.

Dofasco

Despite sharp cost increases in plant equipment, Dominion Foundries and Steel Ltd. (Dofasco) will continue to expand its operations, president F.H. Sherman said.

He told the annual meeting of shareholders the cost of equipment increased by more than 65 per cent during the last five years and resulted in a lower return on capital investment.

However, he said the company would not be able to maintain its market position and profit levels if it did not expand.

As reported earlier, Dofasco had earnings of $19.3 million or $1.08 a share in the first quarter of 1978, up from $14.3 million or 89 cents in the comparable period a year ago.

Sherman said two of Dofasco's subsidiaries, Prudential Steel and Guelph DoLime, are expanding their operations.

New equipment and modifications to an existing line at Prudential will enable it to offer the oil and gas drilling industry a complete range of casing and tubing and increase the company's pipe and tube capaity, he said.

McGraw-Hill

The president of McGraw-Hill Ryerson Ltd., of Toronto, says an increasing percentage of the company's sales and profits is generated by Canadian-produced books.

Lloyd H. Scheirer, speaking at the company's annual meeting, said sales of books by Canadian authors accounted for 34 per cent of the $21.9 million in sales in 1977.

Nineteen per cent of sales were of books adapted in Canada for the Canadian market. Combined, the 53-per-cent total compared with 51 per cent of sales in 1976 amounting to $19.6 million.

He said books imported from the company's United States parent, McGraw-Hill Book Co., accounted for 40 per cent of sales, while the remainder was published by the other 13 publishers the company represents.

Scheirer said the company anticipates its Quebec operation, McGraw-Hill Editeurs, will have no trouble conforming with the provisions of Bill 101, the province's language charter. It is also anticipated that the Quebec operation will do well in the sale of French-language books.

Du Pont Cda.

Du Pont of Canada reported net earnings of $2.1 million, or 26 cents a share, for the quarter ended March 31, compared with $1.4 million, or 17 cents a share, for the same period last year.

Net sales were $144 million, compared with $124 million for the first three months last year.

President Frank McCarthy told the company's annual shareholders meeting Friday he expects higher sales in 1978, but only a small gain in net earnings.

"Given our cautious view of economic prospects, we do not believe this rate of improvement can be sustained," he said, referring to the first-quarter earnings.

Fibre products, especially carpet yarns, accounted for about half the sales increases this year over the first quarter of 1977, McCarthy said.

However, he warned that while improvement in the company's fibre business is expected to continue, the problem of excess world capacity in some fibres would not likely be resolved until the 1980s.

"Our non-fibre product lines—chemicals, plastics and packaging films—are, in general, expected to perform in solid if not spectacular fashion for the rest of the year," he said.

McCarthy said that while Du Pont's earnings improved in 1977, they were unsatisfactory in relation to investment and he warned that capital spending may decline this year.

"We will not, of course, be embarking on any major new expansions in the immediate future," he said. "However, we are not going to overlook any unusual opportunities that arise."

Wherever people are headed, they all have one thing in common: everyone has to stop and eat sooner or later.

It's no big deal, but somehow it always takes a little longer than expected. To be back on the road in 35 minutes is making good time.

In that time, you can make the whole trip on Pacific Western Airlines. And be with your family and friends for a nice leisurely meal.

Mistakes Still Hurt but Mystique Gone

PRAGUE (CP) — Team Canada made a painful discovery at the world hockey championship Monday night—you can't defeat the Soviet Union by outplaying them for 55 minutes and then suffering a couple of mental lapses.

"That's exactly what the Russians do—wait for your mistakes," said coach Harry Howell after the Canadians blew a 2-1 lead with four minutes to go and went down to a heart-breaking 4-2 defeat.

"We made two mistakes defensively, the puck was in the net and that turned the whole game around."

But the Canadians have another shot at the Russians on Wednesday and there's a strong feeling that this time they'll be able to pull it off.

"It could be a break coming right back at them again because the Russian mystique is gone now. We proved we can play them even or even a little bit better than even. It's just that we couldn't put the puck in the net tonight."

Howell's remark about the Russian mystique was an oblique reference to the fact that Canada suffered 8-1 and 11-1 losses to the Russians in last year's world championship in which they finished fourth.

The game marked the end of the preliminary eight-nation round-robin in which Czechoslovakia, the defending champions, finished first with a 7-0 record after coming from behind with two third-period goals to beat Sweden 3-2.

The Russians, with a 6-1 record, are second and both Canada and Sweden have 5-2 marks but Canada holds third place because it beat the Swedes 7-5 on Saturday.

The four teams now play a medal round-robin with the final order determined by total points from the two series.

Against the Russians, Canada suffered its first lapse after the game was only a few seconds old. Defenceman Dave Shand let the puck get away from him in the Canadian end. With his teammates heading out of their own zone, Vyacheslav Fetisov passed to Boris Mikhailov who beat goalkeeper Dan Bouchard.

Inaccurate Canadian shooting and good netminding by Vladislav Tretiak, an old nemesis of Canada's, kept the Canadians off the scoresheet until 4:09 of the third period when Don Lever fed a pass to Wilf Paiement who skated around the Soviet net, lost the puck, regained it and scored with a 15-footer.

With the predominantly pro-Canadian crowd of more than 14,000 shouting encouragement, the Canadians turned it on, missing several great chances before Tom Lysiak set up Lever for the go-ahead goal at 15:40.

"Once we got that second goal it appeared as if everybody thought the game was over and we had it won," said Howell.

He replaced the Lever-Paiement-Glen Sharpley line to get the emotional people off the ice but the Russians caught the Canadians with all their forewards on the same side.

Fetisov fed a pass to Valeriy Kharlamov who, despite a desperate effort by the Canadian defence to get back into position, beat Bouchard with a high shot 29 seconds after Canada had gone ahead.

Then Victor Zhlutkov sent Sergei Kapustin on a clean breakaway and he pulled Bouchard to score the goal that made it 3-2 after just another 51 seconds.

With the Canadians trying desperately to tie the score, Lysiak was called by West German referee Josef Kompalla on a questionable hooking call and Kharlamov made it 4-2.

Unlike last year's game in which penalties killed any hopes Canada had of beating the Russians and winning a medal, the Canadians took five of the eight penalties this time and played a man short only four times. And only the final penalty resulted in a goal.

In Monday's other game, Sweden outplayed the Czechoslovakians for the first 50 minutes but then the defending champions rallied with two quick goals against goalie Goran Hogosta.

Czechoslovakia and Sweden meet again Wednesday night while the Canada-Soviet Union match Wednesday is set for 5 p.m. local time (9 a.m. PDT).

The Kid and His Colt: Just Like They Said

The weekend in review, and the kid and his colt certainly did it up proud at the Kentuckey Derby, Saturday. Steve Cauthen came home to Kentucky to ride Affirmed to victory just the way Affirmed's trainer Laz Barrera said the race would be run. It was almost like a replay, remembering what Barrera had said in the pre-race interview. And even from this corner there was the recall from a meeting with Cauthen at Vancouver's Ex-Park on opening day this year.

Stevie Wonder was up north on a dark day in Los Angeles and he suggested then, that sure, he'd like to win the Kentucky Derby. After all, wasn't he a Kentucky boy, and hadn't he finished dead last in his first race at Churchill Downs? More to the point he said at the time that Affirmed was "the best horse I have ever ridden;" And that takes in a lot of territory for the youth who only turned 18 on the Monday before the Derby.

He explained that a three-year old is just a little different from older horses in that "you can feel him (Affirmed) improving all the time."

And he also repeated for the national audience, Saturday, that he rode every horse the same way — "to win."

So now it's on to Baltimore and the second phase of the famed triple crown for three-year olds. Can Affirmed do it again over a distance that is one-sixteenth of a mile shorter than the Derby? Will Believe It, who actually had the lead for a time, if only briefly, benefit from the shorter distance and come out of the Derby a fitter horse? Or will Alydar, the charger, who was eating up yardage with each stride at the finish at Churchill Downs get, as they say, better racing luck, and wear down Affirmed in the stretch?

Those will be the stories for the next few weeks, and also, what about Sensitive Prince? It would seem he could be closer up at the shorter route.

Barrera has been firm in his contention that Affirmed was never in any danger in the Derby and could run away from Alydar if he had to. The feeling at Calumet is that the real test hasn't taken place yet; and, until the triple crown is history, Alydar will bide his time and the results of the next two races before conceding anything to Affirmed. And so will Believe It, who may not be such a bad bet in the Preakness at that.

Better than Seattle Slew? It would seem so for Affirmed, because Seattle Slew did nothing after last year's triple crown and then took sick; and only this week is getting into action for the first time since last summer.

But then who really knows? Times don't mean much because of the variance of the racing surface. But Affirmed did show he can run when challenged; and that may be the key to the whole business.

Otherwise, when veteran George Grover (a veteran at 31?) decided to call it quits a few weeks ago as a goalkeeper with the Shamrocks, he didn't know how valuable a commodity he was, or he was about to become?

All sorts of things have happened to other goalkeepers since then and Vancouver Burrards, who have lost Dave Evans for an indefinite period, have been inquiring of George and his plans for the summer.

New Westminster Salmonbellies are reportedly in trouble in goal as well and are also believed to have made overtures to Grover, who was an all-star just three seasons ago in 1975.

Evans hurt his knee in the game against Coquitlam Saturday night and before that was suffering from an injured hand from what coach Ross McDonald called "an old-man's injury." He slipped getting out of the bathtub, and cut his hand when he grabbed for support. Saturday he suffered stretched ligaments and a broken bone in his right knee.

It's no secret that without Evans, Burrards aren't the same team as they are with him. If one player beat the Shamrocks in last year's Western Lacrosse Association final series, it was Evans. He often kept the Rocks at bay while his mates were endeavouring to get by an equally capable Larry Smeltzer in the Shamrock net. And it was further evidenced at this year's WLA opening that Burrards, with Brad Berrow in goal in place of Evans, were not the same confident club they were last year.

For George, it will be a tough decision. The will to play is probably still there; but then there's his loyalty to think of. He has been a Shamrock for 12 years and, in that time, he missed only one practice. Can any other player make that claim.

* * *

Incidentally, Nanaimo Timbermen appear to have a high-scoring gang in the fold with Jim Lynch, Bob Cool and Kevin Alexander firing the howitzers and Brian Evans doing the loading. Eleven assists Evans got in the opener and that's a record and one more than Pete Meehan got on August 4, 1941.

Coach Ken Alexander was saying last week that "yes, we can always use some players, but we'll be right there. And we'll have our own team in the years to come." Ken, of course, was alluding to the fact that the Shamrocks had new imports on hand this season; and "where will they be, when they all go home?" he asked.

It was a gentle dig, and setting up the Island zone of the WLA for future consideration. Nanaimo-Victoria meetings have a habit of becoming classics and this year appears to be no exception in that several members of the Timbermen call Victoria home. And oh, yes, the Timbermen do have a handy import themselves in Mac Maude who played goal last year for Brampton Excelsiors in the Mann Cup and before that with the Brampton junior team.

"I think we'll do all right," said Kenny.

And they certainly did on opening night, demolishing the Salmonbellies as they did.

Already the season gives promise of being interesting.

Italy Defeats Chile

DUESSELDORF, West Germany (AP) — Paolo Bertolucci and Adriano Panatta won the decisive doubles match as Italy beat Chile 2-1 in the opening round of the $200,000 Nations Cup tennis tournament Monday. The Italian pair beat Patricio Corejo and Jaime Fillol 6-4, 6-4 after the teams split their singles matches.

Smyl Boosts Bruins

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) — Stan Smyl, playing in his fourth Memorial Cup tournament, sparked New Westminster Bruins to a 6-4 victory over Trois-Rivieres Draveurs on Monday night, deadlocking the major junior hockey championship series half-way through the double round robin.

Smyl scored three goals and set up another two for the Bruins, defending titlists from the Western Canada Hockey League. The Bruins, Draveurs of the Quebec Major Junior Hockey League, and Peterborough Petes from the Ontario Major Junior League all have 1-1 won-lost records.

"Tonight, I think everybody calmed down," said Smyl, a hustling little workhorse at forward. "Yesterday everybody tried to do something extra, to do everybody's else's job. Today we did our own."

The Petes downed the Bruins 7-2 Sunday at Sudbury, the co-host city, while the Draveurs beat Peterborough 5-2 here Saturday night. Trois-Rivieres and the Petes meet tonight at Sudbury.

Brian Young, John Ogrodnick and Ken Berry scored single goals for the Bruins, who held a 39-31 edge in shots on goal, while Normand Lefebvre had two goals for the Draveurs for the second game in a row. Richard David and Carey Haworth were the other Trois-Rivieres marksmen.

"I thought he played well," New Westminster coach Ernie (Punch) McLean said of his goaltender, Richard Martens, who was replaced after giving up six goals against Peterborough a day earlier. "He came up with big saves. But so did the kid at the other end."

Jacques Cloutier in the Trois-Rivieres goal may, in fact, have given up just five goals. The Bruins were credited with one score, by Smyl at 5:29 of the second period for a 4-2 New Westminster lead, that coach McLean said hadn't gone in.

Referee Jim Lever signalled a goal, despite the fact the goal judge did not turn on the red light, and the Draveurs protested only mildly and briefly.

"No, it didn't go in," said McLean. "But it's on the scoreboard and we're taking it."

The teams were tied 2-2 after a first period that saw 11 minor penalties called, six against Trois-Rivieres, but each club had only one power-play goal.

Jan Stephenson Worries as Birdie Putt Heads for Hole

Almost Too Cozy

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — Struggling Jan Stephenson, despite a final-round 74, won the third annual Women's International golf tournament Monday with a 72-hole total of 283, five under par and four strokes ahead of U.S. amateur champion Beth Daniel.

The Australian professional, who began the final round with the same advantage over Daniel, had announced she would take no chances—but she almost played it too cozy. Three bogeys dropped her lead to a single stroke on the back nine before a 15-foot putt brought her first birdie on the par-three 15th.

Daniel, a 21-year-old Furman University student who will turn pro in the fall, also finished with a two-over-par 74 over the Devil's Elbow course at Moss Creek Plantation. The four bogeys and two birdies gave her a four-round total of 287.

Even so, it was the best finish for an amateur in a Ladies Professional Golf Association event since Nancy Lopez tied for second in the U.S. Open in 1975.

The victory earned Stephenson $12,000, bringing her winnings this year to more than $42,000.

Tied for second among the pros with 288 totals, each taking home $6,333, were Penny Pulz, Donna Caponi Young and Pam Higgins.

Next were Jane Blalock, Judy Rankin and Kathy Postlewait.

Stephenson said she did not consider that she played too cautiously Monday to protect her lead. In fact, she said she played aggressively for the pin on each approach shot but tricky winds sent the ball over the green several times.

The blonde 26-year-old backed down on statements she had made following two previous days of play to the effect that "I hate golf."

"Oh, I love golf," she said. "When you win, you feel so good."

Lawn Bowling Team Picked

EDMONTON (CP) — The seven-member Canadian lawn bowling team for the 1978 Commonwealth Games has been selected from a 14-man national squad which that held spring training at Los Angeles in early April.

BAKERS AWAIT LEAGUE RULING

Victoria McDonalds are 1-1 in the 1978 Western Canada Major Junior "A" Lacrosse League entering tonight's game against New Westminster Salmonbellies at Esquimalt Sports Centre.

But, with any break the Bakers might even be undefeated before the end of the week.

It all depends on a league ruling and the result of tonight's game.

Defeated by Burnaby Cablevision, 11-10, Sunday, McDonalds have protested two refereeing decisions from that game to referee-in-chief Reg Higgins. The disputed calls came up when McDonalds were twice assessed delay-of-game penalties and, in each case the ball was awarded to Burnaby and a goal resulted. McDonalds contend that a faceoff should have been held rather than the ball being awarded to the opposition.

"We think we've got a case," said team general manager Bob Reid. "But the rule book isn't completely clear on this. It boils down to interpretation and we'll accept Higgins' decision."

Salmonbellies, meanwhile, won their first game of the season Monday night with a 15-14 decision over Richmond Roadrunners.

It was the Roadrunners' second defeat. McDonalds defeated Richmond in the season opener here last week, 16-12.

Rob Dalzell, Terry Miller and Mark Tuura each scored three goals for the Salmonbellies. Brent Greig and Jim Northey had two goals each for Richmond who led 6-3 after the first period. Score was tied 9-9 after two.

Interesting Problem For Boston Coach

PHILADELPHIA (CP) — When Boston Bruins acquired the services of goaltender Ron Grahame last fall, a few people wondered about the reasons behind the move.

There is no doubt that Grahame, who had been performing for Houston Aeros of the World Hockey Association, is a good goaltender but the Bruins had two others in that category—Gerry Cheevers and Gilles Gilbert.

Philadelphia Flyers got a good indication of Grahame's puck-stopping talents Sunday night, even though they beat him 3-1 in the third game of their National Hockey League best-of-seven semi-final series and now trail 2-1 heading into tonight's contest.

But whether Grahame will be in goal tonight was a matter of conjecture. He did not know after Boston's workout and Cheevers, who has a six-game winning streak going against the Flyers in playoff action, had no idea if he would be playing.

It posed an interesting problem for Boston coach Don Cherry, although it is a problem most NHL teams would like to have.

"I don't know if I'll be playing tomorrow night," said Grahame, who found out Friday in Boston that he would start the third game.

That would seem to contradict Cherry's statement that he decided before the series who would play when.

"I had only played against Philadelphia once during the regular season," Grahame said Monday. "I hadn't played against (Bobby) Clarke. Last night (Sunday) was the first time I had played against Clarke.

"But last night's game was much more important than the game in Boston. That game in Boston was important too, because this is the playoffs. Last night's game or any playoff game has more importance."

Grahame, who also participated in the WHA playoffs with Houston, said the NHL post-season competition holds more importance.

"I'm happier here. It was much more intense than the regular season. I was much more nervous last night than any time during the regular season.

"It was more strenuous, both physically and mentally. There is no question that is much more intense in the NHL than it was in the WHA.

"It is much more critical. The Stanley Cup has . . . more tradition and I guess that's one of the reasons."

One thing that some people are anticipating is some rougher stuff between the two clubs. Thus far, the series has been rather tame with more flareups and referee Ron Wicks had to call just six penalty minutes to the Flyers and four to the Bruins in Sunday's game.

"Maybe it wasn't quite as physical here as it was in Boston," said Philadelphia defenceman Jimmy Watson. "But I remember getting bumped around a few times in the game.

"In a series like this, you can't afford running around trying to check people. That way you can get caught out of position."

Sittler, McDonald Frustrated

TORONTO (CP) — Down 3-0 in games in their best-of-seven semi-final series against Montreal Canadiens, elimination looms large for Toronto Maple Leafs as they prepare for tonight's fourth game.

"It's been frustrating," says Leafs captain Darryl Sittler in summary of the series to date. His frustration stems not only from the team's poor showing against the Canadiens, but also from the fact he and linemate Lanny McDonald have been shut out in the series.

The Leafs offence depends on a high scoring output from McDonald and Sittler, and Sittler explains the scoring drought by saying, "it's just that they have three Borje Salmings on defence and it's hard to beat them."

"And if you manage to get by them, Ken Dryden (the Canadiens goaltender) makes it even tougher."

The "three Borje Salmings" was a reference to Montreal star defencemen Larry Robinson, Serge Savard and Guy Lapointe but Sittler said those three were not his only problem.

"They have guys like Bob Gainey who come back and check all the time. You get checked a lot closer during playoffs."

Coach Roger Neilson, maintaining a once-more-into-the-breach attitude toward the seemingly impossible odds against the Leafs, says the key to a victory tonight is to "finish every check and make them look around."

Going into the fourth game of the series tonight, Toronto has met Montreal 11 times. A tie early in the season is their best effort against Montreal.

Picking Games Team No Cut-and-Dried Job

The British Columbia Summer Games includes golf competition and you'd think there shouldn't be any problems in selecting an eight-man team for the trip to Penticton Aug. 17-20.

Easy? Not quite. One of the stipulations laid down by the games committee is that competitors for the men's competition shall be under 26 and "individuals who have competed in previous Canadian Amateur and/or Canadian junior championships are NOT eligible to compete in the B.C. Summer Games."

Strike out the Jimmy Rutledges, Dave Micks, Grant Millikens, Lanny Sawchucks, Rick Gibsons and any other young man who has appeared in a national tournament.

All of Vancouver Island is included in zone six, along with Ocean Falls and Powell River, and that creates another problem: how to pick eight deserving golfers from such a scattered area?

Tentatively agreed that four of the zone six golfers will come from the Greater Victoria area and the remaining four spots will be allocated for up-Island centres, Powell River and Ocean Falls.

You'll be hearing more about it later.

Patriarch of the golfing Reynolds, the Uplands member reached the milestone Sunday.

Still too young to shoot his age, Earle went to the other extreme. He suffered through 101 strokes on his home course, where par is 70. It was, unquestionably, Earle's worst round in several years.

"If this is what it means to be a senior," he was heard to say, "then I'm all through with golf."

Until the next time, Earle.

Anyway, belated birthday wishes, Mr. Reynolds.

Professionals will use two courses and play 36 holes to determine their first Vancouver Island champion.

Sponsored by restauranter Shortts Collins, the pros will vie for about $1,500 in prize money and the Vaughan Trapp Memorial Trophy. Play starts Friday at Glen Meadows and winds up the following Friday at Victoria Club.

The pros hope to expand the tournament into a pro-am event next year.

The finishing touches have been applied and the Crown Life Pro-Am comes to British Columbia this month. With golfers from all handicap levels able to compete for more than $8,000 in cash and merchandise prizes, the club team championship will start at all clubs May 26.

The format was first introduced in Manitoba six years ago and later expanded to Saskatchewan and Alberta. It has been extremely popular with the Prairie golfers and expansion into B.C. makes it the largest "tournament" in Western Canada.

Benefiaries of the pro-am will be the Childrel's Hospital, which will receive 60 per cent of the proceeds, and the BCGA's junior development program, which will receive the balance (40 per cent).

Provincial golfers will enjoy the format, details of which are to be officially announced next week.

SHORT CHIPS: Winner of the annual Masonic tournament, for the second time in three years, is Colwood's Nick Melnechuk. . .Also a winner in 1976, Melnechuk topped the field this year with a six-over-par 71 at Broome Hill. . .Only hole-in-one recorded in recent days was one by Doreen Baker, on the 15th at Cedar Hill. . .Stan Wiseman, Al Smith, Mac Sharp and Ron Orr teamed up for a net 55 to win a fourball competition at Glen Meadows at the weekend. . .Todd Cup winner at Oak Bay was George Thompson. . .His net 130 for 36 holes was on stroke better than Bill McCarter's total. . .Vancouver's match-play final will be a pro-amateur playoff. . .Moving into the final Sunday were Point Grey amateurs Ken Gurney and Don Griffiths and professionals Bob Cox and Tom Whittle. . .Gorge Vale's Dorothy DeGirolamo fired a fine 81 to capture low gross honors Sunday in the annual Cowichan ladies' tournament. . .Next event on the ladies' calendar will be the North Island tournament at Comox next Sunday. . .

Victorians Named To Junior Camp

Officials of the Bicycling Association of British Columbia have selected all three provincial representatives and the alternative from Victoria Wheelers to attend a national junior training camp in Montreal next week.

Twin brothers Sean and Scott Clazie and Danny Pedersen will leave Sunday for the camp, which is being used to select a team for the World junior championships later this year in Trexlertown, Pa.

Ashley Walker was selected as the reserve.

Toronto Club Bids for Budd

J.I. Albrecht, general manager of the North American Soccer League club, has confirmed that the Metros-Croatia have initiated talks with Colorado Caribous to obtain the big forward.

Budd, who won ABC television's World Superstars competition earlier this year, was formerly with the NASL Vancouver Whitecaps and is a member of Canada's national team.

SCOTT TO JOIN ESKS?

EDMONTON (CP) — Tom Scott, a former wide receiver with Winnipeg Blue Bombers, may join Edmonton Eskimos after becoming a free agent in mid-April.

"I'm not going to listen to you if you keep calling me 'paleface.'"

Passing Rice Fails With 'Yaz' on Deck

By The Associated Press

Jim Rice got plenty of respect from Kansas City Royals, but it turned out they were worried about the wrong man.

It was Carl Yastrzemski who did all the damage.

While the Royals pitched around Rice and even went so far as to use a four-man outfield against the Boston strong man, Yaztrzemski's bat caused the Kansas City plans to backfire Monday night.

The Boston veteran knocked in four runs, three with a homer and another with a sacrifice fly, to lead the Red Sox to an 8-4 victory at Fenway Park.

In the only other major league baseball game Monday night, New York Mets edged Cincinnati Reds 3-2 in 10 innings in the National League.

Rain caused a wholesale washout of other contests. Four were rained out in the American League, including a doubleheader between Chicago and Baltimore and the Minnesota-New York and Oakland-Toronto contests. Two games were rained out in the National—Houston at Philadelphia and Montreal at Atlanta.

"Yaz did just what he's done against other pitchers," said Al Hrabosky, victim of Yaztrzemski's seventh-inning homer that put the game out of the Royals' reach. "I should have gotten him out and kept us in there, but I didn't. I could have thrown the ball in a little better, but he wanted to hit the ball, and he did."

Prior to Yastrzemski's game-clinching hit, Kansas City manager Whitey Herzog had ordered an intentional walk to Rice, the American League leader in home runs and RBI.

Earlier in the game, the Royals showed a rare amount of respect for Rice in the third inning, setting up a four-man outfield by sending third baseman Jerry Terrell to left and moving left fielder Tom Poquette to left-centre. Ironically, Rice hit a pop fly that dropped for a single in the infield.

Boston was leading 5-4 on Fred Lynn's fourth homer of the year when right-hander Dennis Leonard intentionally walked Rice. Herzog then brought in Hrabosky, his relief ace, who surrendered Yastrzemski's second homer of the season.

Vonk Scores Four In Whaler Victory

Gerry Vonk paced Juan de Fuca Whalers to a 13-10 victory over Nanaimo Timbermen in a Vancouver Island Junior "B" Lacrosse League game at Juan de Fuca Monday.

Vonk scored four goals and had three assists.

VICTORIA TIRE
GOODYEAR EAGLE
A new standard of excellence in radial tire performance!

Now there is a very special Radial Tire available from Goodyear... The Goodyear Eagle with Flexten cord belts and it soon will become the standard by which other radials are judged.

What makes the Eagle Radial so special?

In one word it's "FLEXTEN".

Flexten is a Goodyear exclusive tire cord. It's made from Aramid, a man made fibre that is, pound for pound, stronger than steel.

Flexten belts help deliver extra long mileage. Goodyear's experience with this amazing tire cord in other radial tires such as The Ice Radial, Customgard GT Radial and the Police Special Radial indicates that the Eagle Radial will deliver exceptionally long mileage and outstanding performance.

Highway tests on the forerunner to the Eagle, produced outstanding results. After 45,000 actual miles the tires still had nearly half their tread remaining. These were controlled tests run on ordinary highways at legal speed limits with non-professional drivers. Tire pressure, alignment and balance were carefully maintained and the tires were rotated regularly. The mileage you can expect from Eagle Radials depends on your driving habits and the care you give your car and tires.

We know you'll like the feel of Eagle Radials on your car... the handling, the braking, the smooth quiet ride and you'll like the long mileage they deliver.

Come in and have us install a set today and start enjoying a new standard of radial tire performance tomorrow.

PRO TENNIS CIRCUIT TO OPEN IN VICTORIA

TORONTO (CP) — American Express Co. of Canada announced Monday the creation of a professional Canadian tennis circuit with total prize money of $100,000.

The Challengers Circuit, with some of the top international newcomers vying for Association of Tennis Professional points, includes five regional opens leading to the $25,000 Masters tournament at Laval, Que., Aug. 2-6.

The $15,000 satellite tournaments will provide young Canadians as well as the international tourists an opportunity to pick up up ATP points that will put them among the 16 men and eight women in the Masters showdown.

"It's the first time ATP points have been involved on the circuit in Canada," said California-born Harry Fritz, now a Toronto resident who is ranked No. 1 by the Canadian Tennis Association. "I won the circuit two years ago, but it meant nothing since there was no recognition at the world level.

"Now, if I should happen to win this one, it means that I'll jump from around 220 to the top 100. It will certainly improve my stature on the pro tennis tour."

CTA president Laurie Strong of Toronto said the new tour will provide Canadian tennis with three major benefits.

"The first, of course, is an opportunity to promote the game regionally from Victoria to Halifax. Second, it gives our top tennis players an opportunity to compete against their peers at the international level.

Strong said the contract with American Express is for three years.

"The length of the contract is necessary for this type of circuit to develop." He said the ATP system means that whatever points a player picks up at any of the tournaments goes into a computer which provides weekly world standings.

"One thing about this Canadian circuit is that it will give Canadian tennis fans an opportunity to see some of the young international stars just before they reach the top pro circuit," Strong added.

Fritz, meanwhile, said the five regional tournaments will give young Canadians a chance to perform against some of the world's future stars.

"They'll see just how much they have to work to get to the top and what they have to work for," Fritz said.

The regional tournaments, carrying total purses of $15,000 each, begin in Victoria June 27-July 2 with the British Columbia Open and continue across the country with the Prairie Open at Calgary, July 4-9; Ontario Open at Toronto, July 11-16; Quebec Open at Quebec, July 18-23, and Atlantic Open at Halifax, July 25-30.

Preliminary play preceding the regional tourneys will determine the 32 men and 16 women who qualify for the opens in Victoria, Calgary, Toronto, Quebec and Halifax. Points standings will decide the Masters players.

One feature of the circuit is that men's and women's singles winners in both the regional Opens and Masters tourneys will win the same amount—$1,800 in the regionals and $3,600 in the Masters.

Claremont Shows Strength

The defending team champion managed to record the most qualifiers during the opening round of eliminations Monday at Centennial Stadium in the Greater Victoria high school track and field meet.

Claremont has 28 athletes qualified, including 18 in the "A" flight.

Mt. Douglas, which had a nine-year title reign interrupted last year by Claremont, placed 14 athletes in the "A" flight and 11 in the "B" flight.

Following, in order, were St. Michael's University School (18 total), Dunsmuir (11), Victoria High (5), Esquimalt (4), Oak Bay (4), Parkland (3), Spectrum (3), Belmont (1), Norfolk House (1) and Reynolds (1).

Judy Tobacco of Mt. Douglas posted a time of 25.8 seconds in the girls' 200 metres while Kari Higginbottom and Laura Mahoney, both of Dunsmuir, finished with times of 26.6 and 26.8, respectively.

Rhonda McKenna of Claremont recorded the best time of 2:18 in the girls' 800 while clubmate Linda Nugent was second-best at 2:28.

Joe McAlister of Claremont and Grant Main of Mt. Douglas each recorded a time of 61.7 in the boys' 400 hurdles.

On the field, Nick Bennett of Mt. Douglas leaped 12.61 metres in the triple jump, Nancy Puckett of Parkland reached out to 9.37 metres in the shot put, Ted Watson of SMU threw the hammer 34.96 metres and Rob Karcher of Mt. Douglas hurled the discus 39.54 metres.

Eliminations continue today at 4 p.m. and continue through Wednesday The finals get underway at 1 p.m. Friday.

Devlin Leads

DALLAS (AP) — Australian Bruce Devlin fired a three-under-par 67 Monday at the Oak Cliff Country Club to take the $1,500 first-place prize by one stroke in the Methodist Hospitals of Dallas invitational pro-am golf tournament. Tom Watson shot 68, along with Lee Trevino and Peter Oosterhuis of Britain. They all received $866.

Heavens! NBA Shows Fan Drop

NEW YORK (AP) — Attendance was down around the National Basketball Association this season but nobody is pushing the panic button—the loss was only an average of 26 spectators a game.

Statistics released by the league showed that a total of 9,874,155 fans attended 902 games during the 1977-78 regular season. That was a drop of 23,866 from the record attendance of 9,898,021 set the previous season.

Denver Nuggets repeated as league leaders in home attendance, attracting a total of 657,673. That, however, was a rather sizeable drop of 45,460 from their mark of 703,133 the previous season.

Completing the top five in home attendance were Philadelphia, 644,456; New York, 626,815; Chicago, 548,844, and Los Angeles, 534,017.

But the most impressive figure belonged to Portland, which ranked seventh in the NBA with total home attendance of 519,306. That represented a sellout of all 41 games at Portland Memorial Coliseum, capacity 12,666.

Twelve NBA clubs showed decreases in home attendance, the largest losses being recorded in Cleveland, down 115,484; New Jersey, 85,239; Detroit, 80,410, and Buffalo, 66,941.

Sharon's Display Sparks Skylarks

Sharon Ferrill put on a sharp two-way display Monday to lead Victoria Skylarks to an 8-0 shutout over Strawberry Vale Juniors in a Greater Victoria Senior Women's Softball League game at Hyacinth Park.

Victoria Athletics picked up a win by default over CFB Esquimalt in the other scheduled game.

Ferrill pitched a three-hitter for the victory and bashed out a pair of singles to score a run.

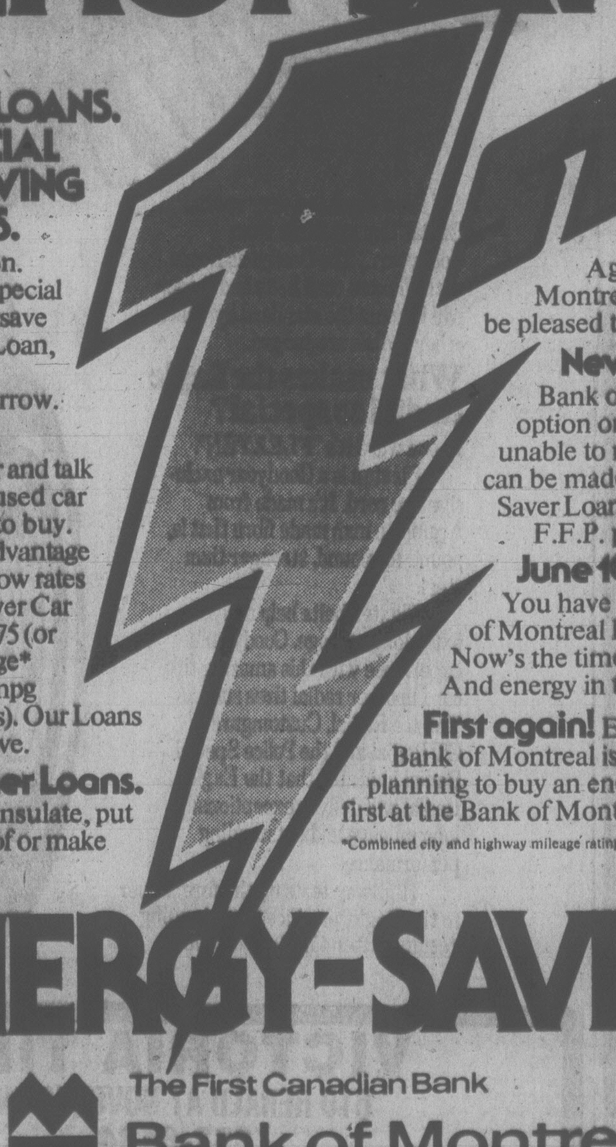
Leadoff hitter Lisa Atkinson provided most of the offence, recording four hits in five trips to the plate, stealing five bases and scoring twice.

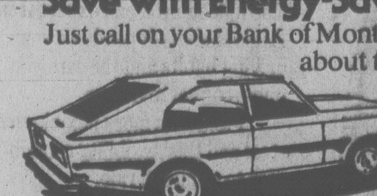
SAVE ENERGY SAVE MONEY



INTRODUCING ENERGY-SAVER LOANS. A LIMITED-TIME OFFER OF SPECIAL INTEREST RATES ON ENERGY-SAVING CAR AND HOMEOWNER LOANS.

Bank of Montreal believes in energy conservation. That's why we're offering Energy-Saver Loans at special rates until June 10th. To help encourage people to save energy. When you qualify for your Energy-Saver Loan, you could save a substantial amount on your repayments, depending upon the amount you borrow.

Save with Energy-Saver Car Loans.



Just call on your Bank of Montreal Loans Manager and talk about the kind of new or used car you're planning to buy. You can take advantage of the special low rates on Energy-Saver Car Loans if it's a 1975 (or later) model, and the average* mileage performance when new was 22 mpg or 35 km/gal or better (based on published statistics). Our Loans Manager can show you how much you could save.

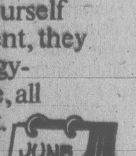
Save with Energy-Saver Homeowner Loans.

We could save you money if you're planning to insulate, put on new siding, install a new furnace, repair your roof or make any other energy-saving improvement.

Again, your Bank of Montreal Loans Manager would be pleased to show you how much you could save.

New Disability Insurance option.

Bank of Montreal now offers a low cost disability insurance option on F.F.P. personal loans. So if you ever find yourself unable to make payments because of sickness or accident, they can be made for you. While you're discussing your Energy-Saver Loan, be sure to ask about this option. And of course, all F.F.P. personal loans are life insured at no extra cost.



June 10th is the last day to save.

You have from now until June 10th to see your Bank of Montreal Loans Manager with your energy-saving idea. Now's the time to get moving to save money on your loan. And energy in the years ahead.

First again! Energy-Saver Loans are just one more way the Bank of Montreal is first with what you need. Whether you're planning to buy an energy-saving car, or make home improvements, see us first at the Bank of Montreal. But see us before June 10th.

PRESS BLASTS DUTCH SYSTEM

THE HAGUE (Reuter) — The Dutch press Monday described Holland's preparations for the World Cup soccer finals in Argentina next month, as "chaotic and unacceptable."

The first special training session for the 26-man squad, arranged for Monday, was cancelled Friday because of club commitments, injuries, or the refusal by some players to attend.

But assistant coach Jan Zwartkruis said training would be held Monday after all — for 10 members of the squad who volunteered for the workout.

Six of the selected players could not attend the training session because they are on PSV Eindhoven's team for today's UEFA Cup final second leg against Bastia of France. A seventh, Dutchman Johnny Rep, is on the Bastia team.

The Rottercam Algemeen Dagblad said that Holland's four World Cup players with Anderlecht had been refused permission to attend Monday's training session because of friendly matches arranged by the Belgian club.

The paper criticized the KNVB for its national team preparations policy, pointing out that several other World Cup finalists have been in special training camps for months.

"We don't know whether to laugh or cry. While Holland wasted time playing practice matches against soccer dwarfs like Israel and Tunisia and plan to play a tired FC Bruges of Belgium twice in the next week or so, other countries like Brazil, West Germany and Argentina have played a series of games against opponents of tougher calibre," the paper commented.

The Amsterdam newspaper De Telegraaf sympathized with Zwartkruis, who has seen most of his planning for training sessions come to nothing.

De Telegraaf said that the KNVB had made the mistake of putting Monday's training session on a voluntary basis, under pressure from some players and clubs.

"In doing this, it has not only made Jan Zwartkruis look ridiculous, but also permitted an important section of the selected players to decide on whatever suits themselves.

"This is completely unacceptable," the paper said.

Bertoia Returns Favor Funny Way

Bertoia, who hadn't driven in a competition before, borrowed Bill Okell's MGB and then set fast time of the day in the Victoria Motor Sport Club's slalom event Sunday on the Juan de Fuca Recreation Centre parking lot.

The neophyte driver turned in a time of 56.097 seconds to win the "D" prepared class by an extremely narrow margin over Okell, who clocked a time of 56.101 in his own car.

Class results:

"B" modified: 1. Bill Morgan, McKnight, 56.57; 2. Larry Patterson, Dune Buggy; 3. Paul Whitworth, Caldwell D-13.

DUCHESS HOME AFTER SURGERY

LONDON — The Duchess of Kent has been released from a hospital after undergoing a gall bladder operation. She has experienced gall bladder trouble for five years and recently was forced to cancel a trip to New Zealand because of her illness. The Duchess, 45, also suffered a miscarriage last autumn. Her husband, the Duke of Kent, is first cousin to the Queen.

Greta Denies Writer Links

NEW YORK — Greta Garbo has signed two affidavits denying she collaborated with authors of any biographies, and her lawyer says publishers have made "extraordinary, six-figure" offers for the reclusive actress's autobiography.

"Miss Garbo has been offered, through me, extraordinary sums of money for an autobiography," her lawyer, Lillian Poses, said Monday. "If she doesn't want to do it and cash in on it herself, doesn't it make sense that she wouldn't help anyone else for nothing?"

The affidavit released Monday was the second denial from Miss Garbo to be made in a month. In both, the 72-year-old actress denies any collaboration with Antoni Gronowicz, whose biography of Miss Garbo has been purchased by Simon and Schuster for a reported $150,000 advance. It would be published after Miss Garbo's death.

Mrs. Poses said no legal action is currently planned on behalf of Miss Garbo, "but we are considering our options, which means we haven't made a decision."

He Still Has Faith In Poison

DUNNVILLE, Ont. — A man with an incurable nerve disease says he still believes snake venom is helping him despite a statement by a Boston scientist that the treatment is useless.

"It must do some good because the doctors said I'd be dead in a year and it's been two years since I was there," said Art Morrison, 47, of nearby Selkirk.

Morrison, who has atymorphic lateral sclerosis, has travelled twice to a medical clinic in Florida for the snake venom treatments. His trips, the last of which was in December, have been paid by public donations of $14,000.

Morrison now is in hospital in this community about 50 kilometres southwest of Welland and continues to take snake venom treatments, which cost about $120 a month.

Doctors say people with the disease, also known as Lou Gehrig's disease, gradually lose use of their arms and legs and their speech becomes slurred as the nerves deteriorate.

Dr. Richard Taylor, a Boston scientist, told the American Academy of Neurology in Los Angeles last week that patients who improved at the Florida clinic were only showing temporary improvements which are part of the natural course of the disease.

Dr. Taylor said that in a study he gave one group of patients snake venom and another group an inactive substance. The patients who took the inactive substance showed more improvement than those treated with snake venom, he said.

Morrison said he did not expect to be cured by the treatments but they make him feel better.

Barnard Backs Euthanasia

CHICAGO — Dr. Christiaan Barnard, the South African heart-transplant pioneer, said in an interview published Monday he favors euthanasia in hopeless cases where the patient consents.

Dr. Barnard told the Chicago Tribune that he practised passive euthanasia — discontinuing use of extraordinary means "to maintain a life of pain and suffering" — and said there is a place for active euthanasia in modern medicine.

"Take a man with terminal cancer," he said. "You discontinue all treatment. You know he's going to die. You've done all you can; but it is hopeless. He will die in two or three weeks.

"Why can't one stop the suffering of two or three weeks by giving him an injection and putting him to sleep?"

Dr Barnard admitted euthanasia might be misused by physicians and said: "One should have guidelines and controls — perhaps it is possible to have euthanasia only by consent of the patient to start with."

At another point, he said: "Our management of an animal in pain is more humane than our management of human beings in pain and suffering."

MACHETE KILLER WINS NEW TRIAL

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Juan Corona, convicted of the machete murders of 25 farm workers, will get a new trial because his lawyer made a "farce and mockery" of his defence, the California state appeals court ruled Monday. The court said Corona's former lawyer, Richard Hawk, failed to provide an adequate defence and was too interested in cashing in on a book about the case. However, it added that the evidence against Corona was overwhelming. A date for a new trial has not been set.

Seen Any Suspicious Grannies Lately. . .?

NEWTON, Mass. (AP) — Suspicious shopkeepers and public-spirited neighbors have supplied police with tips on about 200 little old ladies in the last six weeks, but the silver-haired bandit who twice held up a Newton bank is still at large.

For a while, edgy bank tellers waited apprehensively for the round-faced little woman to march in again, threaten to blow everyone up and then demand more money.

Her last robbery was 1½ months ago today.

"I think she probably went into retirement," said Detective Charles Feeley. "When you're batting 1.000, you don't want to take a chance of dropping down to .666."

The one-woman crime wave started St. Patrick's Day when a woman wearing a knitted hat and carrying a plastic ice cream bag strolled up to the middle window of the Newton-Waltham Bank and Trust Co. in Newton, an affluent suburb west of Boston.

She handed the teller a note saying she had a bomb and wanted money. The teller gave her $200 in $20 bills. The woman turned and went out the side door. She repeated the procedure at another bank March 28.

"Every bank in the city is attuned to this and on the lookout," said Feeley.

Donny Weds His Debby

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Singer Donny Osmond and college student Debra Glenn were married Monday in the Salt Lake City Mormon Temple.

The ceremony came two weeks after the couple announced their engagement. They had said the wedding would be in June.

Only family members and friends attended the ceremony. Church temples are restricted to faithful members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon), who are barred from discussing in detail what takes place inside.

Elder Paul Dunn, a member of the church's Quorum of the Seventy and a long-time Osmond family friend, performed the ceremony.

Church spokesman Jerry Cahill said church officials were informed of the marriage plans Sunday.

Snowblower on Runway Before Crash, Jury Told

CRANBROOK (CP) — A snowblower was on the runway at the airport near here Feb. 11 when a Pacific Western Airlines jet aborted its landing and crashed killing 43 persons, a coroner's inquest was told Monday.

Other witnesses said the pilot of the Boeing 737 did not tell the air radio operator that he was approaching the airport, and the jet landed 10 minutes earlier than a Calgary air-traffic controller estimated it would.

The testimony came from three of an expected 24 witnesses at an inquest into Canada's sixth-worst air disaster. The crowded courtroom included lawyers representing the estates of 16 persons killed, one survivor, as well as the federal justice department, the Boeing aircraft company, the Canadian Air Line Pilots Association and the Alberta government-owned airline.

Jody Weir, 17, of Cranbrook, a Pacific Western Airlines (PWA) ground handler, said he saw the aircraft make a normal landing during daylight but with visibility limited by snow. He then noticed a snowblower about 500 metres down the 1,950-metre runway and moving in the same direction.

Weir testified that the aircraft and blower were about 100 metres apart when the jet took off, flying over it. He could not say whether the blower was in the centre of the runway.

The jet climbed at a 30-degree angle, he said, and its engines were abnormally loud as the plane banked to the left near the end of the runway and crashed.

Richard Lindeman of Cranbrook, a commercial pilot, said he was working at the airport when he heard the jet's engines revving up after it was about 250 metres down the runway. He said he did not see a snowblower on the runway.

Lindeman said the jet flew level with the runway for about 600 metres, a normal procedure for gaining speed when aborting a flight, then climbed, banked sharply to the left and crashed "with a soft explosion and a huge fireball."

He said he ran to the air radio station and spoke to the operator. "He said 'he (the pilot) never called in, he never called in,' " Lindeman testified.

Cranbrook, like many small airports, does not have a control tower. Air radio operators give pilots information such as weather and runway use, but they are not licensed to control aircraft.

Frederick Lowe, air traffic control chief at Calgary airport, testified that the air traffic control centre at Calgary guides an aircraft until it approaches Cranbrook.

Lowe said a controller gives the aircraft clearance to approach the Cranbrook airport and the pilot lands on his own.

Lindeman testified that pilots do not have to contact Cranbrook before landing, unless Calgary orders them to, but said "its good airmanship to call in."

A transcript of radio messages between Calgary and the aircraft was introduced. It contained messages between Calgary and Cranbrook, but none between Cranbrook and the aircraft.

It showed that three minutes after the aircraft left Calgary for Cranbrook, Calgary told the Cranbrook air radio operator that the aircraft would be approaching in 32 minutes, the normal flight time.

Calgary called Cranbrook 22 minutes later on another matter, and the air radio operator said: "Stand by please, I've got an emergency."

Calgary called back nine minutes later to ask where the PWA aircraft was. The operator said: "He's the emergency.

"Holy Christ," radioed Calgary.

"That's what I say," replied Cranbrook.

Flight attendant Gail Bunn of Edmonton, one of six survivors, testified that the aircraft touched down normally and the reverse thrusters were applied.

The thrusters are cup-shaped pieces of metal that reverse the direction of a jet engine's force and are used for braking on touchdown.

Mrs. Bunn testified that the plane braked on the runway for a few seconds before it began taking off again.

"We were still climbing when we banked to the left and crashed," she said, calling the steep bank "nothing to be alarmed about."

Mrs. Bunn said she was sitting in the rear of the aircraft when the its fuselage split about five rows of seats from the back.

While the centre section was engulfed in flames, she and a passenger found the rear exit door was jammed.

"I moved some debris from the door," she said. "I counted to three and we both pushed and it opened."

They left the aircraft but returned to help a child leave the wreckage.

What One Gives . . .

BURNABY (CP) — The treasurer of this municipality says what one hand of the British Columbia government gives, the other hand takes away.

Bert McCafferty said Monday the benefits of a large number of new provincial grants announced last year are more than nullified by the reduction in provincial school grants.

The net loss in Burnaby, he said, is about $60,000.

He said Burnaby will receive an additional $1.71 million from Victoria in cost-sharing grants arising from revenue-sharing legislation and a promise to pay grants equal to full taxes on government buildings.

The Burnaby school district, however, will receive $1.77 million less for basic education programs, he said.

Vancouver city will get $2.2 million more in revenue sharing and grants in lieu of taxes but $2.3 million less in school grants.

New Westminster, Richmond and Delta also face over-all losses ranging from $18,000 to about $1 million.

Police Struck Man During Drug Hunt

VANCOUVER (CP) — RCMP Const. Gary Kirkpatrick said Monday that he punched a Surrey man in the stomach during a drug search, but he said he did it to prevent the man from swallowing a cap of heroin police thought he might have had in his mouth.

Kirkpatrick and fellow RCMP constables Hugh Stewart and David Moll, Vancouver police detective John Edwards and the city of Vancouver are being sued for damages in an alleged case of mistaken identity.

Gerald Schuck and his wife say they were assaulted and falsely arrested during an incident at a drive-in restaurant here last July. The case is being heard by Justice George Murray of the British Columbia Supreme Court.

They allege that they were unjustifiably abused, that the husband was grabbed by the neck as he sat at the wheel of his car and was pulled out of the car by the hair when he resisted, that the wife was taken violently out of the car by her wrists and that both were handcuffed while officers searched unsuccessfully for drugs.

Constable Kirkpatrick said he went to the driver's side of the car, reached in and seized Schuck by the neck with one hand and held the back of the man's head with the other to prevent him from swallowing. At the same time, he identified himself as police, he said, but could not produce a badge as both hands were busy.

He testified that the man struggled strongly, and broke the grip from his neck.

Search Ends For Rafters

SQUAMISH (CP) — RCMP have called off the search for two teen-aged girls missing since Friday after a rafting mishap on the Mamquam River near here, an RCMP spokesman said Monday.

One girl was identified as Judith Koop of Vancouver. The identity of the other girl was withheld pending notification of relatives.

Tommy Weis, 17, of Vancouver, who was riding the rubber raft with the girls, said they jumped out because they feared the raft was approaching a waterfall.

"It was really a fast-flowing water ahead and we thought there was a waterfall," he said. "They panicked and one of them said she was getting out.

"Judy just jumped after her."

Weis, who had no previous experience on his two-metre-long raft, said he checked out the route ahead of time.

"We stopped off at a nice quiet pool but they wanted to go on farther," he said. "They didn't listen to me so we went down two more sets of rapids.

"Then we saw a bad turn ahead and we didn't see any farther."

After the girls jumped in, tipping the raft, Weis managed a gulp of air before going under.

"That's the last I saw of them. I went over a little fall and thought in my mind 'This is the end.' "

RCMP Charge Gun Collector

NORTH VANCOUVER (CP) — RCMP have laid two charges against gun collector John Kenneth Hutchinson, 32, following the seizure last December of 150 weapons, including 45 machine guns, from his North Vancouver home.

He was charged with possession of prohibited weapons, namely eight Browning .50 calibre machine guns, and with possession of a restricted weapon, a percussion .45 calibre pistol which did not have a registration certificate.

A Walk To Aid Others

Helping others to help themselves is the theme of United Way's walkathon which is set for a choice of 10 or 20-mile circuits around Greater Victoria on Saturday.

Walkers are being encouraged by a chance to win a 10-speed bike and everyone who collects at least $20 from pledges will get a United Way T shirt.

Anyone from the public or United Way agencies is eligible to take part in the fundraising effort — on foot or in wheelchairs.

The opening will be spread between 8:30 and 9:30 a.m. from Scout House, 1034 Johnson, where pledge forms and maps are available, unless they are obtained from United Way.

Those going the full 32 km distance will see most of the Victoria-Oak Bay waterfront and some of the Saanich marine scene in Gordon Head before turning south again to return to the starting point via Shelbourne, Hillside, Cook and Douglas.

Half-way walkers will cover south Oak Bay and Victoria, arriving back by way of Oak Bay, Foul Bay, Fort and Pandora.

United Pharmacies will supply first aid for feet.

WARMING UP for the Great Kilometer Kaper are Hugh McLeod, his seeing eye dog Jackson, Jill Landon, and her mother Lynn Landon, who are helping support the agencies that help them. They represent CNIB and Pearkes Clinic, but United Way helps other groups such as Boy Scouts, YM-YWCA, Boys Club, and other youth groups expected to take part in the outing around Greater Victoria on Saturday.

4 Escapers Captured

CHILLIWACK (CP) — Four of eight prisoners who escaped from the Mount Thurston Minimum security forest camp near this Fraser Valley community were recaptured Monday.

RCMP set up roadblocks following an escape Sunday night by the prisoners. RCMP said the prisoners, between 17 and 22 years of age, were found missing at bed check.

Tracking dogs were searching the Chilliwack Lake area where some of the prisoners, none believed dangerous, were believed to be hiding.

Grants Awarded

Twenty-four grants totalling $586,534 have been awarded under the federal-British Columbia Industrial Development Subsidiary Agreement (IDSA) to B.C. companies and regional districts, the governments announced Monday.

The grant money is provided by B.C.'s ministry of economic development and the federal department of regional economic expansion.

Merger Rejected

KITIMAT (CP) — The Canadian Union of Smelter and Allied Workers (CASAW), representing workers at the Alcan Smelter, has rejected a merger with the Canadian Association of Industrial, Mechanical and Allied Workers (CAIMAW).

The 2,100-member union voted on the weekend 64 per cent to reject the merger.

HONEY BEE SWARM QUIETLY GIVES UP

PORT MOODY (CP) — A mild-mannered microwave repairman was the most popular man on the block Sunday when he donned his bee veil and saved a home from being taken over by a swarm of honey bees.

Guy Norwich was called into this Vancouver suburb by resident Martin Timothy when it became apparent the bees intended to stay. They had stung about 10 people on the block.

The rescue consisted mainly of Norwich walking into the swarm, placing a wooden box on the ground and watching the bees fly into the box.

But, being a good showman and having an audience of about 15 neighborhood kids, Norwich performed, and his audience loved it.

He said the bees were simply following their queen to a new home and the infestation was a natural occurrence.

Doctors Misusing New Ulcer Drug

VANCOUVER (CP) - Two Vancouver physicians say a new drug for the treatment of peptic ulcers is being widely misused by doctors.

Dr. H. T. Debas and Dr. Hugh Chaun of the University of British Columbia medical school write in the latest issue of the B.C. Medical Journal that they were "distraught to see the widespread use of this drug as though it were an antacid, in the management of patients with dyspeptic symptoms (indigestion)."

The drug, called cimetidine, with the brand name Tagamet, was recently released in Canada after tests show it effective in treating ulcers of the stomach duodenum and in controlling bleeding in the stomach and intestinal tract.

But the doctors said the drugs has known side effects and perhaps others yet to be discovered.

Lack of Money Forcing Red Cross to Cut Back

GENEVA (AP) — The International Committee of the Red Cross says it is being forced to curtail its activities and close offices because it is short of money.

"Money is still our biggest and most agitating problem," Jacques Moreillon, director of principles and law at the committee's headquarters here, said in an interview Monday.

He said the committee's 1978 budget of $10 million "is the price of one single fighter plane, a ridiculously small amount."

The committee is a neutral international organization of Swiss citizens that looks after the sick and wounded in wartime as well as political prisoners and citizens caught up in other turmoil.

Moreillon said several nations in western Africa would allow the Red Cross to visit political prisoners, but his organization doesn't have the staff to send even visiting representatives.

At one time, Moreillon said he had 500 political detainees to visit ina single Latin American country.

"It is the nature of governments to put politics first and humanity second. And since humanity is the product we are selling, nobody wants to buy," said Moreillon.

Enoch Swings Labor Defeat

By FRANK RUTTER
Times London Bureau

LONDON — The British Labor government was defeated Monday night but will defy tradition by remaining in power.

The engineer of defeat was a man who had helped to elect Labor in 1974.

Savoring his moment of power was Enoch Powell, one of Britain's most controversial politicians, who tipped the scales in the House of Commons where he led his six fellow members from Northern Ireland, the Ulster Unionists to the opposition side.

But not this one.

Prime Minister James Callaghan is determined to hold onto power perhaps, in another snub to tradition, until next year, waiting out the full five year term instead of the normal course, which is to call an election after four years.

The defeat by eight votes came on a Conservative amendment to the finance bill which would reduce the basic rate of income tax by one penny - one percentage point - from 33 to 32 per cent.

Chancellor of the Exchequer Denis Healey said the government would accept the defeat, and suggested several ways of finding the $750 million needed to finance the tax cut, which will not go into effect until fall.

In 1974, Powell, then a Conservative, refused to stand for his party, and dramatically announced that he had cast his vote for Labor in an advance poll.

It was one climax in a turbulent political career. Powell, a brilliant orator, classical scholar, professor of Greek was considered a potential prime minister. But he fell afoul of the Tory leadership several times — first when he resigned from a junior ministry in 1958, then when he was accused of being a racist because of his continual criticism of British immigration and warnings that it would lead to violence, and sacked by former Tory Leader Ted Heath in 1968.

COSTA RICA BARS VESCO RETURN

SAN JOSE (AP) — President Rodrigo Carazo fulfilled a major campaign promise following his inauguration Monday and barred fugitive U.S. financier Robert Vesco from returning to Costa Rica.

Vesco, wanted in the United States on charges of embezzling $224 million, left Costa Rica April 30 for a business trip around the Caribbean, his lawyer said at the time. He is believed to be on the island of Grenada, off Venezuela.

"Wherever he is, let it be known that he cannot come back to Costa Rica," Presidency Minister Jose Rafael Cordero said in announcing the decision to reporters.

Namibia Talks In Balance

UNITED NATIONS (Reuter) — A Western independence plan for Namibia hung in the balance today after the territory's guerrilla leaders called off talks and flew home to bury the dead left by last week's South African raid on their camps in Angola.

"The talks, as far as we are concerned, are suspended indefinitely," Theo Ben Gurirab, UN observer of the South-West Africe People's Organization, told reporters.

"We are at the moment busy burying the dead and attending to the wounded and the maimed," he said. "So we want to devote all our time at this point to attend to the grave problems created by the attack on our civilian settlements by South African troops."

He said the South African incursion, launched from bases in Namibia, killed at least 600 Namibians and wounded about 300, most of them women and children.

South Africa, unanimously condemned by the Security Council last Saturday, said the attack was directed at SWAPO bases used for guerrilla raids into Namibia.

The SWAPO delegation's departure was announced about an hour before it was due to begin talks Monday.

Venus Probes Planned

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States and Soviet Union are preparing separately to send four unmanned spacecraft to Venus later this year in an expansion of man's inquiry into the secrets of Earth's nearest planetary neighbor.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced today that the first of its two Venus explorers, called Pioneers, are scheduled to take off from Cape Canaveral, Fla., May 20. A second spacecraft is set for launch Aug. 7.

NASA sources said Soviet scientists also are planning a dual Venus expedition. Both Soviet spacecraft are planned for launch in August, with one to attempt a gentle landing on the hot, cloud-shrouded planet and the second to fly past Venus.

BELFAST (Reuter) — British troops shot and killed a young man and wounded another Sunday as they tried to drive a stolen car through an army checkpoint in Belfast, police said.

CIA Link To Ghana Coup

NEW YORK (Reuter) - The Central Intelligence Agency was involved in the February, 1966, coup which overthrew President Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana, the New York Times reported today.

The newspaper quoted intelligence sources as saying the CIA's role in supporting dissident army officers who deposed Nkrumah's regime "was carried out without prior approval from the high-level interagency group in Washington that monitors CIA clandestine activities."

The sources said the monitoring group had rejected a previous CIA request seeking authority to plot against Nkrumah.

Life Not One Big Costume Party

Vest an integral part of new layering

By BERNADINE MORRIS

No sooner are the soundtracks turned off the European fashion shows than the beat is picked up on Seventh Avenue. Here, the crowds are less ferocious and so, for that matter, are the clothes.

American designers seem to be more aware than their European counterparts of the fact that life is not one big costume party. So they provide clothes for women to weat in offices and to dinner at friend's house. They're not averse to the trendy — you eould see the shoulder pads tacked into one of Willi Smith's coats when the mannequin slipped it off — but they manage without the frenzy.

Moderation is the key, and that goes for narrow skirts as well as for broader shoulders. You can walk in the slimmer skirts and you don't look as if you're going out for scrimmage in the shoulder pads.

Pants taper, vests layer and small jackets abound to provide new elements to attract the eye when women begin shopping for clothes for next fall and winter. Those who have become addicted to comfort in the last few seasons, when clothes were predominantly free and flowing, will not have to throw in the towel either. Loose clothes persist, even in the collections of Willie Smith and Carol Horn, both of whom have their eyes on the swingers.

Neither has waved goodbye to layering, though the layers can take the form of a dress over pants or a vest worn over a tunic.

Smith calls his trousers "dirndl pants," which is a good enough way to describe the bunchy-at-top, tapered-below shape he admires. Cummerbunds, vests, bibs and bow ties provide all the jazz necessary to make these pants outfits look zippy.

But the big news at Smith's company, called Willi Wear, is the shirts and tunics with puffy, Victorian leg-of-mutton sleeves. They balance the ballooning pants and work with dirndl skirts, too.

Carol Horn continues her irreverent attitude of layering jacket over jacket, vest over tunic, and skirt over petticoat or pants. And just to show she knows what is going on, she shows a sweater with bulky, obvious shoulder pads. One hopes her tongue is in her cheek.

The emphasis in her collection for Habitat is on easy clothes that can be piled on in an individual way so the wearer can give her own imprint to her clothes. In original color combinations, such as blue with purple or wine with mustard, the outfits have a spontaneous look, as if they just happened.

DISCO WESTERN FOR COW GIRLS

NEW YORK (AP) — It was disco gunsmoke under the chandeliers as cow girl models paraded in fringe jackets, long skirts with petticoats, flannel shirts, boots, string ties and a get-up that would have made Miss Kitty swoon.

Ralph Lauren has unveiled a fall collection that ranges from comfortable old west rustic to flashy new west disco with brightly-colored skin-tight satin cow girl pant suits.

The look is masculine, horsey and solid with a kind of I-dare-you-to sexiness. It ranges from leather jodhpurs to man-tailored pants suits with narrow ties and lace pocket handkerchiefs.

Between the extremes is a wide variety of substantial, elegant autumn clothes: long skirts, vests, sweaters, jackets. Some have a comfortable, about-campus look with mixed prints and plaids.

Others are solidly cosmopolitan, like the smooth sweater dresses and the dark tweed suits with skirts that button up the front—but are largely unbottoned.

The jacket, Lauren's forte, is a key element in the collection, and the look is long, broad-shoulded and man-tailored.

By L. L. COLEMAN, M.D.

We're big tennis buffs in our family. I play a little each day. The children play a few times a week. My husband, however, can only play weekends, but he seems to make up for all the days that he misses during the week by staying on the courts for hours. Sometimes, he comes home in such a state of exhaustion that he can barely make it to the couch. I can't believe that so much exercise can do his heart all the good he thinks it does. How do doctors feel about this? — Mrs. G.V.

Dear Mrs. V.:

I know how this doctor feels about it, and I'm certain that I voice the opinion of other doctors, too. It is utterly ridiculous for anyone to exhaust himself and still call it "exercising for health."

It is generally acknowledged by doctors everywhere that well-paced, sensible exercise is not only beneficial, but essential for good health. But many "weekend athletes" compete with the memory of their capacity when they were at school. They simply refuse to recognize the limitations that come with years. Even those who are in excellent shape, "working out" each day, should not overextend themselves to the point of total physical fatigue.

About once every few months, the tip of my nose blows up and I look like a circus clown. It hurts, too. Then comes the antibiotics and the wet dressings and I'm fine again for a few months. What can I do about it? — Mr. P.C.

DEAR MR. C.: I'll whisper my answer so the whole world won't know that I'm accusing you of being a chronic nose-picker. Mind you, that does not have to be done in a socially unacceptable manner. Nose-picking with a handkerchief or a facial tissue can rudely tear out the hair cells and expose the roots to the bacteria that normally live in and about that area.

Try to lubricate your nose with any light mineral oil. Do this several times a day. Be sure to treat the inside of the nose with the gentleness that it deserves.

When Elsie Eliason first opened her plant and crafts shop in Kamloops she was always too busy to give her customers the individual attention they deserve. Or to find the time to organize her business properly.

Then she got together with Lissa Chartier.

Lissa works five days a week.

She takes care of customers, keeps the store clean and when Elsie's not around, does a pretty good job of manageress.

And Elsie has the time to spend with her customers and to run her store the way she wants to.

Couldn't you use someone like Lissa Chartier?

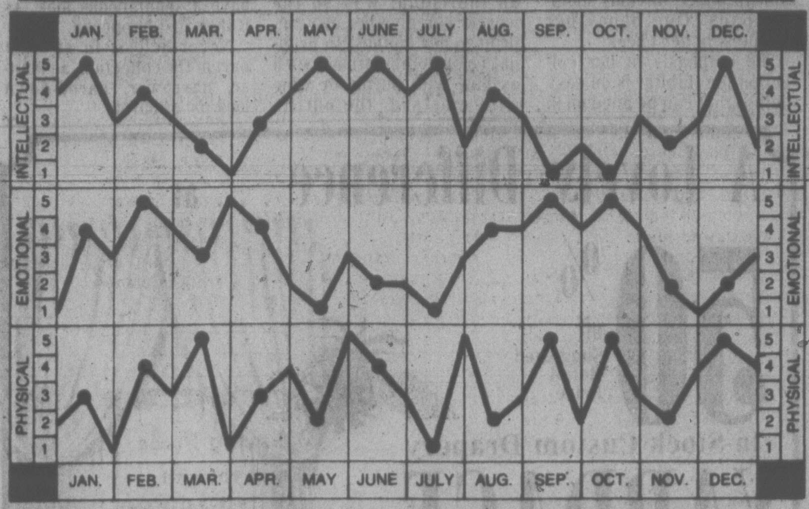
Bio-dex

Your computerized biorhythm

By Ken J. Michaels

© Copyright 1977

Dist. by Toronto Sun Syndicate



HOW TO USE YOUR CHART:

Locate your month of birth. The dots on each graph highlight your biorhythm readouts. Check the scales on the left or right for your Intellectual, Emotional and Physical factors, from 1 to 5. Add these three numbers to obtain your Bio-dex. The Bio-dex is computed on average population age based on official Government statistics.

BIO-DEX READOUT:

0-5 Negative Cycle-	Keep things simple and uncomplicated for the next two days. Life will improve.
6-10 Neutral Cycle-	The emotional level is your clue. Postpone matters of the heart if level below 2 points.
11-15 Positive Cycle-	Joint ventures will pay off in surprising but satisfying ways. Jump in!

What is the best time to take things easy or to work extra hard? That's a question we don't think about too often. We all feel the pressure of work from time to time, and my advice to Bio-dex readers is to use the charts to determine the best course of action. The key may be in your physical readout. Don't try to push too hard if you're physically low. When your level improves you will probably find it easier to get things done.

Fire Puffer Made from Scraps

THE MOTHER EARTH NEWS®

...it tells you how

You'll seldom find a piece of housekeeping equipment that is both as charmingly decorative and downright useful as a fireplace bellows. Never mind that one of these "puffers" sells for $12 to $20. You can put your own together in a single frosty winter's evening for a grand total cost of zero (if you use odds and ends) or certainly no more than $3 (if you're forced to buy all your materials new).

Mother Earth researcher Emerson Smyers built his bellows using the plans you see here. And, except for the fancy brass tacks he used to trim the finished article, Smyers constructed the "fire blower" entirely from scraps.

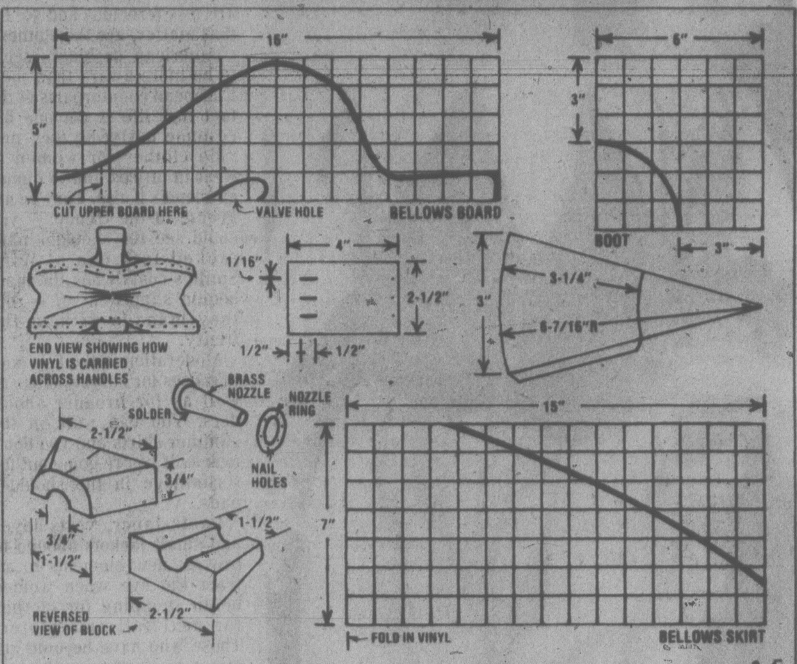
The combination handle/sides were originally 1 by 10 by 16-inch ends of No. 2 white pine, the "spout" nozzle was made from two old squares (one measuring about 2 by 2 inches and the other approximately 3½ by 3½ inches) of "dead soft, 16 oz./sq. ft." copper, and the flexible parts of the device were cut from the vinyl covering of a junked davenport that Smyers found abandoned alongside a mountain road.

Construction was easy. First, Smyers cut the two "ace of spades" handle/sides from the pieces of wood. Then he sawed 1¾ inches from the nose of one of the wooden paddles and cut the distinctive little heart-shaped hole into the centre of the other.

Smyers next used a gouge to chisel grooves into both the nose of the uncut handle/sides and the 1¾-inch long nose section cut from the other paddle. The two grooved pieces were then glued together to form the base of the bellows' nozzle.

The flapper valve (which is the "secret" of the bellows' operation) is a 2½ by 4-inch rectangle of the vinyl upholstery material. Emerson placed the heavy, airtight fabric across the inside of the heart-shaped hole he'd cut into the centre of the one wooden "paddle," and tacked the nose end of the material to the wood with big-headed brads. Some 1/16-inch wide by ½-inch long slots were then cut into the other (handle) end of the flap and one of the brads was driven into the wood through each of these slots.

You should note that all the fasteners in this end of the flap were left sticking about ⅛-inch out of the white pine. This was done on purpose to create a valve that can "flap" open and closed, but which cannot accidentally fold back upon — and, therefore, ruin — itself.



The "cut off" wooden paddle was then rejoined to its nose (and, in turn, fastened to the other — valve equipped — paddle) with a vinyl fabric "hinge." At that point, the larger piece of copper sheeting was rolled into a cone and soldered. A 1-inch interior diameter, 1½-inch outer diameter washer was cut from the smaller piece of metal and slipped over the small end of the cone and pushed up to its large end. The two pieces were soldered together and the entire nose assembly was fitted to the bellows with brads.

The "skirt" of the fire blower was then cut to shape and tacked to the edges of the wooden handles, and a small "dress-up" boot was fastened on over the bellows' hinge and around its nose. A coat of stain was then added to all exposed wood surfaces. As a final touch, a short thong was attached to one handle so the little air pump could be conveniently hung near the fireplace.

Rear-end collisions account for more than one-third of all traffic mishaps and for one-half of the resulting injuries. On metropolitan expressways tailgating ranks first in causing deaths and injuries. Yet, this type of accident is the easiest to prevent.

The six-page folder Avoid Rear-End Collisions! explains that these accidents occur when a driver follows so closely that he cannot stop or dodge in time. Also remember, that as speed increases, it takes longer for brakes to become effective.

To prevent rear-end collisions, adjust your speed to road and weather conditions. Avoid getting trapped. Stay several car lengths behind, even more whenever your visibility is reduced. If the vehicle ahead prevents you from clearly seeing the oncoming traffic, approaching intersections or traffic signs, you are following too closely.

The folder says that defensive driving also includes keeping to your lane whenever possible. If you do have to change, switch lanes one at a time and always signal your intentions.

When you want to slow down or stop, "pump" your brake pedal. This is not only easier on your brakes, it also flashes your red lights and thereby gives the driver behind you ample warning.

Keep your distance! Collisions cost a lot of money and they can cripple or kill.

RUNNING SOOTHES MIND?

VANCOUVER — Medical professionals, psychologists, psychiatrists and physicians, are beginning to examine what appears to be "an almost natural psychotherapy" that takes place among those who run for exercise, Dr. James Paupst told the audience at a nutrition seminar here.

"Something happens between running and the mind," said the Toronto-based consultant/author. "The composure, tanquility and heightened sense of well-being are uncharted dimensions of exercise."

Dr. Paupst said a strong linkage between mental health and physical fitness is readily apparent and noted some of the rsults of the increasing research that is being done on the subject.

dear abby

DEAR ABBY: When Mother's Day approaches and I see all those ads reminding us to "remember Mother on HER special day," I want to scream!

For 10 years I have been conducting arts and craft classes in one of the finest homes for the aged in this area. Lovely surroundings, a hospital on the premises, good food, attendants around the clock — but in each room two strangers who have nothing in common are cooped up for the rest of their lives in one room barely large enough for two beds, two easy chairs and two small chairs for "company." (I suppose the chairs for company are adequate because nobody stays for more than 20 minutes.)

One of the pupils told me, "When my daughter finds time to visit me, she asks, 'How do you like it here, Mama?'

" 'Fine,' I tell her. What am I going to say — that I cry myself to sleep every night?"

—SICK

DEAR SICK: All mothers in nursing homes are not necessarily there by their children's choice. Some older people need more care and attention than can be provided at home. And many homes, and the lifestyles of the families occupying them, make the addition of an aging parent impractical. I agree, it's sad. But it's also true.

DEAR ABBY: About four months ago I attended the wedding of a girl I work with. My husband and I had sent her a silver and crystal wine decanter that was not inexpensive.

Three months later, I realized that I had not received a thank-you note, so I wrote to her asking if she had received it.

A month passed, and still no word from the bride, so when I saw her, I asked her in person if she ever got the decanter.

She said she had, and she'd also sent me a thank-you note, and I had a lot of nerve nagging her about it. Then she said, "I'll return it to you tomorrow. I don't feel like keeping it now!"

I told her that I didn't mean to "nag" her, but since I had heard nothing, I just wanted to know if she had ever received it.

Abby, was I wrong to mention it to her? If I was, I will ask God — not her — to forgive me.

—ALICE

DEAR ALICE: Save your apologies. I think your inquiry was justified.

The bit of time you save pouring undiluted fabric softener onto clothes in the washer may cost you even more precious time. The undiluted softener can add yellow, grayish or greenish stains to clothes, and the only way to remove the stains is to rub them with liquid detergent or bar soap ... and wash the clothes again.

A few plums add a nice color to a bowlful of fresh fruit. But not for long. Once ripe, plums spoil rapidly at room temperature. Placed in a plastic bag or air-tight container to prevent shriveling in dry refrigerator air, plums store well for up to five days.

That jar of low-priced "peanut butter" may not be the real thing at all but an imitation or even one of the new "peanut spreads" now permitted. A spread isn't required to have a minimum of peanuts, the flavor can be artificial, but the spread must match the nutritional values in real peanut butter (90 per cent peanuts). Any spread that doesn't match peanut butter's nutrition is called an "imitation peanut butter."

Working women may be able to keep up with housework and get the most from their shopping dollars, yet too often they don't know how to manage any money leftover. Typically, a mother deposits money in a savings account for a child's education. The mother then pays taxes on the interest earned, because most mothers deposit the savings in their names, not the child's. If she would deposit the money in the child's name, with her as custodian, there would be no taxes to pay until the child earns $1,610 interest a year.

Just because the sweetest apples are usually eaten out of hand dosen't mean they can't be cooked as applesauce or for pies. Diabetics know that the sweet apples cook up nicely and require no sugar, says the apple orchard owner.

elizabeth forbes

Mrs. John Stewart today, and as a nurse in 1910.

Mrs. John Stewart (May Davidson), oldest graduate of St. Joseph's Hospital School of Nursing class of 1910, will reach her 90th birthday this Friday.

She joined that class in 1906, when she was 18. "There were nine or 10 others with me," she remembers, "and we had most of our training with Sister Mary Peter, for whom I had a great admiration."

Her memories also include nine months in the operating room with early doctors, among them O. M. Jones, Leader, Fraser and the three Halls, Frank, Ernest and George.

"They did some wonderfully successful operations," she recalls, "and that was before we had X-rays or blood transfusions."

"That started just three months after I joined the class. I was nervous but there were two graduate nurses with me — Saunders and Madigan — they were very, very helpful."

"The Sisters were very thrifty. We had coal oil lamps at the top of the stairs and when a patient rang, we picked up one of the lamps to answer the bell."

Later again the young nurse was assigned to contagious diseases.

"Those cases were housed then in cottages where the Memorial Pavilion (formerly Veterans' Hospital) now stands."

In 1915 May Davidson married John Stewart, proprietor of a popular downtown shoe store that he kept open for more than 50 years.

"Marriage finished my nursing as a professional career," she says. "From then on I was busy raising seven children (six are still alive) and in making a happy home for the family."

May Davidson was born in Scotland in 1888 at Helensborough-on-the-Clyde.

A year later, while her father was working as a journeyman moulder down in Peru, her mother decided to emigrate to Victoria with four young children.

Mainly because she had a sister here, Jeannie Petticrew, whose husband was also in Peru.

"We came by ship across the Atlantic, by train to Vancouver and from there, by sternwheeler, to Victoria," Mrs. Stewart says.

Those were days when the lamplighter was a familiar sight on gas-lighted streets and when the old James Bay bridge was in use. There was no Empress Hotel and harbor water extended almost as far as The Church of Our Lord.

A time too, when gardens of the Sir James Douglas home extended down to the present Belleville Street (about where the provincial museum is today).

"There were lanterns along the paths and an outdoor stage where I remember seeing and hearing Hawaiians sing and dance," this nonogenarian says.

Shortly after he returned from Peru, Davidson bought 300 acres of land on North Pender Island from Washington Grimmer and moved his family over there to what was called Clam Bay (now Davidson Bay).

Then, to bring in money for extra expenses he commuted, by rowboat and on foot, to work in the old Albion Iron Works.

The first teacher for the first school on North Pender (between Hope Pay and Port Washington) was Miss Fanny Lawson and she boarded at the Davidson home.

Some years later, Mrs. Stewart recalls, Miss Lawson — by then Mrs. Evan Hooson — was drowned with one of her sons when the Ss Iroquois went down near Sidney.

The years on North Pender are remembered too for the way her 16-year-old brother Tom kept the larder filled with deer meat, grouse, pheasants and fish and how on one occasion she accompanied that same brother aboard the SS. Iroquois to deliver a horse.

"The boat stopped close to the place, deckhands backed the horse over the side and down it went. I thought it would never come up . . . but it did and it swam ashore."

Another time she went with her father to the Ruckle's at Beaver Point on Salt Spring Island, to buy sheep.

"We tied their feet together and rowed them back to our Pender home."

When May Davidson was 12, her father gave up farming and moved the family back to Victoria. It was then that she and her sister Isa (later Mrs. Herbert Corfield of Duncan) were enrolled at North Ward School where the Victoria Press building stands today.

On one occasion during those years, Mrs. Stewart remembers all the pupils marching out to Beacon Hill Park for unveiling of the Robert Burns monument.

Today May Stewart lives quietly in an attractive suite at the corner of Cook and Broughton Streets.

Over on North Pender Island she still has 80 acres of the Davidson place, including the farm house.

"That house is rarely empty," she says with no little satisfaction.

"One or other of my sons and daughters, with their families, are nearly always there. And my grandchildren and great-grandchildren romp on the Davidson beach just as I did, long ago."

Three of her sons and daughters live in Victoria — John, recently retired as a fireman, Robin and Angus, inspectors with Saanich and Victoria police respectively, and Mrs. John Woodford (Margaret).

There are 18 grandchildren and 12 great-grands.

Postscript — Mrs. Woodford will be hostess at an afternoon party in honor of her mother this Saturday from 2 to 5 p.m. at her home, 299 St. Charles Street.

All old friends of May Davidson Stewart are invited to attend. "But no gifts, please," Mrs. Woodford says.

The Bridge Expert

Today's deal is one of bridgedom's classics. Sitting North was Ely Culbertson, the constituted authority of the '30s. South was Richard Frey, the former editor of the American Contract Bridge League "Bulletin." West was the late Pierre Albaran, of France.

The stake of the game was 20 cents a point! That means that an overtrick of 30 points was worth $6. And it was the lure of the $6 that made Albaran the hero, and Frey the goat.

South deals.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 NT	Pass	3 NT	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Ten of ♠.

After the opening spade lead had been made and the dummy came into view, Frey perceived that he had nine top tricks. An extra trick — worth $6 — became a matter of establishing a club winner.

West's spade lead was taken by dummy's king, after which the ten of clubs was led. East followed suit with the six, Frey played his nine — and Albaran dropped the deuce!

At this point, Frey had made his additional $6. But with the nine winning, Frey was certain that East was the possessor of the queen of clubs. And if such were the case, Frey could make another overtrick by finessing against East's queen. So he led a second club off dummy at trick three — and East discarded a heart. Albaran now proceeded to cash five club tricks, to send Frey down to defeat.

Lest the reader form the impression that Frey was duped by some unknown, I would like to point out that Pierre Albaran, until his death in 1960, was the leading figure in French bridge. He represented France on many occasions, including the World Championship against the Four Aces in 1936, and in the European Championships of 1950. And, as is evident, he was not interested in saving $6 per overtrick. His sole concern was to defeat Frey's contract, even if it cost him $6 in so trying. As has been observed, he succeeded admirably.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

Astrological Forecast for Wednesday, May 10
By SYDNEY OMARR

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Make inquiries. Refuse superficial responses. Analyze, dig deep. You can strike pay dirt — if you read, probe, piece together bits of information until complete story is obtained. Gemini, Virgo and Libra figure prominently. You will receive message which flashes "green light".

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Relatives, home environment, answers to inquiries — these are featured. Libra, Scorpio and another Taurus figure in scenario. Good news comes through call, letter or special messenger. You are challenged — for your own benefit.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Someone wants something for nothing and could think of you as target. Steer away from get-rich-quick schemes. Guard valuables, protect possessions. Investment procedures are highlighted. Pisces, Virgo figure in picture. Romantic interlude could lend spice.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You receive recognition, position, authority. Relationship intensifies. You make right moves, personality sparkles — and you could gain weight. Capricorn is in picture. Wear bright colors, make personal appearances. You win — by a wide margin!

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Extend sphere of activity, influence. Be rid of shackles, financial and emotional. Express fully and freely. Face fears, doubts and send them scampering! Aries, Libra figure prominently. Obtain valid hint from Cancer message.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Stress creativity, pioneering, spirit, independence, courage of convictions. You receive marvelous compliment, encouragement. Yes, member of opposite "sex" figures prominetly. Leo reveals secret. New friend enters your life — and could be important.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Follow through on hunch. Teacher from past repeats a lesson. You can achieve goal, but more of an investment is required in time and effort. Aquarius, Cancer and Leo figure in scenario. One "at top" will lend support.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Good lunar aspect promotes travel, communication, bringing philosophical concepts into focus. Spread influence, set goal and price. Gemini, Sagittarius figure prominently — so does the number 3. Accept social invitation.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Study basic issues. Be aware of history as well as future potential. Stick with facts. Accent on unlocking doors previously "off limits." Partner or mate has something relevant to report on finances, investment or budget.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Good news from "legal department" indicated as hidden clause is located, interpreted. Be analytical, give full rein to intellectual curiosity. Gemini, Virgo, Sagittarius individuals figure prominently. Yes, the change is necessary and will prove beneficial.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Settle family disputes. Be diplomatic while standing firm on principles. Agree to adjustment which adds conveniences, makes home base more comfortable and attractive. Taurus, Libra persons figure in scenario.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Romance, behind-scenes glimpses, intrigue and glamor could be featured. Pleasant news received concerning one who is confined to home or hospital. Virgo and another Pisces figure prominently. Be discreet, avoid self-deception, see places and people as they actually exist.

IF MAY 10th IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are dramatic, emotional, creative, temperamental, determined, loyal, stubborn. Leo, Aquarius and Scorpio persons play important roles in your life. You get chance for new start, added independence in June. Confusion of recent months is being replaced as you get on more solid ground. You start making progress towards goal.

Pinpointing the Problem

A person with a brilliant mind once stated: "There is a reason for everything. Determine the reason and the problems is solved."

Determining the reason can often be the biggest problem, especially when one's knowledge of possible contributing factors is limited.

The problem home gardeners are having at the moment is determining why some plants are wilting, some with leaves turning brown on the edges almost overnight, and others having wilted young tip growth that eventuall dies.

There could be many causes for each of these conditions, but the number is narrowed down when several gardeners in widely separated districts experience the same problem at approximately the same time.

The reason for plants wilting in three gardens was root damage. The recommended spring fertilizer had been applied "and well dug-in with a spade."

Since fertilizer is always applied over the root area of plants any digging with a spade is going to sever a lot of roots and the plants are going to wilt from lack of sufficient water and food.

Fertilizer applied to growing plants is always watered-in, first to dissolve the fertilizer crystals, then to carry the solution down to the area of the feeding roots. No digging is done in the root area either with a spade or any other tool.

Wilting in three other gardens was found to be due to lack of water at the roots. Each of these gardeners depended on TV for their information on water conditions, and were quite convinced that excessive rainfall had prevailed over the past few months.

This excessive rainfall was experienced in Vancouver where the total rainfall for April was reported as 160% of normal. Similar conditions prevailed in Bellingham, Seattle, Portland, San Francisco and Los Angeles, but not where our gardens are located.

Here, in Victoria City, Oak Bay, Esquimalt, and the southern portion of Saanich, rainfall for April was less than in April 1977, which in turn was below normal for the month.

The norther portion of the Saanich Peninsula had considerably more rain and snow than was recorded on the southern end.

In many local gardens the soil is already to dry to supply the moisture needed to maintain rapid spring growth.

You can determine this for yourself by digging down 12 inches with a hand trowel, well away from plant roots, and seeing the actual among of free water in your soil at that depth.

Insufficient water in the root area causes browning leaves. It is also conducive to mildew as proven in England during their last severe drought.

Visitors have said there is nothing on the level in Victoria, its all uphill and downhill no matter what route you take. Uphill and downhill means valleys where cold air collects on clear nights and creates frost conditions.

My weather records for the first five days of May show four ground frosts ranging from minus three degs. Celsius to minus five degs., and one air frost at zero that put a white coating on roofs before 6 a.m., which was gone by 6:30, a.m. But the time of dwell was long enough to do damage to a lot of tender tip growth on plants, and the damage was revealed as soon as the sun hit the plants.

These are a few possible reasons for the plant damage reported over the past two weeks. Since there is a reason for everything, one of these may have caused the damage to plants in your garden.

HOW TO WRITE A GOOD CLASSIFIED ACTION AD

1—IT'S BEST to start your ad with the name of the article or service you have to offer. If you have an apartment, room etc., for rent, or property for sale: start your ad with the location.

2—BE CLEAR. Readers respond more quickly and favorably when given complete, definite information. Always include the price in your advertisement.

3—MAKE IT EASY for the reader-prospect to reach you. Always give your telephone number or your name and address. If you do not have regular hours, state a preferred time for the prospect to get in touch with you.

4—PLAY SAFE. You get the greatest reader attention by using consecutive insertions. A six-day order is best and costs less, and you can, of course, stop your ad as soon as you get the results you want. You pay only for the days your ad appeared. Lower yearly rates are available to those who wish to keep their services or products before the public.

5—PLACE YOURSELF in the reader's position and ask yourself what you want to know about your offer. The answer you give will make a good Want Ad.

6—GIVE YOUR PROSPECT every inducement you can with good copy. Classified action ad readers have the money and are already interested in buying the merchandise or service you have to offer; the details and information you give are the most important.

7—TO PLACE YOUR AD, call 386-2121, your direct line number to fast Want Ad action. A courteous, efficient advisor will be glad to help you word and place your order. And remember Classified Action Ads afford you the most complete coverage. Telephones are open 8:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. for you daily, Monday through Friday; 8:00 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Saturday. Don't allow the reader to speculate.

BEFORE THE JUDGE

Judge Fred Green gave what he termed a "therapeutic" sentence in Victoria provincial court Monday when he handed out a two-month jail term to an 18-year-old Calgary youth.

Green sentenced Donald Franklin Karpenchuk, who pleaded guilty April 24 to two Victoria break-ins and possession of a stolen 1978 Camaro valued at $8,000.

The Camaro was stolen from Ted Brooks Chevrolet in Calgary on April 16 and driven to Victoria by Karpenchuk and a co-accused, 25-year-old David Allen Rendell. The two men also pleaded guilty to a break-in at S.J. Peden Ltd., 2855 Quesnel, and Empress Pontiac Buick, 2867 Douglas.

Defence lawyer Chris Considine told the court Karpenchuk met Rendell in Calgary and rode out with him in the stolen vehicle from Calgary. Considine said his client had learned his lesson and never wants to meet Rendell or persons like him again.

Urging a suspended sentence, period of probation and some community service work, Considine said the Boulder Bay program suggested by a pre-sentence report would require too severe a sentence. The program requires a minimum sentence of nine months.

Green said it was Karpenchuk's fourth adult conviction and also noted that he was on probation at the time of the offences. While the court was loathe to incarcerate an 18-year-old, Green continued, the judge said he could see a need for direction on a community level. He said he was prepared to take a bit of a chance in this case.

Beside the jail term, Green placed Karpenchuk on 15 months probation and ordered him to perform 75 hours of community service work. The judge also said he would recommend Karpenchuk's jail sentence be served in a forestry camp somewhere. On the two break-in counts, Karpenchuk was given 30-day, concurrent terms in each case.

Rendell was remanded in custody until Friday for psychiatric and pre-sentence reports. Rendell also pleaded guilty to theft over $200, dangerous driving, and hit and run. Two counts of fraud and a charge of breaking and entering in connection with a smash-and-grab incident April 11 at International Knives, 574 Yates, are expected to be dealt with Friday. Seven handguns, valued at close to $2,000, were taken in the break-in.

* * *

A young man charged with breaking into the federal government's Treasury Board offices at 910 Government on Saturday afternoon was denied bail by Judge Harold Alder.

Gavin Wood, 17, was charged with breaking and entering and was remanded in custody until today for election of his trial method.

Wood is awaiting trial on 17 counts of breaking and entering and had a 7:30 nightly curfew extended to 9:30 p.m. only last week.

* * *

Also denied bail was 35-year-old Robert Harley Klassen, 1631 Garnet, charged with separate drinking-driving offences Friday and Saturday.

Klassen is facing two counts each of impaired driving, driving with a blood-alcohol content over .08 per cent, and driving while suspended.

Alder rejected the bail application by legal-aid lawyer Brian MacKenzie when it was learned Klassen had previous related convictions earlier this year.

* * *

A 25-year-old was remanded in custody until next Tuesday for a bail hearing after defence lawyer Patrick Sweeney agreed with Crown counsel Nicholas Lang that the onus on the bail application was on the defence.

Paul Douglas MacRae, 200 Dallas, was charged with breaking and entering the Royal Bank of Canada branch at 1501 Douglas last Thursday.

Sweeney elected trial by judge and jury before requesting the eight-day remand.

* * *

Kevin Richard Lampkin, 21, no fixed address, was charged with 13 counts of false pretences alleging worthless cheques totalling $802.31 and one count of theft over $200.

Lampkin was released on his own recognizance in the sum of $1,000 and was remanded to next Monday for election and pleas.

One of the conditions on which Alder ordered the release of Lampkin was that he not possess or write any personal cheques while the case is still before the courts.

BENNETT RAPPED OVER E&N LINE

Premier Bill Bennett Monday was attacked by the NDP opposition for not doing enough to keep open the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway line.

During debate of his estimates, which has occupied the legislature for six days, Bob Skelly (NDP—Alberni) suggested the province taking the parent company, CPR, to court to keep the line open is more political than practical.

Skelly said the government should do a marketing survey to determine if the line has potential, undertake joint tourist promotion with the CPR and look into commuter potential.

He also said Socred backbencher Lyle Kahl's Save the E and N campaign is designed to get press coverage for political reasons because it looks as if Kahl "is going down the tube" in Esquimalt.

We're big on counter intelligence.

At Avis, we put our biggest emphasis on service. We believe that our success in Canada and around the world is due largely to the way we treat our customers.

Each time you walk up to an Avis counter, whether it's at a major airport, downtown or in the suburbs, you will be greeted and served by people whose business it is to ensure that you get behind the wheel of the car you want with a minimum of delay.

Our people are friendly and fast. They'll have your reservation, as long as you've made one and they'll direct you to a clean, reliable car.

You see, we're not just intelligent at the counter. Behind the scenes the Avis car care program ensures that our cars are serviced as well as our customers. In fact, if you look at the tag on the rear-view mirror, you'll see how thorough we are.

We'll leave it to our competition to put rubber stamp kisses on their rental agreements or to suggest their customers have to run through airports.

We at Avis simply say what we've been saying from the beginning. We try harder. We always have and we always will.

We concentrate on service because we think it's the intelligent thing to do.

It also keeps you coming back to our counters.

Office Location Deplored

Responding to a question from Rosemary Brown (NDP —Vancouver-Burrard), Vander Zalm agreed the office, which is on the second floor of a building atop a long, steep flight of steps, is inacessible to the handicapped.

"We have made a decision that from here on in we will do our utmost to find better locations . . . and I'm sorry for the situation that exists in Sidney."

The minister said the office was all that was available at the time and he said other action will be taken in the future.

Brown pointed out Sidney staff are making home visits rather than have the handicapped try and get in, and she asked Vander Zalm what extra cost this added.

The issue was brought to public attention by Ken Abbot-Smith, a parapalegic who lives in Deep Cove.

He said the offices seemed to be designed to keep the handicapped out, and joked that it is a subtle screening device.

The irony of the situation is that a nearby office has an elevator and toilet facilities designed for the handicapped and is cheaper, he said.

Medicare Fee Rejected

McClelland said in an interview Monday such a system would not prevent misuse of the province's medicare scheme.

In fact, the minister said, such a system would hurt those who could least afford it by forcing poor persons to put off necessary trips to the doctor.

Dr. Eddison Sinanan, president of the British Columbia Society of Eyes, Ears, Nose and Throat Specialists, said Friday that although medicare provides an ostensibly free public service it is supported by taxes.

Doctors have insufficient time to provide proper care for those in need, he said, because many people go to them with trivial complaints.

Sidney Taxes Rise

Taxes will up but only slightly in Sidney this year as council Monday night finally adopted its 1978 budget.

The $3.2 million budget establishes a mill rate of 98.45 compared with 96.09 set last year.

Mayor Dick Leigh said today he is pleased with the budget, which he said comes well within federal anti-inflation guidelines of six per cent.

He said the municipality is able to keep down tax increases because of the move to true value assessment in January which has produced a larger revenue.

The budget bylaw allocates 46.682 mills to schools, 32.696 mills to general government and capital works, 16.064 mills to regional government, 1.510 mills to hospitals, 1.445 mills to the B.C. Assessment Authority, and .018 mills to the Municipal Finance Authority.

Leigh noted the municipality has assumed several major new expenses in this year's budget, including more than $1 million for the expansion of the town's pollution plant, $90,000 for a new waterline and $70,000 for police services.

Victoria Area Apartment Construction Collapses

The collapse was due entirely to a halt in apartment construction. No apartment units were started in April, compared with 340 units in April, 1977.

The collapse began in January in response to a surplus of apartments on the rental market. There were 292 apartment units started in January, then 46 in February, only six in March and none in April.

There were 114 single-family homes started in April, up from 83, bringing the four-month total to 279, up from 216.

There were 20 duplex units started in April, up from 18, bringing the four-month total to 122, up from 50. Row housing was down to seven starts, compared with 32, and the four-month total was 17, down from 45.

The total of all starts was 762 for the first four months, down from 1,290.

The market for single-family homes is also tighter. There were only 191 unsold new houses on the market at the end of April, down from 259 at this time in 1977.

Most of the new single-family homes for sale are in Saanich where there are 83 on the market, but down from 159 one year ago.

Gifted Pupil Plan Approved

An international baccalaureate program for gifted secondary school students was approved Monday by the Greater Victoria school board.

The program, proposed by board chairman Susan Brice, will be established at a senior secondary school in the district in the fall of 1979.

Brice said the internationally recognized program will provide intellectual stimulation and she recommended the board apply for acceptance.

The program is operated through the International Baccalaureate Office, a nongovernment agency with the legal status of a foundation under the supervision of the Swiss government in Geneva.

Brice said only four independent schools in Canada and Pearson College offer the program, considered to be one of the best academic secondary courses in the world.

"The bright adolescent student, if left unchallenged, is a prime candidate for becoming bored and merely putting in the time at school, becoming a discipline problem or leaving school in search of more stimulating endeavors," she said.

The program is blend of languages, mathematics and the humanities leading to an international baccalaureate diploma.

BERGER GIVEN SIERRA AWARD

Mr. Justice Thomas R. Berger of the B.C. Supreme Court has received the Sierra Club's distinguished award for his conduct of the MacKenzie Valley pipeline inquiry.

The award was presented at the clubs's annual dinner in San Francisco Saturday. It was attended by Sierra delegates from all parts of Canada and the United States.

Nick Robinson, former chairman of the Sierra International Joint Commission, noted that the Berger inquiry established new standards for the public hearing process in Canada.

"Berger transformed a technical analysis into a soul-searching evaluation of social, moral, economic and environmental responsibilities," he said.

Highland Games Set

The festivities will begin at 2 p.m. in MacDonald Park in James Bay and will include such field events as tossing the caber, tossing the sheaf, tug o' war and children's races.

Organizers say the dancing competitions will feature Canadian and B.C. champion dancers and pipers, many of whom have performed in Scotland.

Group Wants Islands

LONDON (AP) — The government of the British colony of the Turks and Caicos Islands in the Caribbean has asked whether it can sell part of the islands to an U.S. group that wants to set up a new, independent state.

But the answer is likely to be a firm "no," a spokesman at the foreign and Commonwealth office in London said today.

The approach from the Turks and Caicos came informally through British envoys stationed on the islands, the spokesman said.

The islanders are reported to have a $50-million offer from a Tucson, Ariz., group for sovereignty rights over two uninhabited islands—Big Ambergris and Little Ambergris.

The proposal was reported in The Daily Telegraph by the newspaper's New York correspondent, Ian Ball, who said the Tucson group wants to use the islands as the campus of an international university for Third World students.

Preliminary letters of agreement have been exchanged by the U.S group and government of The Turks and Caicos, the newspaper said. The Americans involved were not named.

A press spokesman at the foreign and Commonwealth office, asked about the proposal, said:

"We couldn't contemplate any giving up of sovereignty. If they wanted to buy some islands, that's a different matter, and would have to be gone into. But the islands are a dependency of the British Crown and any transfer of sovereignty is out. That's always been our general line."

Mesrine Skips Again

PARIS (Reuter) — Jacques Mesrine, who once boasted that prisons were made to be broken out of, was on the run again today after escaping from Paris's top-security La Sante prison. He is wanted in Canada for breaking out of jail in Montreal and in connection with the slaying of two Quebec forest rangers.

Mesrine, known in France as Public Enemy No. 1 for his history of armed bank robbery, kidnapping and jailbreaks, jumped over the prison wall Monday with another convict, himself an expert at prison escapes. They hijacked a car and disappeared.

Mesrine, in a book smuggled out of prison in 1973, said he killed 15 persons in his life of crime in Canada and France, but police believe the murder tales are mostly myth.

Police said the well-planned escape began as Mesrine, 43, discussed the Canadian murder charges against him in a prison security wing with his lawyer, Christine Giletti.

He suddenly said there were microphones hidden in the room, tore the grating off a ventilator and removed three pistols and some rope which had been hidden there, police said.

Mesrine gave two pistols to two fellow convicts. They then locked guards in an adjacent cell and headed for the prison wall.

Police shot and killed one convict but Mesrine and Francois Besse, 34, scaled the wall with a ladder and jumped clear, they said.

Mesrine's lawyer was being held for questioning.

Dollar Clipping Wings

OTTAWA (CP) — Companies building two of the contending aircraft for the $2.3 billion fighter contract say they will be unable to produce as many planes as the government wants under current conditions.

William Baker, Canadian vice-president of McDonnell Douglas Corp. of St. Louis, Mo., said in an interview Monday his company cannot deliver the minimum 130 F-15 Eagles if the sales tax and the declining value of the Canadian dollar is included in the price.

John O'Brien, senior vice-president at Grumman Aerospace Corp. of Bethpage, N.Y., said in an earlier interview that Grumman cannot build 130 planes for the $2.3 billion price. He said his company is suggesting the government buy two aircraft—Grumman's F-14 Tomcat and another cheaper plane to handle the different military roles.

The F-14 and the F-15 have strong support among pilots in the armed forces. They are versatile fighters and are considered the best American interceptors in service. They have been sold to the U.S. armed forces and several countries.

The government has asked four American companies and one German-British-Italian consortium to bid on 130 to 150 fighters for $2.3 billion.

The other aircraft in contention are the McDonnell Douglas and Northrop versions of the F-18, the General Dynamics F-16 and the Panavia Tornado.

Danson and Admiral Robert Falls, chief of defence staff, have said they would prefer to buy one aircraft for operating and maintenance reasons. It is simpler and less expensive to maintain.

The new fighter aircraft is to replace aging fighters Canada is using with NATO and the North American Air Defence Command (NORAD).

Baker said McDonnell Douglas could supply 130 F-15s if the cost of the devalued dollar and the 12 per-cent federal sales tax is not included in the price. But with the Canadian dollar now worth 13 cents less than the American dollar and another 12 per cent added for sales tax, the company would have to reduce the number of aircraft it could deliver.

Brig.-Gen. Paul Manson, head of the government's fighter project team, said the government can compensate for some of these costs but not all.

CFB Halifax To Get $21M

OTTAWA (CP) — The defence department plans to spend a total of $21.2 million for two construction projects at the Canadian forces base in Halifax, Deputy Prime Minister Allan MacEachen announced Monday.

MacEachen said $10.4 million will be spent on a 100-bed hospital to replace the present inadequate facilities.

UNIONS GET HOOTED

MONTREAL (CP) — Dennis McDermott, the new president of the Canadian Labor Congress, tried to get sympathy for the unionized worker from a businessmen's group Monday, but got hostility instead.

"I did not really know what the hell the Canadian Club was," McDermott told reporters after speaking to a luncheon meeting of the club's Montreal chapter. He said he had received an invitation to speak to the group two or three months ago.

The mostly middle-aged and elderly audience reacted with protesting noises when the CLC leader tried to explain that low wages don't always result in higher productivity or better competitiveness.

And when McDermott tried to say American wages were generally between 20 per cent and 25 per cent higher than those in Canada, he was met with calls of "that's not true."

REBATES ON TOOLS GIVEN RUNAROUND

OTTAWA (CP) — Workmen who apply for rebates on the purchase of metric tools are being given the bureaucratic runaround, Progressive Conservative MP Robert McKinley said Monday.

McKinley (Huron—Middlesex) complained in the Commons of delays of up to three months for mechanics and other tradesmen who apply to the metric commission for rebates.

The workmen are eligible for assistance directly from the commission because they cannot deduct the purchases as business expenses under income tax laws.

McKinley said in some cases it takes six weeks for the commission to send out a notice acknowledging receipt of the application followed by another six week delay before more information is sought.

Small Business Minister Tony Abbott replied that McKinley's complaint was a valid one. He said he has urged officials to make it as easy as possible for applicants to receive their refunds.

Abbott said the commission has received about 4,000 applications and that about 1,200 have been processed resulting in payments of some $135,000.

$18.7M Profit By EDC

OTTAWA (CP) — The Export Development Corp. (EDC) says it raised its financial support for Canadian exporters during 1977 by 30 per cent to $2.6 billion.

The government corporation's annual report, published Monday, says it earned record profit of $18.7 million and provided 200,000 man-years of employment for Canadians last year.

The EDC was formed in 1969 to promote export business by providing insurance, guarantees, loans and other fincial aid for companies selling Canadian-made goods abroad.

Currently, EDC officials are appearing before the Commons finance committee to answer MPs' questions about proposed legislation that would raise the corporation's operating limits to $26 billion from $8.85 billion.

Some opposition MPs have criticized the EDC for making financial aid available for sales to countries such as Indonesia and the Philippines, claiming the corporation is effectively exporting Canadian jobs because it is aiding large corporations to start operations abroad that compete with Canadian companies.

Massive Reforms Urged by B.C. MP

OTTAWA (CP) — Massive reform of Parliament is needed to give MPs more power to protect the interests of their constituents, says retiring MP Marke Raines.

Raines, Liberal member for the British Columbia riding of Burnaby-Seymour, said in an interview that one of his greatest frustrations was over the limited ability of back-bench MPs to do their jobs properly.

A former Vancouver broadcaster, Raines was elected to Parliament in 1974 and has decided not to seek re-election. He said the last four years have been the best and worst of his life.

He has all the usual complaints of an MP—disruption of family life, long hours of work, the travel between his riding and Parliament Hill and financial difficulties. He said he was $5,000 in debt until the pay for MPs was raised.

But his greatest complaint is frustration over the workings of Parliament. He said the Commons is a venerable institution, "but it can also be a terrible waste of time."

He questions long speeches in the House, which he said threaten to turn it into a talking place while cabinet makes the real decisions.

"Forty minute speeches. Good grief, the Gettysburg Address didn't take that long and the Ten Commandments were fairly brief."

He also objects to the practice of forcing MPs to vote the party line on issues they have not had time to study adequately. He said he has annoyed the government whip on more than one occasion by abstaining on votes.

REFUGEE PROGRAM HIT BY EXPERTS

OTTAWA (CP) — A new government program permitting corporations or groups of at least five Canadians to sponsor refugees into Canada for the first time is causing concern among experts who fought last year for a more humanitarian refugee policy.

Under the program an incorporated business or a group can sponsor a refugee by signing a legally-binding contract with the immigration department guaranteeing financial support for the refugee and his or her dependents for one year.

The critics say the government is reneging on commitments to refugees

Answer Left Him Cold

OTTAWA (CP) — Conserative Paul Yewchuk had a great idea but somehow it went cold.

He decided last January, at the height of winter, to ask the government what kind of illnesses are caused by cold and how many persons die of it.

With the long Ottawa winter over and the sun shining he got his answer last week.

But the trouble is he forgot why he asked the question.

"I'm sure we have an exciting story behind it but I don't remember what it is," Yewchuk (Athabasca) said in an interview Monday night.

At any rate replies from the health and defence departments said that contrary to popular belief, cold weather does not cause colds.

The great Canadian winter may cause hypothermia or myocardial infarctions, but not the common cold.

"It is a common observation that an increase in the frequency of colds occurs in the winter," says the reply.

"Sometimes this has been correlated with sharp changes in the temperature, humidity or pollution of the air, but the popular belief that cold weather causes common colds cannot be substantiated.

For instance, "unusual exercise is responsible for precipitating numerous myocardial infarctions." (Translation: shovelling snow can cause heart attacks.)

Snowbird Crash Puzzling

MOOSE JAW, Sask. (CP) — An investigation into the crash last week which killed a pilot of the Snowbirds aeorbatic team has failed to turn up a cause, says Capt. Lloyd Snyder of Canadian Forces Base Moose Jaw.

Capt. Snyder said Monday that a bracket used to hold the stabilizers in place along the tail is being checked.

The pilot, 32-year-old Capt. Gordon De Jong of Moose Jaw, was killed when his Tutor jet crashed in a field near Grande Prairie, Alta., May 3.

The Snowbirds team has not flown since the accident. Capt. Snyder said it is up to Barney Danson, federal defence minister, to say how long the team will be grounded.

Publisher Angers Union

MONTREAL (CP) — Unionized journalists at La Presse, the Montreal daily which resumed publication Monday after a seven-month strike, say they will demand space in the paper to reply to a front-page editorial by publisher Roger Lemelin denouncing the union.

Union president Daniel Marsolais charged that Lemelin's statement—which took up nearly the entire front page of La Presse's first edition since last October—was "a direct attack which will not help restore harmony at the newspaper."

The 2,500-word editorial accused activists in the Confederation of National Trade Unions (CNTU) of attempting to use the strike as a means of gaining editorial control of the French-language daily.

Lemelin said the strike was led by a handful of ideologically-motivated union organizers who want to build a "federation of communicators" which will include journalists at all television, radio and print outlets in Quebec.

The reference was to the Federation Nationale des Communications, the union which represents editorial employes at La Presse and its sister daily Montreal-Matin, as well as many other French-language journalists in the province.

The union, affiliated with the CNTU, will ask for space to reply, said Marsolais, "but we certainly won't insult the readers by taking the whole front page."

Fast Profit Ruled Out

Speculators who buy some acreage in Saanich thinking the municipality has a duty to rezone it and enrich the owners overnight are about to be disillusioned.

As part of a thorough review of staff proposals for protecting key recreation and conservation lands in Saanich, council may spell out in specific terms that it is under no such obligation.

The matter was aired briefly Monday night when the environment committee received a summary of a report from the Staff Environment Group, advocating a long-term and probably expensive program of land protection through acquisition, development controls and other measures.

The staff report was referred to the committee's June meeting for a detailed discussion.

Ald. Ian Cass said he would like that discussion to include the misapprehension that seems to prevail concerning council's role in the planning process.

"There seems to be some feeling abroad that if an individual owns some property, and council fails to rezone it in response to an application to permit its development, council suddenly has some financial responsibility to the owner," he said.

"I would like to point out that is not the case at all."

Ald. Robert Cameron agreed that "property owners seem to feel we have a moral obligation, at the stroke of a pen, to make them wealthy."

He likened the situation to someone buying a Volkswagen expecting it to be transformed into a Rolls-Royce.

Ald. Howard Sturrock noted that much of the material in the Staff Environment Group's report is relevant to a review of subdivision policies already under way for rural Saanich, where the planners want to see the present five-acre minimum lot size doubled to 10 acres.

Tree Protection Under Review

Tree protection is still the aim of Saanich council, but it remains to be decided whether that will be achieved through regulation, incentives or some other approach, Ald. John Mika said today.

The group given the task of studying the whole subject — including a draft bylaw which Mika says has no official status whatever — is still in the process of being formed: a citizens' advisory committee on environmental matters.

Mika, the chairman of council's own advisory committee, said he is a little concerned that there has been so much misaprehension in recent months concerning the draft of a bylaw designed to control tree cutting.

He stressed that the document had no sanction or tentative endorsement from elected representatives, because it was merely a proposal by a planning department member for one way of tackling the problem of indiscriminate tree felling by developers and sub-dividers.

The draft bylaw's wording was not even prepared in consultation with the municipality's legal adviser, he noted.

Swan Lake Study Mulled by Saanich

Saanich engineering officials have been asked to provide estimates of the time and money required to undertake a study of the storage capacity of Blenkinsop Lake and Swan Lake, and also to identify potentially flood-prone properties below Douglas Street.

Council's environment committee agreed with the Staff Environment Group Monday night that the evaluation is needed before the municipality makes any commitment to dredge the full length of Swan Creek, in an effort to improve water flows and eliminate flooding problems.

The committee also endorsed the group's rejection of a study ordered last year from the consulting firm Yves Bajard and Associates, on grounds that the solutions proposed by the firm would be too costly and not provide the benefits Saanich requires.

The Bajard study had recommended three large ponds along the 1½-mile watercourse which drains Swan Lake, to accommodate peak storm flows and minimize stream dredging.

But municipal engineer Cliff Warren noted that as the excavated material would have to be transported elsewhere, costs would increase accordingly.

"Together with other arithmetical errors in the (Bajard) report, the estimate for the proposed works would increase from $265,000 to $478,000," Warren said in a memorandum.

Surveyor Appointed

Ronald W. Thorpe has been named British Columbia's new surveyor-general, Environment Minister Jim Nielsen said Monday.

Thorpe will be responsible for preparation and administration of regulations under various acts governing surveys of land in B.C. and for maintenance of survey standards, Nielsen said.

Thorpe succeeds William Taylor who has retired.

Disruption Planned By Indians

Vancouver Island Native Indians will continue as much as possible to disrupt Captain Cook bicentennial festivities, the Times has learned.

Chief John Albany said today the band has decided not to participate because of the Capt. Cook theme.

He said the Songhees support the Indians' opposition to the Capt. Cook bicentennial celebrations.

Some West Coast Indian groups feel it is inappropriate to celebrate a white man's discovery of land which had been inhabited for centuries by the Indian people.

Albany said that generally speaking, his band supports the Victoria Day celebrations and will participate next year.

George Watts, a spokesman for West Coast Island Indians, said the disruptions may take a different form from last Friday when Travel Industry Minister Grace McCarthy was forced to leave a stage in Port Alberni when she was drowned out by 100 chanting and drum-beating Indians.

He said at other times the Indians may just hold an alternative meeting in the same city and show their own films.

Watts, chairman of the West Coast District Council of Native Indians, said the Indians see no reason to celebrate the arrival of Capt. Cook to the west coast.

That event 200 years ago was the beginning of the deterioration of the Indian way of living, Watts said, and symbolizes to the Indians the loss of some of their basic rights such as the right to aboriginal lands.

"If you wanted Indian participation, you should have given us something to celebrate . . . rather than these oppressive policies," he said.

Watts countered McCarthy's comment last Friday that it is only a small group of dissatisfied Indians which is disrupting the Capt. Cook celebrations by saying his group has the support of the majority of B.C. Indians.

He said he is backed by 100 Indian bands and the United Native Indians, which repressents about 60,000 non-status Indians.

Murderers Could Walk Free

OTTAWA (CP) — The murderers of former Italian premier Aldo Moro could conceivably walk the streets of Canada as free men under new extradition legislation proposed by the government, Liberal MP Ken Robinson said today.

The Toronto lawyer interrupted a Commons justice committee meeting to announce that Moro's body had been found, adding murderers "could come to Canada and stay here" under the proposed legislation.

In line with agreements and treaties with other countries, Canada wants to reserve the right not to extradite fugitives if they face the death penalty.

The new legislation says the Canadian justice minister may refuse to extradite in such circumstances.

Another section of the new law says that if the justice minister does refuse to extradite, he must allow the fugitive to "return to society."

Woolliams also said that Charles Manson, a California leader of a cult found guilty of several murders, also might be a free man in Canada under the new laws.

The bill has already passed in the Senate and Simma Holt (L—Vancouver-Kingsway) said she is "darned disgusted the senators could pass this law."

She said senators had the time to study such bills and the ability to spot bad law.

DEATH ENDS 55-DAY DRAMA

Red Brigades Slay Kidnapped Moro, Dump Body in Rome

ROME (AP) — The blood-smeared body of former Italian premier Aldo Moro, shot in the back of the head, his hands and feet chained, was found in a parked car in the heart of Rome today, 55 days after he was kidnapped by the terrorist Red Brigades.

Police said they found five spent cartridges in the car, a stolen red Renault bearing Rome licence plates.

The body was loaded into an ambulance and taken away. Police cordoned off the area. Crowds of weeping Romans congregated on the tiny street.

"Bastards, bastards," one woman cried. "He suffered so much."

The 61-year-old Moro also had several wounds in the back, police sources said.

The body was found at 1:30 p.m. on Via Michelangelo Caetani, a narrow cobblestoned street of 15th- and 16th-century palaces running alongside Communist party headquarters and just a stone's throw from Christian Democratic headquarters. It was just two blocks from the busiest intersection in Rome.

Officers went to the area and discovered the body after police headquarters received an anonymous telephone call saying a bomb had been placed in a car parked on Via Funari, a street adjacent to the 200-metre-long Via Caetani.

They found nothing on Via Funari but then checked Via Caetani.

The car apparently had been parked on the street for several hours, police said.

The body, hunched over on the floor of the car's back seat, was clad in the same dark grey suit Moro was wearing when he was kidnapped March 16 by a dozen terrorists who ambushed his two-car motorcade on a Rome street, killing his five police bodyguards.

A blue overcoat and red blanket also were wrapped around the body. It was discovered by a police bomb expert who broke into the car. Firemen who saw it said the face was extremely pale and Moro's five-foot, 11-inch frame had lost considerable weight.

FRANKLIN ALWAYS SAID HE WAS ONE IN A MILLION... AND SURE ENOUGH HE'S UNEMPLOYED.

OTTAWA (CP) — Unemployment improved in April for the first time in six months with the actual number of jobless standing at 999,000, Statistics Canada reported today.

But the jobless rate when adjusted for seasonal changes, which indicates trends in the work force, remained unchanged from March's post-1930s high of 8.6 per cent.

British Columbia showed the biggest improvement, with its unemployment rate falling last month to 7.7 per cent from 8.5 per cent.

The figures show that April's jobless total was an improvement from the peak of 1,045,000 estimated in March. In April, 1977, there were 914,000 unemployed.

The actual jobless rate was 9.3 per cent, compared with 9.7 per cent in March and 8.8 per cent in April last year.

The number of persons with jobs stood at 9,752,000, the highest total since November. A year earlier, there were 9,425,000 persons working.

The seasonally-adjusted jobless rate rose in four provinces, declined in five and remained unchanged at 7.4 per cent in the largely industrial province of Ontario.

Jobless rates for women of all ages fell but the rates for men increased.

The rate for women 15 to 24 dropped to 13.4 per cent from 14.1 per cent in March while that for women 25 and over fell to 7.8 per cent from 8.1 per cent.

For men 15 to 24 the jobless rate worsened to 16.1 per cent from 15.9 per cent. Men 25 and over saw their unemployment rate climb to 5.4 per cent from 5.1 per cent.

Ontario had the most unemployed with 330,000 last month, edging out Quebec with 329,000.

The unemployment rate rose in New Brunswick to 14 per cent from 13.3 per cent in March, increased to 11.1 per cent from 10.5 per cent in Prince Edward Island, jumped to 6.8 per cent in Manitoba from 6.5 per cent and was up to 4.8 per cent from 4.5 per cent in Alberta, the province with the lowest jobless rate.

Quebec's jobless rate declined to 11.2 per cent from 11.5 per cent while Newfoundland, still with the worst jobless rate, improved to 16.3 per cent from 16.5 per cent.

Nova Scotia's jobless rate fell to 11 per cent from 11.2 per cent, while Saskatchewan's improved to 5.6 per cent from 5.7 per cent.

Among major cities, St. John's, Nfld., had the worst jobless rate at 14.6 per cent while Edmonton fared best at five per cent.

The survey was the first taken after Finance Minister Jean Chretien announced cuts in the provincial retail sales taxes in his April 10 budget. The tax cuts are meant to stimulate consumer demand and to help job creation.

While the unemployment rate has remained high for months, the U.S. rate dropped in April to its lowest level in 3½ years at six per cent.

Terrorists Attack Hotel

SALISBURY (AP) — Two black guerrillas burst into the dining room of a luxurious mountain hotel in eastern Rhodesia and opened fire with machine-guns, killing two white Rhodesian women and wounding four other guests, officials said.

One guest at the Montclair Hotel was slain as she was eating supper. The second victim, a hotel employee, was killed near the door, first reports said.

While the two gunmen were inside the dining room, other guerrillas fired rockets and mortars at another part of the building in the Inyanga Mountains, destroying a room, a witness said.

First reports said the military closed the hotel, but later the owner, Ann Lount, reported by telephone: "We're carrying on." She said damage to the 56-room hotel was not extensive, and a conference of the Rhodesian Law Society will be held there Wednesday on schedule.

The hotel is 130 kilometres east of Salisbury and 32 kilometres from Mozambique, the base for most guerrilla offensives in the war against the white government of Prime Minister Ian Smith.

THIS RECIPE REAL BLAST

The publisher announced there was an error in a recipe for Silky Caramel Sliees in its recent book, Woman's Day Crockery Cuisine by Sylvia Vaughn Thompson, which "could cause a serious explosion."

Random House said it had recalled all copies of the book from wholesalers and retail bookstores, but added that about 10,000 copies were already believed in the hands of buyers. It urged that the recipe, on pages 230 and 231 of the Random House edition, "be obliterated with crayon or black ink marker."

A statement from the publisher said: "If the recipe is followed, the condensed milk can could explode and shatter the lid and liner of the crockery cooker."

What happened? Spokesman William Loverd said that "somewhere along the line" an ingredient, water, got dropped from the recipe. A Random House employee was trying the recipe, noticed that it wasn't working and reported the problem.

Loverd said the company had not heard of any exploding crockery cookers or injuries. He said the recipe would be dropped from any future reprints.

Feds Stealing Tourists From B.C. for Quebec?

The federal government appears to be tracking down tourists who visit B.C. in an effort to persuade them to visit Quebec this year instead, Bob Skelly (NDP—Alberni) told the legislature Monday.

Skelly asked Travel Minister Grace McCarthy if she made mailing lists on non-residents who have visited B.C. available to the Canadian Government Office of Tourism.

The minister said there is some sharing of lists among governments, but she wasn't aware of federal tourism agency getting B.C. lists.

She said she will look into the situation.

Skelly said he learned a U.S. citizen who has visited B.C. every year for the past 10 years was suddenly being solicited by mail from the federal tourist agency to visit Quebec this year.

Word came to Skelly from the proprietor of a fishing lodge near Burns Lake where the Virginian annually spends about $1,000.

The visitor asked the fishing camp owner where the federal government got his name and address.

When he comes into B.C., he reports at the border and buys a non-resident fishing licence — his only two official contacts, the fisherman said.

He said it appears obvious the mailing lists came from some B.C. government list.

Fish Anyway Gov't Tells Canadians

Times News Services

A federal fisheries spokesman said Monday in Vancouver that British Columbia fishermen should head for fishing grounds off Washington and Alaska until a question of access is settled in United States courts.

Ian Todd, manager of the department's offshore commercial fisheries division, said he expects the U.S. government to appeal a decision made by a district court judge last week.

Judge Donald Vorhees issued a temporary injunction forbidding Canadian boats from fishing within the U.S. 200-mile limit, but he stayed his order for seven days to allow time for appeal. The injunction was requested by the Washington Trollers Association and the Quileute Indian tribe.

In Victoria, Premier Bill Bennett said he has asked Prime Minister Trudeau to take immediate action to protect the rights of B.C. fishermen.

Bennett said one possible course of action is retaliatory action "to preclude such fisheries off the Canadian West Coast."

The dispute would be alleviated, he said, by a successful appeal later this week or early congressional approval of an Interim Reciprocal Fisheries Agreement for 1978.

Gov't Moving to Curb Rx Use

Health Minister Bob McClelland said Monday his ministry is taking steps to cut down on the over-issuance of prescription drugs.

He told a luncheon meeting of the Canadian Pharmaceutical Association at The Empress that $6 million worth of drugs had not been properly utilized in 1977.

He said that shortly after he took office a social worker had gone to him with a brown paper bag filled with half-used drugs. They had been found in an apartment after the occupant had died of an overdose.

McClelland said $14 million had been paid out in prescription fees by the government in 1977, a sum slightly higher than that of the drugs dispensed.

"We want the best value for the dollar spent, not the cheapest," he said.

He said a study made in the external care unit of one hospital had shown that two-thirds of the patients who were 65 or older were on drugs, some of them using as many as 10 prescription medications. Most suffered from multi-system diseases aggravated by the drugs.

"When they were taken off drugs there was a dramatic improvement in the health of the patients," he said.

McClelland said long-term patients take five to six times as much medication as ambulatory ones. He said 25 per cent of the drugs issued to senior citizens were being used by seven per cent of them.

He said a drug and poison information program is being organized by his ministry in co-operation with the B.C. College of Pharmacy at the University of British Columbia.

A recent report of the Canadian Medical Protective Association had cited two cases where doctors had been successfully sued for not prescribing the correct drugs, he said.

B.C. pharmacists also have a responsibility to ensure the drugs are the desired ones, he said, and that the patients understand the correct procedure for their use.

McClelland said a per diem rate is being prepared to repay pharmacists for this service.

The minister said his $1 billion budget for health care this year represents 25 per cent of the government's total budget.

TOWN TALK

The office of Cmdr. Neil Norton, co-ordinator of nautical events for the Captain Cook bicentennial, is pretty upset these days after arranging to have 15 young Greater Victorians and a Vancouver man fly to Britain, at their own expense, to sail back a three-masted barquentine, only to have arrangements cancelled at the last moment.

The barquentine, Our Svanen, belongs to former Victorian Doug Havers who visited Victoria in March and enlisted Norton's help in finding crew for him. The original idea was to race Our Svanen in the Tall Ships race but when commercial backing failed to materialize Havers decided to use the young Victorians to sail her to Victoria from Poole in Dorset, where she is being refitted.

On Thursday, Norton's office received a telegram saying the whole deal is off.

The telegram came too late for two of the would-be sailors. Derek Norton, 24, of 617 Battery, and Colleen Ryan, 22, of 226 Beechwood, were already on their way to Britain.

Lt.-Cmdr. Art Rowse, Norton's assistant, reports many of the young people, ranging in age from 15 to 24, had given up jobs and apartments, sold their belongings and made other sacrifices in order to make the trip, which was scheduled to end here in August.

Rowse said they had been unable to contact Havers by phone and the telegram gave no indication why Havers had cancelled at the last minute.

Kudos to Rick White, who is one unemployed person not afraid to dig in and work until a job comes open.

Rick has been spending the past two weeks helping landscape the new group home for handicapped persons at 238 Obed.

An apprentice gardener, he says there's no work in his field right now, but when he heard about a boy's club project to landscape the Obed House grounds, he offered a hand.

During the opening ceremonies of the house on Friday Senator Ray Perrault spied Rick raking the yard and went over to talk with him.

"There's one guy who really deserves an award," the senator said later.

Smith's distinguished presence as butler was included in a "gourmet dinner package," one of several unusual items auctioned Saturday at the Glenylon School Fair to raise funds for various school projects.

The package consists of a slap-up meal for 10 cooked by John Eastaugh, a teacher at Glenylon, with another teacher, Susan Irving, acting as maid for the evening and Smith, a Glenylon parent, supervising the proceedings with an impeccable eye for detail.

Carry on, Jeeves . . . er, your worship.

That master of trivia, Bruce Lowther of Cable 10, got a bit ahead of himself in the morning sheet the other day when he pointed out a rare time-date sequence.

He noted the sequence, where you can use the numerals 1-2-3-4-5-6-7-8, happened on Saturday, May 6, at precisely 12:34, or 12:34, 5-6-78.

While an American — who always puts the month first in writing the abbreviated date — would agree with this reckoning, most people in Canada would place the month in the middle column.

In that case the historic moment won't come about until 12:34 a.m. on June 5, 1978.

We aren't sure what's going to happen, but if you miss both 12:34 a.m. or 12:34 p.m., you'll have to wait another 100 years, at least if you go by the 12-hour clock.

But if you prefer the 24-hour clock, Lowther says the next moment of digital history will occur at 23:45 on June 7, 1989. That's according to the U.S. method. In Canada, it will come at 23:45 on July 6, 1989.

He claims to be giving Victoria and Vancouver-based recording musicians unaccustomed play in the Detroit marketplace.

HANDICAP CENTRE GRADS

By PAT DUFOUR
Times Staff

The first seven graduates of the custodial training course at the Garth Homer Achievement Centre at 813 Darwin will join the Victoria work force this month.

Executive director George Bate says this is one of several achievements of the fledgling centre for the handicapped, which began operating June 1, 1977.

The centre's society has formed a company, Swan Lake Industries, which has obtained contracts for janitorial work and the graduates will receive a minimum wage of $4 per hour.

"We've developed an umbrella industrial complex to help our vocational course graduates," Bate explains. "They'll all be coming off Handicapped Persons Income Assistance (provincial grants). I think that's a pretty good record in less than a year . . . being able to take seven people off the government rolls."

There was no mollycoddling for those taking the course. The hours were 4 p.m. to midnight Sundays through Thursdays, to simulate actual working conditions. They had to provide their own transportation.

The feeling of being self-sufficient, able to get off welfare, is a great achievement for the handicapped, Bate says.

"The biggest thing we have to do is to get the public to realize they're individuals, people," he says.

Contracts are also being arranged for graduates of another course at the centre which teaches people how to repair wheelchairs and shopping carts.

Still more courses are planned.

"We're looking very seriously at a gardening service and a home renovation program," Bate says.

When the centre first opened it was being used by 70 members of Arbutus Crafts. Now, a variety of organizations and individuals find what they're needing through the centre's services.

Bate estimates 650 people use the centre each month, representing 13,500 client hours per month.

The needs of the individual are stressed. Each person using the centre signs a contract between himself or herself and the centre. Rather than trying to get them to enter established programs, the emphasis is on what the individual wants.

Pat Andrews welds together a broken shopping cart

One man, as an example, signed up to learn how to play bridge.

"That's the guts of the centre," Bate says. "It's what he or she wants and if we fail, and all of us do at some time, we take that failure and build on it."

Community support is also rallying for the centre. Last fall, as an example, the Victoria Cosmos Club donated $10,000 for kitchen equipment and other necessities.

The centre's grounds will soon be developed and landscaped with raised flower beds that can be tended by the handicapped.

Xerox of Canada will donate money to buy materials for a large "ferris wheel" which the handicapped can use to swing from one point to the next as they garden. Victoria employees of the company will build it. Members of the Saanich Kiwanis Club have volunteered to help landscape the grounds on Saturday afternoons. This will save an estimated $30,000 in landscaping costs.

"We've doubled what we expected to do, we've moved a lot faster — much quicker than I thought we could . . . but we still have a long way to go," says Bates.

Loto Sales 'Unreal' Across City

"We're sold out, completely sold out," said a spokesman for Howell and Currie Inc., the Vancouver Island distributor for the tickets.

"We sold all of our 39,000 tickets for the June 9 draw. We ordered 2,000 more and sold them in a single day. They're gone."

The chartered banks, who also sell the tickets, tell the same story.

"We're sold out in all our branches," a spokesman for Scotiabank said. "Our Vancouver office is trying to get more but I don't know whether we will get them. It's unreal. Normally the bank staff buys up some of the extra ones at the end but there is none for us this time."

There are two reasons for the big sale: the instant prizes plus the Mother's Day bonus.

There is an early bird draw Friday (two day's before Mother's Day) which encouraged people to buy early to get two chances to win. The final draw is June 9.

In additon, lottery ticket salesmen say buyers are intrigued by the instant prizes — $500, $100, $50, $20 or a bonus ticket in some of the Loto Canada packages.

"It is the game, more than the money," one salesman said. "If they win $20 they immediately buy two more tickets to see what they will win in the next packages."

All sellers are waiting for a decision from Loto Canada about whether they will release more tickets for the June 9 draw. Normally the Monreal lottery office invites people to write in, but the invitation has not been issued this time.

Meanwhile, buyers are also lining up to get in on the bonus prizes for the May 17 Express lottery.

When the last bonus draw was made three months ago, the tickets were sold out two days before the drawing date.

This time the Express is taking no chances and is making as many as 2 million tickets available in British Columbia. Normally the sale is just above 1 million.

Trio Charged In Taxi Holdup

Two women and a man have been charged with robbing a 35-year-old cab driver in Colwood early Monday.

Delores Isobel Granfield, 23, 1843 Island Highway, Kathryn Eileen Piercy, 23, and Frank Woodrow Richards, 31, both of 2211 Shelbourne, were remanded to Friday after appearing in provincial court today.

The women were released in their own recognizance in the sum of $2,500. Richards was held in custody.

The three were arrested within four hours after C&C Taxi driver Shingari Sunner reported being robbed.

Sunner told police he was driving three persons from downtown Victoria to the Colwood Inn at about 2:30 a.m. when they told him to pull off on Ocean Boulevard.

While a man and one of the women grabbed him from behind, the other woman in the front seat yanked out the radio receiver and hit him in the mouth with it.

"They tried to really kill me," said Sunner, who came to Canada from the Punjab in 1970 and has driven cab for C&C since 1976.

Sunner said they hauled him out of the cab, rolled him down an embankment and rifled his jacket pocket which contained about $65. He managed to take the keys to the cab and some other money he was carrying and hide them in the grass.

BATVAN DRAWS A BLANK

Oak Bay police, using the BATvan, failed to nab a single drinking driver Saturday night.

A spokesman said today 150 vehicles were checked. There were no charges or suspensiosns.

The van had been assigned to the department for the weekend but wasn't used Friday night because of a manpower shortage.

Precedent Feared On Court

A goverment proposal to return long-awaited court services to Sidney could create a dangerous precedent with far-reaching consequences, Mayor Dick Leigh said today.

Leigh was commenting on the proposal made by associate deputy attorney-general Dennis Sheppard in a letter to council Monday night.

Sheppard said court services could be returned to Sidney if the council is prepared to share the salary of a court administrator. He suggested a ratio of 60-40 with the province paying the greater share. The administrator's time would be roughly divided with three days a week devoted to court matters and two to the municipality.

However, Leigh is concerned the arrangement may hold the municipality responsible for some of the court costs and that, he said, is a departure.

"Courts have always been a provincial or federal responsibility. If we do accept the costs in any way there'll be a spin-off involving who knows how many other municipalities," he said.

The matter has been referred to municipal clerk Geoffrey Logan for study and a cost-benefit breakdown.

Logan said in an interview that while he doesn't think Sheppard's suggestion would create the kind of precedent Leigh fears — because the municipality would be receiving something in return for its contribution — he still has some reservations about its effectiveness.

"I think it would be a difficult arrangement to work under. Who would be in charge? How would the different jobs be divided? Which job would have priority?"

Vocational School Plan Under Study

Establishment of a career-training high school will be studied by a new Greater Victoria school board committee on educational options.

The school would be a full-fledged technical-vocational high school aimed at fulfilling the needs of hundreds of students dissatisfied with existing programs in high schools.

Members of the new committee have not yet been selected, board chairman Susan Brice said at a school board meeting Monday night.

The main function of the committee will be to select new and challenging courses.

The proposal for the career school was presented to the board by parent Donna Jones.

Mrs. Jones, who has children in Margaret Jenkins Elementary and Central Junior Secondary, called for a "five-year secondary school that is vocationally and technically oriented."

She told the meeting there is well-documented proof that the education system does not reflect the needs of a large number of students.

She was referring to a report recently released by the Greater Victoria Teachers Association, which states that one-quarter of all high school students feel the present education system doesn't provide enough options.

The report, compiled from a GVTA survey initiated in 1976, says 24 per cent of the 1,300 parents who responded to the questionnaire indicated they are dissatisfied with the selection of programs at the junior secondary level.

Program Eyed For Pregnant

An alternative school program for pregnant students will be studied by Greater Victoria school board.

The proposal was submitted in a brief to the board Monday night by Lorie Robinson, a former high school counsellor now with the ministry of human resources.

It calls for an education program and the services of a part-time teacher to be set up for pregnant girls who have dropped out of the school system.

Robinson said there are 181 pregnant girls 18 years old and under in the district and only 10 of them are in school.

Her request was supported in a letter to the board from Dr. James Ricks of the health ministry's integrated services branch.

22 Vice-Principals, Principals to Transfer

Transfer of 15 principals and seven vice-principals was approved Monday night by Greater Victoria school board.

Although parents of children attending some of the schools have indicated they aren't happy with the mass moves, only one principal appealed his transfer, a board spokesman said.

The board reviewed the appeal and decided to let the principal (his name was not released) stay at his old school, community relations officer Bill Stavdal said today.

A delegation from McKenzie Elementary school made a brief presentation at the meeting protesting the transfer of principal Gary Tuttle to Oaklands Elementary.

In addition to Tuttle, the other principals who will transfer in September are:

The principal of Campus View Elementary, Robert McKee, will move to Glanford Elementary; Lawrence Pimlott moves from Glanford to Vic West Elementary; Gerald Bell from Vic West to View Royal Elementary and Jack Crowther from View Royal to Campus View.

Tolmie school closes at the end of this term and principal Wilfred Durrant will go to Burnside Elementary, while Burnside principal Ernie Pollard transfers to Sir James Douglas Elementary.

The board also approved the appointment of Dr. Wallace Eggert, who is the assistant director of studies at the University of B.C., as princiipal of Central Junior Secondary.
